Thanks

I was given considerable help by many people in writing the first edition of Advanced Grammar in Use, and their influence will still be seen in this new edition. In particular, I would like to thank Jeanne McCarten at Cambridge University Press, and my colleagues and students in the English for International Students Unit at the University of Birmingham.

For this new edition, I have been equally lucky in the support I have received from a number of knowledgeable, professional, and generous people. Alison Sharpe had guided the project to completion with constant encouragement and great diplomacy. Also at Cambridge University Press I would like to thank Kerry Maxwell, Xanthe Sturt Taylor, Jean Hudson, and Anna Teevan. Drafts of the reference material were also read by Sylvia Chalker, Frances Eaves-Walton, Carmina Gregori Signes, Carita Paradis, Richard Smith. Their comments were invaluable in helping me to revise and clarify this part of the book.

Thanks to Gillian Martin, Roger Penwill and Lisa Smith for the illustrations and to Kamae Design for their work on the finished product. I would also like to thank Cambridge University Press for allowing me access to the Cambridge International Corpus.

A number of students and teachers who used the first edition sent me suggestions on how it might be improved, and these have been very useful in preparing this new edition. Thank you for using the book and taking the trouble to write to me.

Finally, my gratitude, as always, to Ann, David and Suzanne.

To the student

Who the book is for

The book is intended for advanced students of English. It is written mainly as a self-study book, but might also be used in class with a teacher.

How the book is organised

There are 100 units in the book. Each one looks at a particular area of grammar. Some sections within each unit focus on the particular use of a grammatical pattern, such as will be + -ing (as in will be travelling). Others explore grammatical contrasts, such as whether to use would or used to to report past events, or when we use except or except for. The 100 units are grouped under a number of headings such as Tenses and The future. You can find details of this in the Contents pages.

Each unit consists of two pages. On the left hand page are explanations and examples; on the right are practice exercises. The letters next to each exercise show you which sections of the left hand page you need to understand to do that exercise. The Grammar Review presents examples and explanations on areas of grammar that you are likely to have studied already at earlier stages of learning English. Although terms to describe grammar have been kept to a minimum some have been included, and you can find explanations of these terms in the Glossary. Four Appendices tell you about passive verb forms, basic question forms, quotation, and irregular verbs. A number of Additional Exercises are included for further practice of particular areas. You can use the Study Guide to help you decide which units to study and which areas of grammar to revise in the Grammar Review. You can check your answers to the practice exercises, Additional Exercises and Study Guide in the Key. The Key also comments on some of the answers. To help you find the information you need there is an Index at the back of the book.

How to use the book

It is not necessary to work through the units in order. If you know what grammar points you have difficulty with, go straight to the units that deal with them, using the Contents or Index to help you find the relevant unit. If you think that it would be useful to revise more basic information before you read the reference material in a unit and do the exercises, many units have links at the bottom of the reference page pointing you to the section of the Grammar Review where you can find this. In some units you will also find links to the Grammar Review in the explanations; for example '(see GR:B1)'.

You can use the units in a number of ways. You might study the explanation and examples first, do the exercises on the opposite page, check your answers in the key, and then look again at the explanations if you made any mistakes. If you just want to practise an area of grammar you think you already know, you could do the exercises first and then study the explanations for any you got wrong. You might of course simply use the book as a reference book without doing the exercises.

To the teacher

Advanced Grammar in Use was written as a self-study grammar book but teachers might also find it useful for supplementing or supporting their classroom teaching.

The book will probably be most useful for advanced level students for reference and practice. The Grammar Review towards the back of the book is a reference-only section which presents basic knowledge on a number of areas of grammar. This will be useful for students who wish to revise a particular area before moving on to the more advanced material in the units. No attempt has been made to order the units according to level of difficulty. Instead you should select units as they are relevant to the syllabus that you are following with your students, or as particular difficulties arise.

There are many ways in which you might use the book with a class. You might, for example, present the explanations on the left hand page of a unit, and use the exercises for classroom practice or set them as consolidation material for self-study. Alternatively, you might want to begin with the exercises and refer to the left hand page only when students are having problems. You could also set particular units or groups of units (such as those on Articles or The future) for self-study if individual students are having difficulties.

There is a set of Additional Exercises, most of which can be used to provide practice of grammar points from a number of different units.

A ‘classroom edition’ of Advanced Grammar in Use is also available. It has no key and some teachers might prefer to use it with their students.

Advanced English Grammar in Use Second Edition

If you have already used the first edition of Advanced Grammar in Use, you will see some major changes in this new edition. The more basic areas of grammar have been moved out of the units into a reference section at the back, called the Grammar Review. All of the reference pages have been revised, some substantially, and some new units have been added. Most of the exercise pages have entirely new exercises or many new questions.

The book is now available with or without a CD-ROM. On the CD-ROM you will find more exercises on all of the units (different from those in the book). There are also hundreds of test questions, and you can make your own tests. The CD-ROM can also be bought separately.

Advanced Grammar in Use

Present continuous and present simple (1)

A

We can use the present continuous with some state verbs (e.g. attract, like, look, love, sound) when we want to emphasise that a situation is temporary or for a period of time around the present. Compare:

- Jean stays with us quite often. The children love having her here. and
- Jean's with us at the moment. The children are loving having her here.

State verbs which we rarely use with the present continuous include believe, consist of, doubt, own. (For more examples see GR:A4.)

B

Some verbs have different meanings when they are used to talk about states and when they describe actions. With their 'state' meanings, they usually take simple rather than continuous forms. With their 'action' meanings, they may take simple or continuous forms, depending on context. Compare:

- The new treatment for influenza doesn't appear to work. (appear: state = seem) and
- Madonna is currently appearing in a musical on Broadway./ She often appears in musicals. (appear: action = take part)
- Do you think it's a good idea? (think: state = about an opinion) and
- I'm thinking of going in August./ Your trouble is you think too much. (think: action = consider)

Other verbs like this include anticipate, cost, expect, feel, fit, have, imagine, measure, weigh.

C

With some verbs describing mental states (e.g. find, realise, regret, think, understand) we can use the present continuous to emphasise that we have recently started to think about something or that we are not sure about something. Compare:

- I regret that the company will have to be sold. (= I have made the decision and I am sorry about it) and
- I'm regretting my decision to give her the job. (= I am increasingly aware that it was the wrong decision)

When it means 'think carefully about' the verb consider is only used with the present continuous:

- He's considering taking early retirement. (not He considers taking early retirement.)

Some other verbs describing preferences and mental states (e.g. agree, believe, conclude, know, prefer) are rarely used with the present continuous:

- I believe you now. (not I'm believing you now.)

D

We use the present simple with verbs which perform the action they describe:

- I admit I can't see as well as I used to.
- We apologise for not replying earlier.

Other verbs like this (sometimes called performatives) include acknowledge, advise, beg, confess, congratulate, declare, deny, forbid, guarantee, name, order, permit, predict, promise, refuse, remind, request, thank, warn. Some verbs used as performatives in affirmative (= positive) sentences (apologise, deny, guarantee, promise, suggest) have a similar meaning with either the present simple or the present continuous in negative sentences:

- I don't deny/ I'm not denying taking the books, but Andy said it would be okay.

Note that we can use modals with performatives, often to make what we say more tentative or polite:

- We would advise you to arrive two hours before the flight leaves.
- I must beg you to keep this a secret.

- 1.1 Complete the sentences with the verbs given, using negatives or questions where necessary. Use the same verb for each sentence in the pair. Choose the present continuous if possible; if not, use the present simple. Use / to add any words outside the space and use contracted forms where appropriate, as in 1. (A & B)

Present continuous and present simple (2)

A

We often use the present simple and present continuous in stories and jokes in informal spoken English to create the impression that events are happening now. This can make them more direct and exciting and hold people's attention:

- She goes up to this man and looks straight into his eyes. He's not wearing his glasses, and he doesn't recognise her...
- This man's playing golf when a kangaroo bounds up to him, grabs his club and hits his ball about half a mile...

The main events are usually described in sequence using the present simple and longer background events are described using the present continuous.

In narratives and anecdotes the present simple can be used to highlight an event. Often it is used after past tenses and with a phrase such as suddenly or all of a sudden:

- I was sitting in the park, reading a newspaper, when all of a sudden this dog jumps at me.

B

We also use the present simple and present continuous in live commentaries (for example, on sports events) when the report takes place at the same time as the action:

- King serves to the left-hand court and Adams makes a wonderful return. She's playing magnificent tennis in this match....

C

We can use the present simple in phrases such as It says here, I hear, I gather, I see, I understand and They say, (Someone) says, (Someone) tells me to introduce news that we have heard, read, seen (e.g. on television), or been told. We can also use past tenses (e.g. It said here, I heard):

- I gather you're worried about Ken. Jane tells me you're thinking of emigrating.
- Professor Otto is at the conference and I hear she's an excellent speaker.

D

The present simple is often used in newspaper headlines to talk about events that have recently happened:

QUAKE HITS CENTRAL IRAN

FOREIGN MINISTER RESIGNS

SCIENTISTS FIND BRIGHTEST STAR

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN HOTEL ROOM

We can use the present simple to refer to the contents of books, films, newspapers, etc:

- Thompson gives a list of the largest European companies in Chapter Six.
- At the beginning of the book, three men find $4 million in a crashed plane.
- In the film, Joan Smithson takes the role of a private detective.

E

We can use the present continuous with adverbs such as always, constantly, continually or forever to emphasise that something is done so often that it is characteristic of a person, group or thing:

- A: I think I'll stay here after all. B: You are constantly changing your mind.
- Tony is a really kind person. He's always offering to help me with my work.

We often use this pattern to indicate disapproval. The past continuous is used in a similar way with these adverbs (e.g. Was Kath always asking you for money, too?).

We can use the present continuous to describe something we regularly do at a certain time:

- At 8 o'clock I'm usually driving to work, so phone me on my mobile.
- 7 o'clock is a bit early. We're generally eating then.

F

We can use the present (or past) continuous rather than the present (or past) simple with the verb wonder if we want to be especially friendly or polite, particularly if we are unsure about the other person's feelings towards something or how they will react to what we say:

- You said that there were only 50 books in the boxes. I'm just wondering/I was just wondering whether you counted them all? (more polite than 'I just wonder...?')

- 2.1 Complete these sentences using the verbs in brackets. Choose the present simple or present continuous. (A & B)

- 1 Beckham passes to Giggs who just over the bar. Manchester United much more in this half... (pass – shoot – attack)
- 2 A man home late one night after the office Christmas party. His wife for him, and she to him... (arrive – wait – say)
- 3 I went to a concert yesterday in the Town Hall. In the middle of it, while the orchestra this man suddenly on his seat and to conduct them. (play – stand – start)

- 2.2 Complete what each person says about the news they have read or heard using the present tense phrases in C. (C)

1 Government gives health service billions

I see the government's giving the health service a lot more money.

2 Vegecorp to sack 1000 workers.

Vegecorp are going to

3 In a surprise move yesterday President Cartman announced a new public holiday on his birthday, August 6th. He made the announcement...

4 A: I think I'll stay here after all. B: You're

5 A: I had a bad day at the office again. B: You're

- 2.4 Complete the sentences with appropriate verbs, using negatives or questions where necessary.

Use the same verb for each sentence in the pair with either the present continuous or the present simple. Use X to add any words outside the spaces. (D–F)

1 a I whether you could help me. You see, my car's broken down outside your house and I need to phone a garage.

b 'Do you think Philip would be good at the job?' 'Hmm, I'

2 a 'Shall I phone at 6.00?' 'No, we usually dinner at that time.'

4 a I normally the children to school at half eight. Perhaps we could meet at nine.

b In his 1954 book, Wall a controversial view of Britain's role in the war in Europe.

Past simple and present perfect

A

Time expressions that refer to the present, such as this morning/week/month and today, can be used with either past simple or present perfect verbs. If we think of this morning (etc.) as a past, completed time period, then we use the past simple; if we think of this morning (etc.) as a time period which includes the present moment, then we use the present perfect. Compare:

- I didn't shave this morning. (= the morning is over and I didn't shave) and
- I haven't shaved this morning. (= it is still the morning and I might shave later)

B

In news reports, you will often read about or hear recent events introduced with the present perfect, and then the past simple or other past tenses are used to give details:

- 'The film star Jim Cooper has died of cancer. He was 68 and lived in Texas...'
 - 'The US space shuttle Atlantis has returned safely to earth. It landed in Florida this morning...'
 - 'A teacher from Oslo has become the first woman to cross the Antarctic alone. It took her 42 days to make the crossing with her dog team...'

C

In a sentence which includes a time clause with since, we generally prefer a past simple verb in the time clause and a present perfect verb in the main clause. The time clause refers to a particular point in the past:

- Since Mr Hassan became president, both taxes and unemployment have increased. (rather than ...has become...)
- She hasn't been able to play tennis since she broke her arm. (rather than ...has broken...)

Notice, however, that we use the present perfect in the time clause if the two situations described in the main clause and time clause extend until the present:

- Have you met any of your neighbours since you've lived here? (not ...you lived...)

D

After the pattern It/This/That is/will be the first time... we generally use the present perfect in the next clause:

- That's the first time I've seen Jan look embarrassed. (reporting a past event)
- It won't be the first time she has voted against the government in her long career. (talking about a future event)

Notice, however, that after It/This/That was the first time... we generally use the past perfect (see Unit 5):

- It was the first time I'd talked to Ella outside the office.

E

With time clauses introduced by after, when, until, as soon as, once, by the time and the time expressions the minute/second/moment the past simple refers to past, completed events and the present perfect refers to future events. Compare these examples:

- After she left hospital (past), she had a long holiday. and
- After Dominic has left school (future), he will be spending six months in India. and
- The minute I got the news about Sue (past) I telephoned my parents. and
- I'll contact you the minute I've got my exam results. (future)

In the time clause in sentences like this it is possible to use the past perfect instead of the past simple (e.g. After she had left...) and the present simple instead of the present perfect (e.g. After Dominic leaves...) with the same meaning (see also Unit 5).

3.1 Choose a verb to complete the sentence. Use the present perfect or past simple. (A) have go oversleep read spend wear

- 1 I a lot this week, but I have to get the book completely finished by this weekend.
- 2 A: Shall I make us some dinner? It's already 8 o'clock. B: No thanks. I to the dentist this afternoon and my mouth hurts too much to eat anything.
- 3 I three lectures today and I still have two more later this afternoon.
- 4 It was so hot today that I shorts and a T-shirt at work.
- 5 We £200 on food this month and there's another week to go before I get paid.
- 6 A: Do you want a lift home? B: No, I this morning because my alarm clock didn't go off, so I need to work late.

3.2 Complete the sentences with these pairs of verbs. (Note that the verb pairs are not always in sentence order.) Choose the most appropriate tense – present perfect or past simple. (C) b I'll probably have finished breakfast by the time the children up.

- 4 a I recognised her the moment I her laugh.
b I'll tell you what time we're coming the moment I from Frank.

3.4 Here are some extracts from a television news report. Choose the more appropriate tense – present perfect or past simple – for the verbs given. (B & D)

- 1 In tonight's World Cup match, France are currently beating Germany 2–1 with five minutes of the match to go. If the score remains the same it will be the first time Germany (lose) to France since 1998.
- 2 The Victoria Hospital in Milltown (close) to new patients after more cases of food poisoning. Three elderly patients (die) last week in the outbreak.
- 3 In last night's final Mark Peters (defeat) Ed Myers in three sets. It was the first time in six attempts that Peters (beat) the world champion.
- 4 Nearly 600 laptops (steal) from Ministry of Defence staff over the past five years. However, a spokesperson (insist) that there had been no security problems as none of the computers (hold) secret information.

Past continuous and past simple

A

When we talk about two events or activities that went on over the same period of past time, we can often use the past continuous or the past simple for both:

- Sally was reading to the children while Kevin was washing up. (or ...read...washed up.)

Using the past continuous emphasises that the event or activity ('was reading') was in progress during the past period of time ('while Kevin was washing up'). Compare:

- When I was learning/ learned to drive I was living with my parents.

Was learning emphasises that the activity was in progress ('I had lessons during this time') and learned emphasises completion ('I passed my test during this time').

When we talk about two or more past completed events that followed one another, we use the past simple, not the past continuous, for both (see also Unit 5C):

- She got up when the alarm clock went off.
- He jumped out of bed and ran to see who the parcel was for.

B

We usually use the past simple rather than the past continuous to talk about repeated past actions:

- We went to Spain three times last year.
- Did you drive past her house every day?

However, we can use the past continuous, particularly in spoken English, when we want to emphasise that repeated actions went on for a limited and temporary period of past time:

- When Carlo was in hospital, we were visiting him twice a day. (or ...we visited...)
- To lose weight before the race, I wasn't eating any sweets or biscuits for weeks.
(or ...I didn't eat...) or to talk about something that happened surprisingly often:

- Last week I was having to bring work home every night to get it all done. (or ...had...)
- When the builders were here I was making them cups of tea all the time. (or ...made...)

C

We often use the past simple in a narrative (e.g. a report or a story) to talk about a single complete past event and the past continuous to describe the situation that existed at the time. The event might have interrupted the situation, or happened while the situation was in progress:

- Erika dropped her bag while she was getting into her car.
- She was shaking with anger as she left the hotel.

D

We can use either the past continuous or past simple (or past perfect; see Unit 5E) to talk about things we intended to do but didn't:

- We were meaning to call in and see you, but Jane wasn't feeling well. (or We meant...)

Other verbs used like this include: consider + -ing; expect to; hope to; intend to; plan to/on + -ing; think about + -ing/of + -ing; want to. These verbs (with the exception of mean and expect) and wonder about can also be used with the present and past continuous to report what we might do in the future. The past continuous is less definite than the present continuous:

- I was thinking of going down to London next weekend, but it depends how much money I've got. (less definite than I'm thinking of going...)
- We were wondering about inviting Kay over tomorrow. (less definite than We're wondering about...)

- 4.3 Complete this text with either the past simple or the past continuous form of the verbs in brackets. Where alternatives are possible, think about any difference in meaning. (A-C)

I'd just finished paying for my clock and as I (3) (turn) round, an elderly woman (4) (slowly put) a silver plate into a bag that she (5) (carry). Then she (6) (walk) over to another part of the shop and (7) (pick up) an expensive-looking watch a number of times. Unfortunately for her, two police officers (15) (walk) past just at that moment and she (16) (run) straight into them.

Past perfect and past simple

A

When we give an account of a sequence of past events we usually put these events in chronological order using the past simple. If we want to refer to an event out of order – that is, an event which happened before the last event in the sequence we have written or spoken about – we can use the past perfect. Study the use of the past perfect and past simple in the text on the right:

Don José was a wealthy Cuban landowner who emigrated to Mexico in 1959. The agricultural reforms had begun a few months before this. He moved again in 1965 and made his home in the United States. He had made his fortune in growing sugar cane as a young man in Cuba, and he brought his expertise to his new home.

|-----------------------------|---|
| Order of events: | 1 made fortune 2 reforms began 3 emigrated to Mexico 4 moved to U.S. |
| Order events are mentioned: | 1 emigrated to Mexico 2 reforms had begun (out of order) 3 moved to U.S. 4 had made fortune (out of order) |

When we understand that we are talking about events before another past event, we don't have to continue using the past perfect:

- We bought a new car last month. We'd driven my parents' old car for ages, but it started (or had started) to fall apart. We put (or had put) a new engine in it, but that didn't solve (or hadn't solved) the problems we were having.

C

If the order of past events is clear from the context (for example, if time expressions make the order clear) we can often use either the past perfect or the past simple:

- After Ivan had finished reading, he put out the light. (or ...Ivan finished...)
- They were given help and advice before they had made the decision. (or ...they made...)
- The two leaders agreed to meet, even though earlier talks had failed to reach an agreement. (or ...talks failed...)

D

The past perfect is often used in reporting what was originally said or thought in the present perfect or past simple (see also Unit 35):

| Talking about a past event | Reporting this past event |
|--|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> 'I have met him before.' <input type="checkbox"/> 'The village hasn't changed much.' | <input type="checkbox"/> I was sure that I had met him before. (not ...I met him...) <input type="checkbox"/> On my last visit to Wixton I found that the village hadn't changed much. (not ...the village didn't change...) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 'Smithers drowned in the recent floods.' <input type="checkbox"/> 'She stole the watch.' | <input type="checkbox"/> Police were convinced Smithers had drowned in the recent floods. (or ...drowned...) <input type="checkbox"/> She admitted that she had stolen the watch. (or ...stole...) |

We can use either the past perfect or past simple (and often past continuous and past perfect continuous; see Units 4 and 7) when we talk about things that we intended to do, but didn't or won't now do in the future:

- I had hoped to visit the gallery before I left Florence, but it's closed on Sundays. (or I hoped..., I was hoping..., I had been hoping...)
- Bill planned to retire at 60, but we have persuaded him to stay for a few more years. (or Bill had planned..., Bill was planning..., Bill had been planning...)

Other verbs used like this include: consider + -ing; expect to; intend to; mean to; think about + ing/of + -ing; want to.

- 5.1 A number of the events in the text are listed on the right. List the events (i) in the order in which they occurred (or were thought to occur), and (ii) the order in which they are mentioned. Comparing these two lists, consider why the past perfect was used where it is marked. (A & B)

From an account of how a house was bought

When I first saw the old house I had just moved to the area. It had been empty for about a year and was beginning to need some repairs, but the house was exactly what I wanted. But by the time I had put together enough money I learnt that a property developer had bought it and planned to turn it into a hotel. Six months later I had nearly given up hope of finding anywhere to live in the village when I heard that the house was for sale again. The property developer had decided to invest his money in a new housing development on the edge of the village. I bought the house immediately and I've lived there happily ever since.

Present perfect continuous and present perfect

A

We use the present perfect continuous to express the idea of an activity (a task, piece of work, etc.) in progress until recently or until the time of speaking:

- Have you been working in the garden all day? You look exhausted.
- She's been writing the book since she was in her twenties and at last it's finished.

Notice that we often use time expressions to say how long the activity has been in progress.

We don't use the present perfect continuous with verbs such as belong, know, (dis)like, and understand that describe unchanging states:

- Have you known each other long? (not Have you been knowing...)
- I haven't liked ice cream since I ate too much and was sick. (not I haven't been liking...)

When we talk about situations (general characteristics or circumstances) that exist until the present we often use either the present perfect or present perfect continuous:

- 'Where's Dr Owen's office?' 'Sorry, I don't know. I haven't been working here for long.' (or I haven't worked here for long. Present perfect continuous emphasises the activity of working; present perfect emphasises the state of having a job.)
- We've been looking forward to this holiday for ages. (or We've looked forward to... . Present perfect continuous emphasises a mental process; present perfect emphasises a mental state.)

B

We often use the present perfect or the present perfect continuous to talk about something that has recently finished if we can still see its results. However, we generally use the present perfect continuous with verbs that suggest extended or repeated activity. Compare:

- He's broken his finger and is in a lot of pain. (not He's been breaking...) and
- He's been playing football all afternoon and needs a shower! (more likely than He's played...)

We use the present perfect continuous rather than the present perfect when we draw a conclusion from what we can see, hear, etc. We often use this form to complain or criticise:

- Who's been messing around with my papers? They're all over the place.
- You've been eating chocolate, haven't you? There's some on your shirt.

When we talk about the result of circumstances or an activity, we use the present perfect, rather than the present perfect continuous. When we focus on the process we often use either the present perfect or the present perfect continuous. Compare:

- Prices have decreased by 7%. (not Prices have been decreasing by 7%.) and
- Prices have been decreasing recently. (or Prices have decreased...)
- I've used three tins of paint on the kitchen walls. (not I've been using three tins of paint on the kitchen walls.) and
- I've been using a new kind of paint on the kitchen walls. (or I've used...)

C

We use the present perfect continuous to emphasise that an activity is ongoing and repeated, while the present perfect suggests that the activity happened only once or on a specified number of occasions:

- Joseph has been kicking a football against the wall all day. (more likely than ...has kicked...)
- He has played for the national team in 65 matches so far. (not He has been playing for the national team in 65 matches so far.)

Compare:

- The workers have been calling for the chairman's resignation. (= emphasises a number of times, probably over an extended period) and
- Workers have called for management to begin negotiations on pay. (= maybe a number of times or only once.)

- 6.1 Complete the sentences with appropriate verbs, using the same one for each sentence in the pair. Use the present perfect in one sentence and the present perfect continuous in the other. Use negative forms where appropriate. (A–C)

- 6.2 The government has just announced that it is cutting the money it gives to the Influenza Research Centre. Complete these texts about it with an appropriate form of the verb given. Use the present perfect continuous if possible; if not, use the present perfect or past simple. Indicate where more than one of these tenses is possible. (A–C and Unit 3)

- a Dr Petra Adams, the Director of the Centre, talks to a reporter:

It's remarkable to think that since 1950 influenza (1) (claim) more than 50,000 lives in this country, and in 1957 alone around 6,000 people (2) (die). But over the last 20 years we at the Centre (3) (make) considerable progress on understanding the illness. We (4) (produce) over a hundred books and articles reporting the results of our research and in 1995 they (5) (award) the Nobel Prize for medicine to one of my colleagues. In our more recent work we (6) (look) into the effects of influenza on heart disease and we (7) (also explore) a possible link between climate change and the recent increase in the number of cases of influenza. It is a tragedy that the government (8) (make) this decision now.

- b Kenneth Sparks, the Opposition spokesperson for science, talks to a television interviewer:

The previous government (1) (invest) huge amounts of money into the Centre and I think it's terrible that the present government (2) (announce) this cut when the number of cases of influenza (3) (increase). The Centre (4) (run) successfully for many years. But this decision is just typical of this government. It (5) (neglect) health research ever since it was elected, and (6) (cut) back on spending on science generally. Although the government says that the cut is necessary because of the recent world economic problems, I (7) (find) evidence that they (8) (plan) this for some time. I (9) (speak) to the Minister about this yesterday and (10) (also write) to the Prime Minister demanding that the decision should be reversed.

Past perfect continuous, past perfect and past continuous

A

We use the past perfect continuous to talk about something that was in progress recently before or up to a past point in time, and the past perfect when we talk about a finished activity before a past time:

- I'd been finishing some work in the garden when Sue arrived, so I didn't hear her come in. (not I'd finished some work in the garden when Sue arrived, so I didn't hear her come in.) and
- I'd finished all the ironing so I started cleaning the windows. (not I'd been finishing all the ironing so I started cleaning the windows.)

Sometimes we can use either the past perfect continuous or the past perfect with a very similar meaning:

- I'd been working/I'd worked hard all year, so I felt that I deserved a holiday.

B

If we talk about how many times something happened in a period up to a particular past time, we use the past perfect, not the past perfect continuous:

- How many times had you met him before yesterday? (not How many times had you been meeting...)
- I had stayed in the hotel twice in the 1980s. (not I had been staying in the hotel twice...)

The past perfect continuous can be used to talk about a situation or activity that went on before a particular past time and (i) finished at that time, (ii) continued beyond it, or (iii) finished shortly before it:

- (i) We'd been driving for about an hour when the engine suddenly stopped.
- (ii) She felt terrible during the interview because she had been suffering from flu since the previous day.
- (iii) When I last saw John, he'd been running and was out of breath.

If we are not interested in how long the activity went on, we can use the past continuous instead of the past perfect continuous. Compare:

- When the merger was announced it became apparent that the two companies had been discussing the possibility since last year. and
- A friend told me about a conversation she'd recently overheard. Two women were discussing their holiday plans...
- I first met Steve and Jane when they had been going out together for five years, and they didn't get married for another three years after that. and
- Emma met Graham when she was going out with his best friend.

D

Remember that we don't describe states with continuous tenses (see Unit 1), and we use the past perfect, not the past perfect continuous, even when we focus on the length of a situation up to a particular past time:

- We had owned the car for 6 months before we discovered it was stolen. (not We had been owning the car for 6 months...)

The past perfect continuous is mainly used in written texts and is less common in speech. Here are two examples of the past perfect continuous used in newspaper stories:

- The body of a climber who went missing in the Alps was finally found yesterday. Carl Sims had been climbing alone in the dangerous area of Harz Waterfall, which has claimed many lives in the past.
- A spokesman for the company said Morgan hadn't been working for them long and wasn't familiar with safety procedures: 'It was an unfortunate incident...'

- 7.1 Complete the sentences with one of these verbs, using the same verb for each sentence in the pair. Use the past perfect continuous if possible; if not, use the past perfect. (A)

apply carry fly smoke work

- 1 a She for the company since she left school, so I wasn't surprised when she took a new job in London.
- b She finally her way up from trainee to a management position, and she celebrated her promotion with a big party.
- 2 a The avalanche them 500 metres down the mountain but no-one was hurt.
- b She took a bottle from the bag she all the way from home.
- 3 a Michael all his cigarettes and had to borrow some from Kate.
- b By the smell in the room and his guilty expression I could tell that Alex
- 4 a We for visas early, but still hadn't got them by the week before the holiday.
- b She for jobs, without success, since leaving university.
- 5 a He all the way from New York to be at yesterday's meeting.
- b When the plane was diverted, shortly after take-off, it from London to Frankfurt.

Look again at the sentences where you have used the past perfect continuous and decide when you could use the past simple instead of the past perfect in these sentences. (You may need to study Unit 5 again.)

- 7.2 Choose the past perfect continuous form of the verb if appropriate; if not, use the past perfect. (B-D)

- 1 Mrs Bishop to have children for years; then she finally became pregnant at the age of 45. (try)
- 2 This was the first time we had been to the castle, even though we Edinburgh a few times before. (visit)
- 3 She bought her first watch at the age of 8. It two pounds. (cost)
- 4 Meg James children's stories for 10 years when she got her first book published. (write)

- 7 I always it would be easy to get a job, and was disappointed to be rejected. (believe)
- 8 We about Sue when, to our amazement, she walked through the door. (talk)

In which one of the sentences where you have used the past perfect continuous do you think the past continuous is more likely? (C)

- 7.3 Study this conversation extract. If the underlined verbs are correct, write ✓. If they are wrong, correct them using either the past perfect (active or passive) or past perfect continuous. (A-E)

- A: How was your weekend?
 B: Not great, actually. I (1) 'd really been looking forward to a relaxing couple of days. But early on Saturday morning Mum phoned to say that Dad (2) had been taking ill.
 A: Oh, no! What (3) had happened?
 B: She (4) had just been hearing that he (5) had been flown by helicopter to hospital in Edinburgh from a village called Contin where he (6) had fished with my Uncle Mark.
 A: And is he okay? What's wrong with him?
 B: Well, Uncle Mark said that Dad (7) had been complaining of a bad headache most of yesterday, but he (8) hadn't been wanting to go back to the hotel and spoil the day. But then in the evening, just as they (9) had stopped fishing for the day, he (10) had been collapsing...

Present and past time: review

Continuous and simple

When we focus on an activity itself, starting before and continuing up to (and possibly beyond) a particular point of time, rather than focusing on actions as completed events, we use continuous forms:

- Janet can't come to the phone. She's washing her hair.
- As you're not using your car at the moment, can I borrow it?
- This time yesterday I was flying over the Pacific.
- Was she wearing that red dress when you saw her?

We use simple forms to talk about general situations, habits, and things that are or were always true:

- When I worked as a postman I got up at 3 o'clock every morning.
- Miguel doesn't play golf very well.
- These birds build their nests on the ground.
- The earthquake struck the area at midday yesterday. (past simple for completed events)

We use simple forms with verbs that describe unchanging states; that is, things that stay the same:

- She intends to work hard at school and go on to university.
- Did you understand the instructions we were given?

However, we can use continuous forms with these verbs when they describe something happening or changing:

- She was intending to talk to Tony about the idea, but she didn't get the opportunity.
- I'm understanding physics much better now that Mr Davies is teaching us.

B

Perfect

We use perfect verb forms to describe one event or state from the point of view of a later time. The present perfect suggests a connection between something that happened in the past and the present time. Notice, however, that the situation or event does not have to continue until the time of speaking, only to have some connection or relevance to the present time:

- I've finished the new Harry Potter book now, so you can borrow my copy if you like.
- Have you turned the gas off? I don't like it to be on when I'm not at home.
- Your nose is bleeding. Has somebody hit you?

The past perfect is used to locate a past event before another past event:

- I invited him out to dinner, but he said he had already eaten.
- By the time I picked up the phone, they had rung off.

Combinations of perfect and continuous

We combine the perfect and continuous forms in the present perfect continuous to describe an activity in progress either at or recently before the time of speaking, and possibly beyond it:

- I have been following the discussions with great interest.

We can also use the present perfect continuous to talk about activities that have recently finished with some result that can be seen, heard, etc.:

- Look at the dirt on your clothes! Have you been digging in the garden again?

The past perfect continuous has a similar meaning. However, the point of reference is not 'now' (as it is with the present perfect continuous) but a point in the past:

- When we met Simon and Pat, they had been riding.
- It had been snowing heavily for hours and when I went to the door I couldn't open it.

- 8.1 Complete this letter from Australia using the following verbs. Use the present simple, present continuous, past simple or past continuous. (A)

In 11–20 use: ask complain enjoy get (not) get on hear look (x2) seem start

If it is wrong, correct it using the past simple, present perfect, past perfect, present perfect continuous or past perfect continuous as appropriate. (A–C)

A: (1) Did he have any health problems recently?

B: Well, he (2) 's been suffering from high blood pressure for some time, but we (3) have thought a fishing holiday in Scotland would be relaxing for him. He (4) worked too hard for months now, and we (5) 've been trying to persuade him to have a break for ages before he finally agreed.

A: So (6) have you gone up to Scotland when you (7) have heard?

B: No, Mum (8) has gone up to be with him, but the doctors (9) have checked him over and (10) had been saying that it's not too serious. They (11) gave him some medicine to bring down his blood pressure and (12) had told him that he needs complete rest for a couple of months. So Mum's driving him back in the car tomorrow.

A: Well, send him my best wishes when you speak to him.

B: Thanks, I will do.

Will and be going to

We can use either will or be going to to talk about something that is planned, or something that we think is likely to happen in the future:

- We will study climate change in a later part of the course. (or We are going to study...)
- Where will you stay in Berlin? (or Where are you going to stay...?)
- The south of the city won't be affected by the power cuts. (or ...isn't going to be affected...)

We often prefer be going to in informal contexts (see also D).

B

We use will rather than be going to to make a prediction based on our opinion or experience:

- Why not come over at the weekend? The children will enjoy seeing you again.
- ‘Shall I ask Sandra?’ ‘No, she won't want to be disturbed.’

We use be going to rather than will when we make a prediction based on some present evidence:

- The sky has gone really dark. There's going to be a storm.
- ‘What's the matter with her?’ ‘It looks like she's going to faint.’

C

To predict the future we often use will with I bet (informal), I expect, I hope, I imagine, I reckon (informal), I think, I wonder, and I'm sure, and in questions with think and reckon:

- I imagine* the stadium will be full for the match on Saturday.
- That cheese smells awful. I bet nobody will eat it.
- When do you think you'll finish work? Do you reckon he'll say yes?

Be going to can also be used with these phrases, particularly in informal contexts.

D

We use will when we make a decision at the moment of speaking (see GR:B1) and be going to for decisions about the future that have already been made (see GR:B5). Compare:

- I'll pick him up at 8.00. (an offer; making an arrangement now) and
- I'm going to collect the children at 8.00. (this was previously arranged)
- ‘Pineapples are on special offer this week.’ ‘In that case, I'll buy two.’ and
- When I've saved up enough money, I'm going to buy a digital camera.

However, in a formal style, we use will rather than be going to to talk about future events that have been previously arranged in some detail. Compare:

- Are you going to talk at the meeting tonight? and
- The meeting will begin at 9.00 a.m. Refreshments will be available from 8.30 onwards.

E

We can use will or be going to with little difference in meaning in the main clause of an if-sentence when we say that something (often something negative) is conditional on something else:

- If we go on like this, we'll/we're going to lose all our money.
- You'll/You're going to knock that glass over if you're not more careful.

When the future event does not depend on the action described in the if-clause, we use be going to, not will. This kind of sentence is mainly found in spoken English. Compare:

- I'm going to open a bottle of lemonade, if you want some. (= I'm going to open a bottle of lemonade. Do you want some?) and
- I'll open a bottle of lemonade if you want some. (= If you say you want some, I'll open a bottle.)

However, we use will, not be going to, when the main clause refers to offers, requests, promises, etc. and ability:

- If Jack phones I'll let you know. (= an offer; ‘..., I'm going to let you know’ suggests ‘I intend to let you know when Jack phones’)
- If you look to your left, you'll see the lake. (= you'll be able to see; ‘...you're going to see...’ suggests ‘I know this is what you can see when you look to your left’) and when one thing is the logical consequence of another:

- If you don't switch on the monitor first, the computer won't come on.

- 9.1 Complete the text using the verbs given. Choose will ('ll) or (be) going to with each verb, depending on which is more appropriate. (A–D)

A: Sorry. In that case, I a different day with Ken. (have – see – sort out)
- 9.2 Complete the sentences with will ('ll) or (be) going to and an appropriate verb. If both will and be going to are possible, write them both. (E)

Present simple and present continuous for the future

Present simple

A

We can often use either the present simple or will to talk about future events that are part of some timetabled or programmed arrangement or routine. However, we prefer the present simple for fixed, unchangeable events. Compare:

- Does the sale finish on Thursday or Friday? (or Will the sale finish...?) and
- The sun rises at 5.16 tomorrow. (more likely than The sun will rise...)

We avoid the present simple when we talk about less formal or less routine arrangements, or predictions. Instead we use will, be going to, or the present continuous:

- Are you just staying in to watch TV tonight, or are you coming dancing? (not Do you just stay to watch TV tonight, or do you come...?)
- It's only a problem in Britain now, but it will affect the rest of Europe soon. (not... but it affects the rest of Europe soon.)

We use the present simple, not will, to refer to the future –

★ in time clauses with conjunctions such as after, as soon as, before, by the time, when, while, until:

- When you see Dave, tell him he still owes me some money. (not When you will see Dave...)
- I should be finished by the time you get back. (not ...by the time you will get back.)

★ in conditional clauses with if, in case, provided, and unless:

- Provided the right software is available, I should be able to solve the problem.
- I'll bring some sandwiches in case we don't find anywhere decent to eat.

★ when we talk about possible future events with suppose, supposing, and what if at the beginning of a sentence. Notice that the past simple can be used with a similar meaning:

- Suppose we miss the bus – how will we get home? (or Suppose we missed...)
- What if the train's late? Where shall I meet you then? (or What if the train was late?)

Present continuous

We can often use either the present continuous or be going to with a similar meaning to talk about planned future events. This use of the present continuous indicates that we have a firm intention or have made a definite decision to do something, although this may not already be arranged:

- Are you seeing the doctor again next week? (or Are you going to see...?)
- I'm not asking Tom to the party. (or I'm not going to ask...)

However, we don't use the present continuous for the future –

★ when we make or report predictions about activities or events over which we have no control (we can't arrange these):

- I think it's going to rain soon.
- Scientists say that the satellite won't cause any damage when it falls to Earth some time this afternoon.

★ when we talk about permanent future situations:

- People are going to live/will live longer in the future.
- Her new house is going to have/will have three floors.

D

Many people avoid be going to + go/come and use the present continuous forms of go and come instead:

- I'm going to town on Saturday. (rather than I'm going to go to town...)
- Are you coming home for lunch? (rather than Are you going to come...?)

- 10.1 Use the present simple or one of these verbs to complete the sentences if possible. If not, use will + infinitive. (A–C)

 A: But I've heard that they (3) (build) a new factory in Ireland. If you read today's local newspaper, you (4) (see) a long article on it.

Future continuous: I will be doing

A

We can use the future continuous to talk about something that is predicted to start before a particular point of future time, and that may continue after this point. Often it is the result of a previous decision or arrangement:

- This time next year this part of the garden will be looking beautiful.
- She will be taking up her place at university in October.
- When it goes into orbit, the spacecraft will be carrying 30 kilos of plutonium.

We can also use the future continuous to talk about a future activity that is part of the normal course of events or that is one of a repeated or regular series of events:

- Dr Jones will be giving the same talk in room 103 at 10.00 next Thursday.
- Will you be driving to Glasgow, as usual?

We can often use either the future continuous or the present continuous when we talk about arranged activities or events in the future (see also Unit 10). Compare:

- We will be leaving for Istanbul at 7.00 in the evening. (timetabled; or ...are leaving...) and
- When the race starts later this afternoon the drivers will be hoping for drier weather than last year. (not ...are hoping...; not reporting the details of a programme or timetable)

The future continuous is sometimes used to indicate that a future activity is pre-arranged. Using will can indicate willingness, intention, invitation, etc. Compare:

- Ann will be helping us to organise the party. (suggests a previous arrangement) and
- Ann'll help us organise the party. (suggests she is willing to help)

When we don't want to indicate willingness, intention, invitation, etc., we prefer to use the future continuous instead of will. For example, if guests have stayed longer than you wanted, and you don't know when they are leaving, you might ask:

- Will you be staying with us again tonight? (asking about their plans) rather than
- Will you stay with us again tonight? (they might think this is an invitation)

Future perfect and future perfect continuous: I will have done and I will have been doing

C

We use the future perfect to say that something will be ended, completed, or achieved by a particular point in the future:

- By the time you get home I will have cleaned the house from top to bottom.
- I'm sure his awful behaviour will soon have been forgotten. (= passive form)

We use the future perfect continuous to emphasise the duration of an activity in progress at a particular point in the future:

- On Saturday, we will have been living in this house for a year.
- Next year I will have been working in the company for 30 years.

With both the future perfect and future perfect continuous we usually mention the future time (By the time you get home..., On Saturday..., etc.).

The future continuous, future perfect and future perfect continuous can also be used to say what we believe or imagine is happening around now:

- We could ask to borrow Jim's car. He won't be using it today – he went to work by bike.
- Most people will have forgotten the fire by now.
- Tennis fans will have been queuing at Wimbledon all day to buy tickets.

We can use the future perfect continuous to say what we think was happening at a point in the past:

- Motorist Alan Hesketh will have been asking himself whether speed cameras are a good idea after he was fined £100 last week for driving at 33 mph in a 30 mph zone.

- 11.3 Here is part of a letter from Jane to her friend Rosa, a teacher in England. Underline the correct alternative. (A-D)

Darwin, 20th December

Dear Rosa

Hope this finds you all well. I suppose by now school (1) will close/ will have closed for Christmas and you (2) will be enjoying/ will have been enjoying a rest. It's hard to believe that Tim's already 18 and that it's only a few months until he (3) will be leaving/ will have been leaving school for college.

My main news is that my brother John, and his family (4) will have been arriving/ will be arriving next Friday as part of their big trip around the world. By the time they get here they (5) will be going/ will have been to California and New Zealand. No doubt John's children (6) will have been planning/ will plan it all out for months! They (7) won't be spending/ won't have spent all their time with me. John has to go to Perth on business, so I (8) will have kept/ will be keeping the rest of the family entertained while he's away. Then they (9) will all be going/ will all have been going to Sydney ...

Be to + infinitive

Be to + infinitive is commonly used in news reports to talk about events that are likely to happen in the near future:

- Police officers are to visit every home in the area.
- The main Rome to Naples railway line is to be reopened today. (passive form)

It is used to talk about formal or official arrangements, formal instructions, and to give orders:

- You are not to leave the school without my permission.
- The European Parliament is to introduce a new law on safety at work.
- Children are not to be left unsupervised in the museum. (passive form)

Passive forms are often used to make orders and instructions more impersonal.

Notice that we only use be to + infinitive to talk about future events that can be controlled by people. Compare:

- In the next few years, thousands of speed cameras are to appear on major roads.
(or ...will appear...) and
- Scientists say they can't predict when or where the disease will appear again. (not ...the disease is to appear again; the appearance of the disease can't be controlled)
- The President is to return to Brazil later today. (or ...will return...) and
- The comet will return to our solar system in around 500 years. (not The comet is to return...; the movement of the comet can't be controlled)

However, when be to + infinitive refers to the future from the past (see Unit 14B), we often use it to describe what happened to someone, whether they were able to influence events or not:

- Matthew Flinders sailed past Tasmania in 1770, but it was to be a further 30 years before he landed there.
- Clare Atkins was to write two more books about her experiences in Africa before her death in 1967.

B

We often use be to + infinitive in if-clauses to say that something must happen first (in the main clause) before something else can happen (in the if-clause):

- If the human race is to survive, we must look at environmental problems now.
- The law needs to be revised if justice is to be done. (passive form)

Compare the use of be to + infinitive and the present simple for the future in if-clauses:

- If Jones is to win gold at the next Olympics, he needs to work on his fitness. and
- If Jones wins gold at the next Olympics, he has said that he will retire from athletics.

Notice how the order of cause and effects in if-sentences is reversed with these two tenses:

- If Jones is to win gold... (= effect), he needs to work... (= cause) and
- If Jones wins gold... (= cause), he has said that he will retire... (= effect)

C

We can use be about to + infinitive to say that something will (not) happen in the very near future:

- I'm about to start work on my second novel.
- Appearing on TV might make her famous, but it's not about to make her rich.

Notice that while be to + infinitive is mainly used in news reports and formal contexts, we often use be about to + infinitive in conversation:

- We're just about to eat. Do you want to join us?
- I was about to go to bed when my brother turned up.

12.1 Complete these newspaper extracts using the verbs given. Use be + infinitive if possible and will + infinitive if not. Use active or passive forms as necessary. (A)

- 1 John Stobbard has written his first new play for 15 years. Its first performance (stage) at the New Victoria Theatre.
- 2 The new safety system (stop) trains automatically if they pass a danger signal.
- 3 Stafford Boys' School (merge) with the nearby Stoke Girls' School to form a new co-educational establishment.
- 4 There are fears that sea levels (rise) catastrophically in the next 50 years.

Now use these verbs to do the same in 5 to 9.

become create increase receive replace retire

- 5 Managing director Robin Oakland, 59, this summer a year early. He by Chris Clarke, who joined the company last year.
- 6 As the temperatures fall with the onset of winter, the refugee crisis more severe.
- 7 Production line staff at the Heathcote garden furniture factory in Northam a pay rise following a big new order from Italy.
- 8 Seventy new posts at the factory following a major investment by the parent company in the United States.
- 9 The recent rapid rise in house prices in the south east the demand for higher salaries among lower-paid workers.

12.2 Underline the correct answers. In some cases both alternatives are possible. (B & C)

- 1 You need to work much harder if you have/are to have any chance of passing the exam.
- 2 My sister is to start/ is about to start a PhD in Physics.
- 3 Mrs Patel is likely to become the Foreign Minister if the party wins/ is to win power at the next election.
- 4 If you enjoy/ are to enjoy romantic comedies, then this is a film you must see.
- 5 'Can you type this letter for me?' 'Sorry, I'm just to go/ 'm just about to go home. It'll have to wait until tomorrow.'
- 6 If Beckman recovers/ is to recover from a foot injury, it seems certain that he will play in Saturday's match against Spain.
- 7 If the university keeps/ is to keep its international reputation, it must first invest in better facilities for students.
- 8 Jim Brandon has denied that he is to resign/ is about to resign as marketing manager.
- 9 If the railway system is improved/ is to be improved, the government should invest substantial amounts of money now.

Other ways of talking about the future

A

Some phrases are commonly used to refer to actions or events in the future with a meaning similar to be about to + infinitive (see Unit 12C). We can use be on the verge of.../ brink of.../ point of... (+ -ing or noun) to say that something will happen soon:

- People are on the verge of starvation as the drought continues.
- Scientist are on the brink of making major advances in the fight against AIDS.
- I looked for my car everywhere in the car park but couldn't find it. I was on the point of phoning the police, when I remembered that I'd walked to work that morning.

Be on the brink of usually refers to something important, exciting, or very bad.

We use be due to (+ infinitive) to say that something is expected to happen at a particular time, be sure/bound to (+ infinitive) to say that something is likely or certain to happen, and be set to (+ infinitive) to say that something is ready to happen.

- The company's chief executive is due to retire next year, but following today's announcement of further losses she is sure to be asked to leave sooner.
- 'Will there be somewhere to get a coffee at the station?' 'Oh, yes, there's bound to be.'
- Her new film is set to be a great success.

Notice that we use due to + noun to give the reason for something, not to talk about the future (e.g. Due to illness, Pavarotti is unable to perform tonight).

Note that past tense forms of be can be used with these phrases to talk about future events seen from the past:

- It was his 64th birthday in 1987 and he was due to retire the following year.

B

We use some verbs with a to-infinitive to talk about intentions:

- Do you mean to work any harder in your second year at college?
- We guarantee to refund your money if you are dissatisfied with the computer.

Other verbs like this include agree, aim, expect, hope, intend, plan, promise, propose, resolve, undertake, and want. The present continuous + to-infinitive or present simple + to-infinitive can be used with aim, expect, hope, intend, plan, propose, and want to talk about intentions:

- I'm aiming to get to Bangkok by the end of June. (or I aim to get...)

Some people, particularly in speech and in journalism, use be looking + to-infinitive to mean planning a course of action:

- We're looking to create 3,000 jobs in the city over the next year.

When these verbs are used with past tense forms, they are concerned with future events seen from the past (see also Unit 14):

- Jack had resolved to become fluent in Spanish before his 30th birthday.
- She was expecting to inherit her father's fortune when he died.
- The new management had been looking to create 20 new jobs.

Some people use shall (and shan't) instead of will (and won't) in statements about the future with I and we. However, it is more common to use will (particularly its contracted form ''ll') and won't:

- He was a good friend and we shall miss him greatly. (more commonly ...we'll miss...)
- I definitely intend to visit Canada, but I shan't go for the next five years. (more commonly ...I won't...)

In current English we don't usually use shall/shan't with other subjects (it, she, they, etc.) to talk about the future, although this is found in formal rules and in older literary styles:

- The match referee shall be the sole judge of fair play.
- All people of the world shall live together as brothers.

The future seen from the past

There are a number of ways of talking about an activity or event that was in the future at a particular point in the past. In order to express this idea, we can use the past tenses of the verb forms we would normally use to talk about the future. These forms are often used in reporting (see Units 32–36). Compare the following sentences:

| The future from now... | The future from the past... |
|---|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <input type="checkbox"/> I haven't got much money, so I think I'll stay at home this summer. <input type="checkbox"/> I'm not going to say anything about the exams today, because I don't have time. <input type="checkbox"/> I'm having a meeting with my tutor tomorrow to discuss my work. <input type="checkbox"/> Will you be going alone, or is Jane going with you? <input type="checkbox"/> The exam will have finished by 3 o'clock, so I'll see you then. <input type="checkbox"/> There is to be a meeting of ministers this evening. <input type="checkbox"/> When the school closes, all the teachers and children are to be moved to one nearby. <input type="checkbox"/> As the bell is about to go for the end of the lesson, you can pack your books away. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <input type="checkbox"/> Maureen decided that she would stay at home for the summer. <input type="checkbox"/> I wasn't going to say anything about the exams, but the students asked me to. <input type="checkbox"/> I couldn't go to the match because I was having a meeting with my tutor. <input type="checkbox"/> At the time, I thought I would be going alone, but then Tom said he wanted to come. <input type="checkbox"/> The exam was so easy that most people would have finished after 30 minutes. <input type="checkbox"/> It was announced that there was to be a meeting of ministers that evening. <input type="checkbox"/> As she approached retirement she heard that she was to be moved to a post in a nearby school. <input type="checkbox"/> The bell was about to go when all the children started to pack their books away. |

If the future seen from the past is still in the future for the speaker, then either form is possible:

- It was announced this morning that there is/was to be a statement this evening.

In some cases we don't know whether the activity or event happened or not. Compare:

- I didn't phone to give him the news because we were seeing each other later. He was very upset when I told him. (= we saw each other) and
- We were seeing each other later that day, but I had to phone and cancel. (= we didn't see each other)
- They left the house at 6.00 a.m. and would reach Edinburgh some 12 hours later. (= they reached Edinburgh) and
- He was sure that the medical tests would show that he was healthy. (= we don't know whether he was healthy or not)

To talk about an activity or event that was in the future at a particular point in the past, we can use was/were to + infinitive (for things that actually happened) and was/were to have + past participle (for things that were expected, but didn't happen):

- At the time she was probably the best actor in the theatre company, but in fact some of her colleagues were to become much better known.
- He was to find out years later that the car he had bought was stolen.
- The boat, which was to have taken them to the island, failed to arrive.
- There was to have been a ban on smoking in restaurants, but restaurant owners have forced the council to reconsider.

Note, however, that in less formal contexts we would often more naturally use be supposed to:

- I was supposed to help, but I was ill. (more natural than I was to have helped...)
- and that was/were to + infinitive can be used informally to talk about things that didn't happen:
- We were to see each other that day, but I had to phone and cancel. (or We were to have seen.../We were supposed to see...)

14.1 Write ✓ if the underlined parts are correct. If they are wrong, correct them. (A)

- 1 I'm going to do the washing, but we'd run out of washing powder.
- 2 The concert tonight would be over by about 9.30. We could eat after that.
- 3 When we were passing Mike's house, we thought we'd drop in and see him.
- 4 'Where shall I hang my coat?' 'Sorry, I thought Dawn will have shown you. The cloakroom is through there.'
- 5 The manager of Newtown United said that the team is to be announced at 9.00 tomorrow.
- 6 The second half was about to start, so shall we go back to our seats now?
- 7 I knew that by the morning I would be feeling exhausted, but I just couldn't refuse her invitation to go dancing.
- 8 'Where's Alan? He is supposed to be here yesterday, and there's still no sign of him.' 'I'm about to ask the same question.'
- 9 I didn't phone Tom this morning because I was going to see him when I've finished work.
- 10 DNA testing was to be used by police in the search for the missing Dublin schoolboy. His parents have welcomed the news.
- 11 We are meeting at 7.00 in the Globe coffee bar. Can you be there, too?
- 12 We didn't expect that having a rabbit as a pet will cause so many problems.

In which three cases can we use either a past or present tense form in the underlined parts?

14.2 Choose the more appropriate alternative, (a) or (b), to complete these sentences. (B)

- 1 The meeting was to have taken place in the hall....
a but had to be cancelled at the last moment. b and was well attended.
- 2 She was to have appeared with Elvis Presley in his last film...

b and go on for over 80 years.
- 10 We were to stay with Vince in Lisbon...
a many times before he moved to Madrid. b but he moved to Madrid.

Can, could, be able to and be allowed to

Can, could and be able to: talking about ability

A

We sometimes use be able to instead of can and could to talk about ability. However, we avoid be able to –

- ★ when we talk about something that is happening as we speak:
 - Watch me, Mum; I can stand on one leg. (not ...I'm able to stand on one leg.)
- ★ before passives:
 - CDs can now be copied easily. (rather than CDs are now able to be copied...)
- ★ when the meaning is 'know how to':
 - Can you cook? (rather than Are you able to cook?)

B

If we talk about a single achievement, rather than a general ability in the past, we usually use be able to rather than could. Compare:

- Sue could play the flute quite well. (or ...was able to...; a general ability) and
- She swam strongly and was able to cross the river easily, even though it was swollen by the heavy rain. (not She swam strongly and could cross...; a specific achievement)

However, could is usually more natural –

- ★ in negative sentences:
 - I tried to get up but I couldn't move. (rather than ...I wasn't able to move.)
- ★ with verbs of the senses – e.g. feel, hear, see, smell, taste – and with verbs of 'thinking' – e.g. believe, decide, remember, understand:
 - I could remember the crash, but nothing after that. (rather than I was able to remember...)
- ★ after the phrases the only thing/place/time, and after all when it means 'the only thing':
 - All we could see were his feet. (rather than All we were able to...)
- ★ to suggest that something almost didn't happen, particularly with almost, hardly, just, nearly:
 - I could nearly touch the ceiling. (rather than I was nearly able to...)

Can and could: talking about possibility

C

To talk about the theoretical possibility of something happening we use could, not can. However, we use can, not could, to say that something is possible and actually happens. Compare:

- It could be expensive to keep a cat. (= if we had one, it could or it may not be expensive) and
- It can be expensive to keep a cat. (= it can be, and it sometimes is)

We use can't, not couldn't, to say that something is theoretically or actually impossible:

- There can't be many people in the world who haven't watched television.
- The doctor can't see you this morning; he's busy at the hospital.

D

We use can to indicate that there is a very real possibility of a future event happening. Using could suggests that something is less likely or that there is some doubt about it. Compare:

- We can stay with Jim in Oslo. (= we will be able to stay) and
- We could stay with Jim in Oslo. (= it's possible; if he's there)

Could and be allowed to: talking about permission

E

To say that in the past someone had general permission to do something – that is, to do it at any time – we can use either could or was/were allowed to. However, to talk about permission for one particular past action, we use was/were allowed to, but not could. Compare:

- Anyone was allowed to fish in the lake when the council owned it. (or ...could fish...) and
- Although he didn't have a ticket, Ken was allowed to come in. (not ...could come in.)

In negative sentences, we can use either couldn't or wasn't/weren't allowed to to say that permission was not given in general or particular situations:

- We couldn't/weren't allowed to open the presents until Christmas morning.

15.1 Underline the correct or more natural answer. If both answers are possible, underline them both. (A & B)

- 1 Valuables can/ are able to be left in the hotel safe. Please ask at the reception desk.
- 2 We could/ were able to finish the football match before it started snowing too heavily.
- 3 The rebels could/ were able to draw on the support of over 20,000 soldiers.
- 4 Could you/ Were you able to understand Professor Larsen's lecture? I found it really difficult.
- 5 'Do you want a game?' 'Sorry, I can't/ 'm not able to play chess.'
- 6 Look at me, I can/ 'm able to ride my bike without any help.
- 7 When the fire officers arrived they could/ were able to put out the flames in a couple of minutes.
- 8 The air was so polluted in the city centre, I could hardly/ was hardly able to breathe.
- 9 I knew John had been smoking. I could/ was able to smell the cigarettes when I came into the room.
- 10 Can you/ Are you able to drive without your glasses?
- 11 No changes can/ are able to be made to this rail ticket after purchase.
- 12 He could/ was able to untie the ropes without the guards noticing.
- 13 She looked all over the house, but couldn't/ wasn't able to find her keys anywhere.
- 14 I was very busy at work, but I could/ was able to have a couple of days off last week.

15.2 Complete these texts with can, could and be allowed to. Use negative forms where necessary.

Where two answers are possible, give them both. (A–E)

We went camping in the north of Spain last July. As you probably know, it (1) rain a lot on the coast, even in mid-summer, and the day we arrived we (2) believe how heavy the rain was. Eventually we found a place to camp, in a field next to a beach. We had a new tent – the advertisement for it said, 'This tent (3) be assembled in two minutes with no previous experience.' What a joke! Now, there (4) be many people who haven't had difficulty putting up a tent at some time, but it took us more than two hours. And then, just as it was finished, a man came along and said that we (5) camp there – it was private property. So we had to take the tent down again. Then Sue just said, 'Well, we (6) stay here all night. Let's go to that hotel in the last village we drove through.' Unfortunately, when we got there they were full. But they were very kind and we (7) camp at the end of their garden!

b

It is often said that sports coaches (1) be strict, but athlete Peter Black's was incredibly hard on him in the year before the Olympic Games. For instance, Peter (2) stay up later than 9.00, although on his birthday he (3) watch television until 10.00 as it was a special occasion! Of course, all Peter (4) think of was going out with his friends in the evening, and he (5) hardly wait for the Games to finish and get back to a normal life. When he complained, his coach just said, 'Trust me and you'll win gold – you (6) lose!' And his coach was right. He won a gold medal in the 400 metres in a world record time. And on the night of his victory Peter (7) celebrate – by staying up until 11 o'clock! 'But no later,' said his coach. 'The World Championships are only two years away.'

will, would and used to

We can use will (for the present) and would (for the past) to talk about characteristic behaviour or habits:

- Every day Dan will come home from work and turn on the TV.
- At school she would always sit quietly and pay attention.

and about things that are or were always true:

- Cold weather will kill certain plants.
- During the war, people would eat all kinds of things that we don't eat now.

(For the use of will to talk about the future, see Unit 9.)

We don't use will or would in this way to talk about a particular occasion. Compare:

- Each time I gave him a problem he would solve it for me. and
- Last night I gave him a problem and he solved it for me. (not Last night I gave him a problem and he would solve it for me.)

However, we can use will not (won't) and would not (wouldn't) in either case. Compare:

- He would/wouldn't walk the 5 miles to his place of work. (characteristic behaviour) and
- She wouldn't say what was wrong when I asked her.

B

In speech, we can stress will or would to criticise people's characteristic behaviour or habits. It often suggests that criticisms have been made before but ignored:

- She just won't do the washing up when I ask her.
- I was happy when Sam left. He would talk about people behind their backs.

We can also criticise a person directly or express disapproval of something they have done or do regularly using will:

- 'I feel sick.' 'Well, if you will eat so much, I'm not surprised.' (indicating disapproval)

C

We can use use will to draw conclusions or state assumptions about things that are the case now (see also Unit 9B):

- Jack will be at home by now. Let's go and see him.
- You will know that John and Sandra are engaged. (= I believe you already know)

D

When we talk about repeated events in the past that don't happen now we can use either would or used to + infinitive. However, we can use would only if the time reference is clear. Compare:

- We used to play in the garden. (not We would play...; time reference not given) and
- Whenever we went to my uncle's house, we would/use to play in the garden.

We can use used to but not would when we talk about past states that have changed:

- The factory used to be over there. Didn't you use to smoke at university?

We don't use either used to or would when we say exactly how many times in total something happened, how long something took, or that a single event happened at a given past time:

- We visited Switzerland four times during the 1970s. (not We would/use to visit...)
- She went to Jamaica last month. (not She would/use to go to Jamaica last month.)

E

To talk about an unreal past situation – that is, an imaginary situation or a situation that might have happened in the past, but didn't – we use would have + past participle:

- I would have been happy to see him, but I didn't have time.
- My grandmother wouldn't have approved of the exhibition.

However, when we want to indicate that we think a past situation actually happened, we prefer will have + past participle:

- As you will have noticed, he's got new glasses. (rather than ...would have noticed...)
- Most people won't have seen last night's lunar eclipse. (rather than ...wouldn't have seen...)

- 16.1 If possible, complete these sentences with will (or won't) or would (or wouldn't) followed by one of these verbs. If it is not possible to use will or would, use a verb in the past simple. (A & C) come decide eat help invite keep remember

- 6 Whenever I had a problem with my maths homework, Sam me.
- 7 After standing on the bathroom scales, I that I needed to lose some weight.

- 16.2 If necessary, correct these sentences using would or used to. If neither would nor used to is correct, use a past simple verb form. (D)

- 1 I would enjoy studying Latin when I was at school.
- 2 Orwell would spend winters in Spain and summers in England.
- 3 We would live in a bungalow on the south coast, and then we moved to a flat in London.
- 4 You used to teach at Halston University, didn't you?
- 5 On Saturdays and Sundays the ferry used to take tourists across to the island.
- 6 The committee would meet four times last week, but still no decision has been reached.

- 16.3 Complete these sentences with will have or would have and the past participle of one of these verbs. (E)

'I think I'm putting on weight.' 'Well, if you will ,'

'I've got a headache.' 'Well, if you will ,'

'I'm really hot.' 'Well, if you will ,'

May and might: possibility

A

May and might often have a similar meaning when we talk about possibility. However, we prefer may in academic or formal language to talk about the characteristics or behaviour of something:

The seeds from the plant may grow up to 20 centimetres in length.
and in speech we prefer might to say what we will possibly do in the future:

I might paint the kitchen purple.

B

We don't use may to ask questions about the possibility of something happening. Instead we use, for example, could(n't) or the phrase be likely:

Could it be that you don't want to leave? (not May it be that you ...?)
 Are you likely to be in Spain again this summer? (not May you be in Spain...?)

It is possible to use might in this type of question, but it is rather formal:

Might they be persuaded to change their minds?

Note that we can use may in formally asking for permission and offering help:

May I leave now? May I help you?

C

Might (not 'may') + bare infinitive is sometimes used to talk about what was typically the case in the past. This is a formal or literary use:

During the war, the police might arrest you for criticising the king.
 Years ago children might be sent down mines at the age of six. (passive form)

We can also use could + bare infinitive in examples like this to talk about past ability (see Unit 15). For example, 'During the war, the police could arrest you...' means that the police were legally able to arrest you.

D

When we say that a person or thing compensates to some extent for a limitation or weakness by having another characteristic, we can use a pattern with may/might not + bare infinitive...but... or may/might not have + past participle...but...:

The painting may not be a masterpiece, but you've got to admit that the colours are striking.
 She might not have danced very gracefully, but she had a lot of energy and enthusiasm.

E

We use may/might (not 'can') + have+ past participle and may/might (not 'can') + be + -ing to talk about possible events in the past, present and future:

Do you think Jean may/might have completed the report by now? (past)
 His maths may/might have improved by the time the exam comes round. (future)
 Malcolm isn't in his office. He may/might be working at home today. (present)
 When I go to Vienna I may/might be staying with Richard, but I'm not sure yet. (future)

Note that could can be used in the same patterns instead of may or might:

Do you think Jean could have completed the report by now?

We can use may/might have been + -ing to talk about possible situations or activities that went on over a period of past time:

David didn't know where the ball was, but he thought his sister might have been playing with it before she left for school.

F

We can use might/could + have + past participle to criticise someone because they didn't do something we think they should have:

She's gone without us. She might/could have waited!
 You might/could have done the ironing instead of leaving it all to me.

We usually stress might or could in sentences like this.

17.1 Complete the sentences with either may or might, whichever is more likely. If neither is possible, suggest an alternative completion. (A & B)

- 1 We go to Majorca for our holiday this summer.
- 2 The planet Venus be seen clearly in the night sky during this month.
- 3 you see Becky this weekend?
- 4 I feel really sore after playing tennis. I think I have a bath.
- 5 ‘Someone’s left their coat.’ ‘..... it be Ken’s?’
- 6 Exceeding the stated dose cause drowsiness.

17.2 Complete the sentences with may or might followed by one of the following forms of the verb in brackets: be + past participle, have + past participle, be + -ing, have been + -ing. If both may and might are possible, indicate this. (C & E)

- 1 There’s a man lying down on the pavement over there. Do you think he himself? (hurt)
- 2 I you this before. I can’t remember. (tell)
- 3 Is that John’s car that just stopped? He for us. (wait)

- 9 ‘When will the painting be ready?’ ‘Well, I it by this evening.’ (finish)
- 10 The race had to be stopped because the oil on the track an accident. (cause)

17.3 Complete these sentences in any appropriate way. (D)

- 1 He may not be the best singer in the world, but
- 2 Hugh’s old car might not be terribly comfortable, but
- 3 Her English grammar may not be very accurate, but Now expand these notes to complete the sentences.

- 5 , but his opinions on architecture certainly make you think.
- 6 , but the new museum of fishing is actually very good.
- 7 , but she is really very fond of you.

Must and have (got) to

A

We use must and must not in formal rules and regulations and in warnings:

- Bookings must be made at least seven days before departure.
- The government must not be allowed to appoint judges.

In spoken English we often use must and mustn't (= must not) to propose a future arrangement, such as a meeting or social event, without making detailed plans:

- We must get together more often.
- We mustn't leave it so long next time.

We can also use I must... to remind ourselves to do something:

- I must phone Steve when I get home. I said I'd call him last night, but I forgot.

B

To draw a conclusion about –

- ★ something that happened in the past we use must + have + past participle:
 - That's not Kate's car. She must have borrowed it from her parents.
- ★ something happening at or around the time of speaking we use must be + -ing:
 - I can't hear anyone moving around upstairs. You must be imagining things.
- ★ something that is likely to happen in the future we use must be going to or must be + -ing:
 - 'What are all those workmen doing?' 'I think they must be going to dig up the road.'
 - I was wrong about the meeting being today. It must be happening next Friday.
- ★ a present situation we use must be, or have (got) to be in informal speech:
 - Their goalkeeper has got to be at least two metres tall! (or ...must be...)

We can use must have to to say that we conclude something based on what we know about a present situation and must have had to to conclude something about a past situation:

- I can't start the computer. You must have to know a password. (= a password is necessary)
- John wasn't at home when I went round. He must have had to go out unexpectedly.

Note that we can't say 'must've to' or 'must have got to/ must've got to' (but we can say must've had to).

C

In questions that hope for or expect a negative answer we prefer have (got) to, although in formal contexts must is sometimes used:

- Do we have to answer all the questions? (or Have we got to...?; Must we...? is also possible but rather formal)

We use have to in questions that imply a criticism. Must can also be used, although some people think this is rather old-fashioned. We usually stress have and must in sentences like this:

- Do you have to play your trumpet here? It's deafening me! (or more formally Must you play...?)

D

Sometimes we can use either have to or have got to. However –

- ★ we use have to with frequency adverbs such as always, never, normally, rarely, sometimes, etc.
 - I often have to work at the weekend to get everything done.
- ★ with the past simple we use had to especially in questions and negative sentences:
 - When did you have to give it back? (not When had you got to give it back?)
 - We didn't have to wait too long for an answer. (not We hadn't got to wait too long...)
- ★ if have is contracted (e.g. I've, He's, It'd) then we must include got:
 - The experiment has failed twice before, so it's got to work this time. (not ...so it's to work this time.)
- ★ we don't use have got to with other modal verbs:
 - Employees will have to accept the new conditions or be dismissed. (not Employees will have got to accept...)

Notice also that have got to is often preferred in informal speech.

- 18.1 Complete these sentences with one of these forms: must have + past participle; must + bare infinitive; must be + -ing; or must have (had) to. Use the verbs given. (B)

- 1 When I left my laptop on the train I thought I'd never see it again. But someone it and handed it in to the lost property office. (find)
- 2 Janine owns a big car and a yacht. She incredibly rich. (be)
- 3 'Everyone's going into the hall.' 'The meeting soon. Let's go.' (start)
- 4 Without things like washing machines and dishwashers our grandparents much harder in the kitchen than we do today. (work)
- 5 'Where's the camera?' 'If it's not in the cupboard, Ken it. He said he was going to take some photos of the city centre today.' (use)
- 6 The children are putting balloons outside their house. They a party. (have)
- 7 I didn't think Bob was coming to the meeting. He his mind. (change)
- 8 'I wonder how you get permission to go into the building.' 'I suppose you some form of identification.' (show)
- 9 'I thought Paul would be home.' 'He Jenny to work. He said he would.' (take)
- 10 Look at all those birds. There at least a thousand of them. (be)

- 18.2 Write new sentences with a similar meaning. Use have/has got to where it is possible or preferable; otherwise use have/has to. (D)

- 1 It is necessary to do all of this photocopying before lunchtime. All of this photocopying has got to be done/has to be done before lunchtime.
- 2 It is rarely necessary to ask Suzanne to tidy her room. Suzanne

Hello Marge
Sorry I haven't been in touch for a while. You (1) must have been wondering what's been happening. Well, I must admit I've had a pretty awful week. When I got home from work last Monday, the front door was wide open. The door's very stiff, and I (2) always have got to pull it very hard to shut it. My neighbour's always saying, "(3) Have you to bang the door so hard?" When I went in I found that the house had been burgled. They (4) must have climbed over the fence in the back garden. None of the windows and doors were damaged, so someone very small (5) must have to squeeze through the tiny window in the kitchen. I suppose I (6) must leave it open, but I didn't expect anyone to be able to get in. Then they (7) must have come through the house and opened the front door for the others. Of course, the first thing I did was to call the police and I (8) mustn't wait very long for them to get here. Fortunately, the only thing that was taken was my television. I think the burglars (9) must be disturbed, perhaps when the postman came. So now (10) I've to get a new lock for the front door and replace the television, and I (11) must put some locks on the windows. I suppose I (12) may must get a burglar alarm, too. I must say I've never really wanted one, but needs must! Anyway, (13) I've to go. Hope the family is well. Julie (14) must get ready to go back to university. And you (15) must be busy with the new school year just about to start. When you have time, we (16) have to get together for a weekend.

All the best for now,
Wendy

Can you find three other common expressions with must?

Need(n't), don't need to and don't have to

A

We can use need as an ordinary verb or as a modal verb (followed by a bare infinitive). As a modal verb it doesn't change its tense and doesn't add '-s' for the third person singular.

Compare:

- I needed to leave early. or She's thirsty. She needs a drink. (= ordinary verb) and
- You needn't speak so loudly. (= modal verb)

When it is a modal verb need is most commonly used in negative sentences, often with verbs like bother, concern, fear, panic, worry:

- I've already cleaned the car so you needn't bother to do it.
- Judges in England need not retire until they are 75.
- I was very nervous before the interview, but I needn't have worried. Everyone was very friendly and I got the job.

It is sometimes used in questions, but we prefer to use need as an ordinary verb or have to:

- Need you go so soon? (= modal verb; less common and rather formal)
- Do you need to go so soon? (= ordinary verb) or Do you have to go so soon?

It is rarely used in affirmative sentences (that is, not questions or negatives), but is sometimes found in written English, particularly in fiction:

- We need have no fear for Nicole, she can take care of herself.

In other styles of formal written English it is used in this way with negative words such as hardly, never, nobody/no-one, and only:

- The changes need only be small to make the proposals acceptable. (less formally The changes only need to be...)
- Nobody ever need know about the money. (less formally Nobody ever needs to know...)
- 'I don't want my parents to know.' 'They need never find out.' (less formally They never need to find out.)

B

To give permission not to do something we can use either needn't or don't need to:

- You needn't cut the grass, I'll do it later. (or You don't need to cut the grass...)

To talk about a general necessity, we prefer don't need to:

- You don't need to be over 18 to get into a disco. (rather than You needn't be...)

C

We can often use either needn't or don't have to with little difference in meaning to say that it is unnecessary to do something:

- You needn't whisper. Nobody can hear us. (or You don't have to...)

However, some people prefer needn't when it is the speaker who decides the lack of necessity, and don't have to when external rules or somebody else's actions make something unnecessary. Compare:

- As you worked late yesterday you needn't come in until 10.00 tomorrow morning. (the speaker's decision) and
- We've been told that we don't have to be at work until 10.00 tomorrow. (reporting someone else's decision.)

D

We can use needn't (or don't have to) to say that something is not necessarily true. We don't use mustn't in this way (see also Unit 18C):

- Volcanoes needn't erupt constantly to be classified as 'active'. (or Volcanoes don't have to erupt...; not Volcanoes mustn't erupt...)
- Nowadays it needn't cost a fortune to own a powerful computer. (or Nowadays it doesn't have to cost...; not Nowadays it mustn't cost...)

- 19.1 Match the sentence beginnings and ends. Join them with needn't and the bare infinitive of one of the following verbs. (A) bother change concern panic worry

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1 I'll give you a lift to the station so you... | ...the details on the form. |
| 2 The questions are in the book so you... | ...yourself with his safety. |
| 3 All the windows have screens so you... | ...to copy them down. |
| 4 Your son is being looked after by friends so you... | ...about booking a taxi. |
| 5 The new tax laws don't come into force until next year so you... | ...about being bitten by mosquitoes. |

- 19.2 Rewrite the following in a formal style using need. (A)

1 It is hardly necessary for us to remind you that the money is now due.

We need hardly remind you that the money is now due.

2 It is only necessary for us to look at the population projections to see the seriousness of the problem.

3 With such a lead in the opinion polls it is hardly necessary for the Democrats to bother campaigning before the election.

4 It is not necessary for anyone to know who paid the ransom to the kidnappers.

5 After such a huge lottery win, it is not necessary for him to work again.

- 19.3 Underline the more likely answer. If they are equally likely, underline them both. (B)

1 In most developed countries, people needn't/ don't need to boil water before they drink it.

2 You needn't/ don't need to walk. I'll give you a lift.

3 There'll be a handout at the end of the lecture so you needn't/ don't need to take notes.

4 You needn't/ don't need to have a university degree to become a police officer.

5 You needn't/ don't need to buy me a birthday present.

6 In most cities you needn't/ don't need to pay to get into the galleries and museums.

- 19.4 Here are some extracts from a speech made by the managing director of a company to her employees. Correct any mistakes. (A-D)

1 You needn't to worry about losing your jobs.

2 Need we make any changes in company policy? We are always happy to hear your views.

3 Changes in technology mustn't be a problem, but could be seen as a great opportunity.

4 I don't have to remind you that we are competing with two other companies.

5 I need hardly to tell you how important it is that we get this order.

6 You don't have to cancel your holiday plans.

7 We mustn't allow our speed of production to drop.

8 The present financial difficulties mustn't mean that people will lose their jobs.

Should, ought to and had better

A

We can often use either should or ought to to talk about obligations and recommendations (e.g. You should/ought to finish your homework before you go out) and probability (e.g. It should/ought to be ready by now) although in general should is used more frequently. Ought to is used particularly in speech and most often to talk about obligation rather than probability.

Notice also the following details –

- ☆ we prefer should when we say what an outside authority recommends:
 - The manual says that the computer should be disconnected from the power supply before the cover is removed. (rather than ...ought to be disconnected...)
 - ☆ we use should (or would), not ought to, when we give advice with I...:
 - I should leave early tomorrow, if I were you. (or I would leave...; or I'd leave...)
 - ☆ we prefer should in questions, particularly wh-questions:
 - What should I do if I have any problems? Should I ring you at home?
- Some people might use 'What ought I to do...?' and 'Ought I to...?', but this is rather formal.

Note that when we conclude, on the basis of some evidence we have, that something is certain or very likely we can use must (see Unit 18) but not should/ought to:

- It's the third time she's been skating this week. She must really enjoy it.

B

We use should/ought to + have + past participle to talk about something that didn't happen in the past and we are sorry that it didn't:

- We should/ought to have waited for the rain to stop. (I'm sorry we didn't)

We often use this pattern to indicate some regret or criticism and the negative forms shouldn't/oughtn't to have are almost always used in this way.

We also use should/ought to + have + past participle to talk about an expectation that something happened, has happened, or will happen:

- If the flight was on time, he should/ought to have arrived in Jakarta early this morning.
- The builders should/ought to have finished by the end of the week.

C

We can use should in questions that are offers or that request confirmation or advice:

- Should I phone for a taxi for you? Who should I pass the message to?

Note that in sentences like these we can also use shall with a very similar meaning, and ought to is also used in questions, although less commonly.

Compare the use of shall and should in sentences such as the following, where 'I shall' means 'I intend to' and 'I should' means 'I ought to':

- I shall read the script on the train tomorrow. (or I'll read...)
- I should read the script on the train tomorrow but I know that I'll be too tired.

D

We can use had better instead of should/ought to, especially in spoken English, to say that we think it is a good idea to do something:

- If you're not well, you'd better ask Ann to go instead. (or... you should/ought to...) although we don't use it to talk about the past or to make general comments:
 - You should/ought to have caught a later train. (not You had better have caught...)
 - I don't think parents should/ought to give their children sweets. (not I don't think parents had better give their children sweets.)

We prefer had better if we want to express particular urgency and in demands and threats:

- There's someone moving about downssrs. We'd better call the police, quickly.

Notice that the negative form is had better not. In question forms the subject comes after had, although many people avoid questions with had better:

- He'd better not be late again or he'll be in trouble.
- Hadn't we better get a taxi? (or Shouldn't we get...?)

- 20.1 Complete these sentences with should/ought to + infinitive (active), should/ought to be + past participle (passive), or should/ought to have + past participle using each of these verbs once only. (A & B)

- 10 We believe that parents had better pay grandparents to look after their children.

A

When an adjective or noun phrase is used after a verb to describe the subject or say what or who the subject is, the adjective or noun phrase is a complement and the verb is a linking verb:

- Ian is a doctor. She seemed unable to concentrate. The house became Peter's in 1980.

The most common linking verb is be. Others are to do with ‘being’, e.g. keep, prove, remain, stay; ‘becoming’, e.g. become, come, end up, grow, turn out; and ‘seeming’, e.g. appear, look, seem, sound. Most of these verbs can be followed by either an adjective or noun phrase (e.g. It sounds nice/a nice place). However, when they are used as linking verbs, come and grow (e.g. come to know, grow thoughtful) can’t be followed by a noun phrase, and keep is only followed by a noun if an adjective follows it (e.g. It kept him awake).

B

After the verbs appear (= seems true), look (= seem), prove, seem, and turn out we can often either include or omit to be:

- The room appears (to be) brighter than when I last saw it.
 - She proved (to be) an extremely enthusiastic teacher.

However, following these verbs to be is usually included before the adjectives alive, alone, asleep and awake, and before the -ing forms of verbs:

- I didn't go in because she appeared to be asleep. (not ...she appeared asleep.)
 - The roads seem to be getting icy so drive carefully. (not The roads seem getting...)

Before a noun we include to be when the noun tells us what the subject is, but can often leave it out when we give our opinion of the person or thing in the subject. We tend to leave out to be in more formal English. Compare:

- He walked into what seemed to be a cave. (not ...what seemed a cave.) and
 - She seems (to be) a very efficient salesperson.

C

We use the linking verb become to describe a process of change. A number of other linking verbs can be used instead of become, including come, get, go, grow, turn (into).

We use get rather than become: in informal speech and writing before difficult, ill, interested, pregnant, suspicious, unhappy, and worried; in imperatives; and in phrases such as get changed (clothes), get dressed, get married/divorced:

- I first got suspicious when he looked into all the cars. (more formally ...became suspicious...) Where did you live before you got married?

Don't get upset about it!

We prefer become to talk about a more abstract or technical process of change with words such as adapted, apparent, aware, convinced, infected, irrelevant, obvious, and recognised:

- He became recognised as an expert. Their bodies have become adapted to high altitudes.

We use become, not get, if there is a noun phrase after the linking verb:

- Dr Smith became an adviser to the government.

She became a good tennis player.

D

We use go or turn, not usually get or become, when we talk about colours changing:

- The traffic lights turned/went green and I pulled away.

We often use go to talk about changes, particularly to unwanted situations. We use go, not turn or get, with deaf, blind, bald, or to say that someone behaves in a mad or excited way; and also with go bad/off/mouldy/rotten (about old food), go bust (= a company closes because it has run out of money), go dead (= when a telephone stops working), go missing, and go wrong:

- The children went completely crazy at the party. My computer's gone wrong again.

After the verbs come, get, and grow (but not after become) we can use a to-infinitive. Come and grow are often used to talk about gradual change:

- I eventually came/grew to appreciate his work. (not ...became to appreciate his work.)
 - I soon got to know their names. (not ...became to know their names.)

21.1 Put brackets around to be in these sentences if it can be left out. (B)

- 9 'We've decided to buy a Ford.' 'That seems to be a very good choice.'
- 10 He only looked to be about 10 years old, but I knew he must be a lot older.

21.2 Complete the sentences with an appropriate form of become or get. Use the correct or more likely alternative. (C)

- 9 It's easy to find your way to the foot of the mountain, but after that things difficult.

21.3 Complete the sentences with an appropriate form of one of the verbs in brackets and one of the following words or phrases. (D)

- 8 The engineering firm Malco during the economic recession of the late 1990s. (go/ get)

21.4 Where necessary, suggest corrections in the underlined parts of this text. (A-D)

The morning we were going on holiday everything seemed to (1) turn wrong. The taxi was due at 8.00 to take us to the airport. When I looked in on Tom at 7.00 he (2) seemed awake, so I went downstairs to make breakfast. When I opened the fridge I found that the milk (3) had gone off, so there was no breakfast for us. Then Tom (4) seemed taking a long time to come down, so at 7.30 I went back upstairs and he still (5) hadn't become dressed. He said he wasn't feeling well, but I just shouted, "You can't (6) get ill when we're going on holiday!" After that the keys to the luggage (7) got missing, but Tom eventually found them in his jacket pocket. By 8.30 the taxi hadn't arrived and I was starting (8) to become worried. It was (9) getting obvious that we were going to miss our plane if we didn't leave soon. But just then the taxi arrived and we made it to the airport with minutes to spare. Surprisingly, after such a bad start, it (10) turned out to be an excellent holiday.

Forming passive sentences (1)

A

Verbs such as give take both a direct object (DO) and an indirect object (IO) in two patterns: V + IO + DO or V + DO + preposition + IO. These verbs have two corresponding passives:

| active pattern: V+IO+DO/ V+DO+prep+IO | passive |
|---------------------------------------|---|
| Alice gave us that vase. ✓ | We were given that vase (by Alice). ✓ |
| Alice gave that vase to us. ✓ | That vase was given (to) us (by Alice). ✓ |

The passive form you choose depends on which is more appropriate in a particular context. If we specify an agent (see Appendix 1), this follows by at the end of the clause. Note that in informal contexts 'to' can be left out in the second passive pattern. Many of these verbs are to do with 'giving', e.g. award, hand, lend, offer, send, throw, and 'telling' e.g. ask, read, teach.

Verbs that can't be followed by IO + DO in the active have only one of these passive forms:

| active pattern: V + DO + prep + IO | passive |
|------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| He explained me the problem. ✗ | I was explained the problem. ✗ |
| He explained the problem to me. ✓ | The problem was explained to me. ✓ |

Many of these verbs are to do with reporting what was said or thought, including announce, demonstrate, describe, introduce, mention, propose, report, suggest.

B

Verbs followed by object + complement (see Glossary) in the active have one passive form:

| active pattern: V + object + complement | passive |
|---|----------------------------|
| They elected her president. | She was elected president. |

Other verbs like this are to do with giving someone a particular position, e.g. appoint, declare, make, nominate, vote, and 'naming', e.g. call, name, title.

C

Some verbs that are followed by object + bare infinitive (= an infinitive without 'to') in the active are followed by a to-infinitive in the passive.

| active pattern: V + object + bare infinitive | passive |
|--|---------------------------------------|
| They have made him return the money. | He has been made to return the money. |

Other verbs like this include feel, hear, help ('help' can also be followed by V + object + to-infinitive in the active), observe, see (see also Unit 23A).

D

We can make a passive form of many transitive two- and three-word verbs (see also Unit 94).

| active | passive |
|---|--|
| Kathy looks after him. | He is looked after (by Kathy). |
| They put the accident down to bad luck. | The accident was put down to bad luck. |

Other examples include: carry out (= put into practice), disapprove of, hold over (= delay), talk down to (= patronise). However, some transitive two- and three-word verbs are not used in the passive (e.g. brush up on (= revise), cast (your mind) back (= try to remember), come up against (= encounter), get (something) down (= write), take after (= resemble)):

□ We came up against a problem. (not A problem was come up against) or only used in the passive in certain senses when it may not be important to mention the subject (e.g. call (someone) up (= ordered to join the army, etc., passive possible; = telephone, no passive), call (someone) back (= ask to return, passive possible; = telephone, no passive), let in (= allow into a place, passive possible; = allow rain, etc. in, no passive), let out (= allow to leave, passive possible; = let out a sound, no passive), put out (= put out a statement/light/fire, passive possible; = put out a hand/arm/foot/tongue, no passive)):

- I put out a hand to steady myself. (not A hand was put out... but)
- They put out the fire. (or The fire was put out.)

- 22.1 Make one corresponding passive sentence or two, if possible, as in 1. Look carefully at the tense in the sentences given. (A)
- 1 Someone handed me a note. I was handed a note./ A note was handed to me.
 - 2 Someone offered her a second-hand bicycle.
 - 3 Someone has proposed improvements to the developers.
 - 4 Someone suggested some interesting changes to me.
 - 5 Someone awarded him a prize.
 - 6 Someone will announce the President's arrival to the waiting journalists.
 - 7 Someone had mentioned the password to the thieves.
 - 8 Someone has lent me some skis.
 - 9 Someone is sending him threatening letters.
 - 10 Someone is going to explain the changes to the students.
- 22.2 Choose an appropriate form of one of these verbs to complete the sentences and write a corresponding passive sentence starting with the word(s) given. Use each verb once only. (A, B, C)
- appoint bring declare demonstrate help introduce see tell
- 1 People Bobby to his feet after the accident.

Forming passive sentences (2):
verb + -ing or to-infinitive

Active patterns with verb + -ing

A

The active pattern verb + object + -ing is made passive with 'be' + past participle + -ing:

- They saw the monkey climbing over the fence. (= active)
- The monkey* was seen climbing over the fence. (= passive)

Other verbs in this pattern include bring, catch, hear, find, keep, notice, observe, send, show:

- Everyone was brought running into the room by her screams.
- In the security video the burglars are seen entering the bank through a window.

B

Some verbs that can be followed by an -ing form can be used with a passive form being + past participle:

- I really love being given presents.
- The children enjoyed being taken to the zoo.

Other verbs like this include avoid, deny, describe, dislike, face, hate, (not) imagine, like, remember, report, resent.

C

Verbs which in the active are followed by an object consisting of a noun phrase and -ing clause usually have no passive:

- I dread him (or his) finding out. (but not He is dreaded finding out)

Other verbs like this include anticipate, appreciate, dislike, forget, hate, imagine, like, (not) mind, recall, remember.

Active patterns with verb + to-infinitive

D

The active pattern verb + object + to-infinitive is made passive with 'be' + past participle + to-infinitive. Compare:

- Mr Price has taught Peter to sing for many years. and
- Peter has been taught to sing (by Mr Price) for many years.

Other verbs in this pattern include advise, allow, ask, believe, consider, expect, feel, instruct, mean, order, require, tell, understand.

Notice that in some contexts it is possible to make both verbs passive:

- Changes to the taxation system are expected to be proposed. (compare the active We expect the government to propose changes to the taxation system.)

Some verbs followed by an object + to-infinitive in the active have no passive:

- Susan liked Tom to be there. (but not Tom was liked to be there.)

Verbs like this are to do with 'liking' and 'wanting', and include (can't) bear, hate, love, need, prefer, want, wish.

E

The active pattern verb + to-infinitive + object is made passive with verb + to be + past participle. Compare:

- Supermarkets started to sell fresh pasta only in the 1990s. and
- Fresh pasta started to be sold by supermarkets only in the 1990s.

Other verbs in this pattern include appear, begin, come, continue, seem, tend; also agree, aim, arrange, attempt, hope, refuse, want. The verbs in the first group (and start) have corresponding meanings in active and passive sentences, but the verbs in the second group do not. Compare:

- People have come to regard her as the leading violinist of her generation. (active) corresponds to
- She has come to be regarded as the leading violinist of her generation. (passive)
- Mr Smith wanted to help me. (active) does not correspond to
- I wanted to be helped by Mr Smith. (passive)

- 23.1 Complete these sentences using one of these pairs of verbs. Use either was/were + past participle + -ing or past simple + being + past participle. (A & B) avoid – take deny – involve face – expel find – wander keep – wait leave – hold observe – hide remember – bite resent – give send – tumble

- 1 Inger was kept waiting for over three hours when she went for her dental appointment.
- 2 When the police first questioned him, Wayne in the robbery.
- 3 I the baby while Karen went to answer the phone.

- 9 The woman was taken to hospital when she lost and alone in the forest.
- 10 Adam had worked in the company for 30 years and he rather orders by people who had been there only weeks.

- 23.2 If possible, complete the sentences using the pair of verbs given. Make passive forms with past participle + -ing, past participle + to-infinitive, or past simple + being + past participle. If no passive is possible, write 'No passive'. (A-D)

- | | |

- 23.3 Make passive sentences beginning with the underlined word(s). Does the sentence you have written have a corresponding meaning to the original, or a different meaning? Look carefully at the tense in the sentences given. (E)

- 1 Kay's questions began to irritate Malcolm.

- 2 The team captain hopes to select Kevin.

- 3 Alan arranged to take Kathy to the station.

- 4 Critics have come to recognise Galdos as one of Spain's greatest novelists.

- 5 The south coast continues to attract holidaymakers.

- 6 Harris has agreed to interview the finance minister.

Using passives

A

Here are some situations where we typically choose a passive rather than an active.

- ★ In an active sentence we need to include the agent as subject; using a passive allows us to omit the agent by leaving out the prepositional phrase with by. Consequently, we prefer passives when the agent:
 - is not known: My office was broken into when I was on holiday.
 - is ‘people in general’: An order form can be found on page 2.
 - is unimportant: He is thought to be somewhere in Russia.
 - is obvious: She is being treated in hospital. (the agent is clearly ‘medical staff’)
- ★ In factual writing, particularly in describing procedures or processes, we often wish to omit the agent, and use passives:
 - Nuclear waste will still be radioactive even after 20,000 years, so it must be disposed of very carefully. It can be stored as a liquid in stainless-steel containers which are encased in concrete. The most dangerous nuclear waste can be turned into glass. It is planned to store this glass in deep underground mines.
- ★ In informal contexts, particularly in conversation, we often use active sentences with a subject such as people, somebody/someone, something, they, we, or you even when we do not know who the agent is. In more formal contexts, we often prefer to use a passive so that we can avoid any mention of an agent. Compare:
 - Somebody will give you the questions a week before the exam. and
 - You will be given the questions a week before the exam. (or The questions will be given to you...) (both more formal)
 - They’re installing the new computer system next month. and
 - The new computer system is being installed next month. (more formal)

B

Notice also that some verbs have related nouns which express the same meaning. These nouns can be used as the subject of passive sentences, with a new passive verb introduced. Compare the example above and:

- The installation of the new computer system will be completed by next month.

C

In English we usually prefer to put the topic (what is already being talked about) at the beginning of a sentence (or clause) and a comment on that topic at the end. Choosing the passive often allows us to do this. Compare these two texts and notice where the topic (in italics) is placed in the second sentence of each. The second text uses a passive where the emphasis is on the equipment:

- The three machines tested for the report contained different types of safety valve. The Boron Group in Germany manufactured all the equipment.
- The three machines tested for the report contained different types of safety valve. All the equipment was manufactured by the Boron Group in Germany.

It is often more natural to put long subjects at the end of a sentence. Using the passive allows us to do this. So, for example:

I was surprised by Don’s decision to give up his job and move to Sydney. is more natural than ‘Don’s decision to give up his job and move to Sydney surprised me’, although the choice can depend on considerations of style and context.

D

Instead of making a that-clause the subject of a passive sentence, it is normal to use an it-clause (see also Unit 25):

- Everybody believed (that) the plan would fail. (active)
- It was believed that the plan would fail. (passive) is more natural than
- That the plan would fail was believed* by everybody. (passive)

24.1 Rewrite these sentences. Instead of using 'people', 'somebody', or 'they', write one corresponding passive sentence or two if possible (as in 1), beginning with the underlined words. Use an appropriate verb form and make any other necessary changes. (A & Appendix 1)

- 1 They presented Maria Svensson with the award last night. Maria Svensson was presented with the award last night./The award was presented to Maria Svensson last night.
- 2 People are blaming climate change for the recent flooding.
- 3 Somebody has described Keith Jones as the world's greatest guitarist.
- 4 Somebody had stolen the painting from the gallery.
- 5 They will have cleared the litter from the pitch before the match starts.
- 6 People were watching the game outside the stadium on a huge screen.
- 7 Somebody will spray the walls with green paint.
- 8 Somebody should have offered Mary a drink when she arrived.
- 9 People will provide you with food for the journey.
- 10 They have planted the fields with cotton.

24.2 Rewrite these sentences beginning with (The) + noun formed from the underlined verb and a passive verb. Use the verb given, and make any other necessary changes. (B)

- 1 They will consider the issue at next week's meeting. (give) Consideration will be given to the issue at next week's meeting.
- 2 They will appoint a new managing director next week. (make)
- 3 People have accused the local council of corruption. (make)
- 4 They demolished the building in only two days. (complete)
- 5 They will present the trophy after the speeches. (make)
- 6 Local residents will certainly resist the proposed new industrial area. (show)

24.3 Use appropriate forms of the verbs given to complete this text. In each case, decide whether an active or passive form is needed. (A-D)

Slowly but surely the coastline of Britain (1) (wear away) by an advancing sea. The country which once 'ruled the waves' now (2) (rule) by them, with huge forces threatening to destroy vast areas of human and wildlife habitat. Already some of Britain's last wild, natural areas (3) (disappear), and experts (4) (fear) that this is just the beginning. It (5) (estimate) that there will be a 38–55 cm rise in average sea levels by the year 2100. According to the Department of the Environment, during the next 50 years at least 10,000 hectares of farmland (6) (turn into) mud flats and salt marshes by the increases in sea levels. Rather than trying to prevent the erosion, the present government (7) (use) a method of 'managed retreat' by creating new defences further inland and allowing low-lying coastal farm land (8) (abandon) to the sea. However, many of the country's major cities could also (9) (affect). London, Bristol and Cardiff all (10) (expect) severe flooding as our sea defences (11) (destroy) by the rising tides.

Reporting with passive verbs; It is said that...

- A We often use a passive to report what people say, think, etc., particularly if it is not important to mention who is being reported:
- People in the area have been told that they should stay indoors.
 - Everyone was asked to bring some food to the party.

- B Another common way of reporting what is said by an unspecified group of people is to use it + passive verb + that-clause (see Unit 33 for more on that-clauses). Using this pattern can allow us to put important information at the end of the sentence (see Unit 24C):
- It is reported that the damage is extensive. (compare The damage is extensive, according to government sources.)
 - It has been acknowledged that underfunding contributed to the problem.
 - It can be seen that prices rose sharply in September.

Other verbs that can be used in this pattern include:

agree, allege, announce, assume, believe, calculate, claim, consider, decide, demonstrate, discover, establish, estimate, expect, feel, find, hope, intend, know, mention, plan, propose, recommend, reveal, say, show, suggest, suppose, think, understand.

Notice that many other verbs connected with reporting are not used in this pattern, including encourage, inform, persuade, reassure, remind, tell, warn, but can be used as in A:

- We have been informed that we have to leave the building. (but not It has been informed us...)

These verbs need a personal object before the that-clause in an active form (e.g. They have informed us that...).

- C An alternative to it + passive verb + that-clause is to use subject + passive verb + to-infinitive if we want the subject to be the topic of the sentence (see Unit 24C). Compare:
- It is reported that the damage is extensive. and
 - The damage is reported to be extensive.
 - It has been acknowledged that underfunding contributed to the problem. and
 - Underfunding has been acknowledged to have contributed to the problem.

Most of the verbs listed in the box in B can also be used in this pattern except for announce, decide, mention, propose, recommend, suggest.

We can only use tell in this pattern when it means 'order'. So we can say:

- I was told (= ordered) to go with them to the railway station.
but not 'The accident was told (= said) to have happened just after midnight'.

- D With the verbs discover, establish, explain, find, know, reveal, show, understand we can also use it + passive verb + wh-clause to report information given or found out:
- It has now been revealed who was responsible for the accident.
 - The decision to build the bridge was taken before it was established whether it was actually needed.

- E When a that-clause begins that + there..., we can make a corresponding passive form there + passive verb + to be/to have been. Compare:
- It is thought (that) there are too many obstacles to peace. and
 - There are thought to be too many obstacles to peace.
 - In 1981 it was believed (that) there were only two experts on the disease in the country. and
 - In 1981 there were believed to be only two experts on the disease in the country.

We can use the same verbs in this pattern as with subject + passive verb + to-infinitive (see C).

- 25.1 Which of the verbs can complete the sentence? Underline one or both. (B & D)

- 1 It is to employ 500 people in the factory. (expected/ intended)
- 2 It has been that the crash was the result of pilot error. (proposed/ shown)
- 3 It was that Mrs Ho would chair the meeting. (hoped/ explained)
- 4 It has been to appoint Dr Smithers as head teacher. (decided/ suggested)
- 5 It has not yet been who was responsible for the error. (claimed/ explained)
- 6 It has now been that the president broke the law in sending troops into the city. (established/ revealed)
- 7 It was to hold new negotiations next month. (agreed/ announced)
- 8 It is to close the library permanently from next April. (planned/ recommended)
- 9 It is that another Moon landing will take place next year. (assumed/ thought)
- 10 It has been how spiders are able to travel across the sea. (discovered/ said)

- 25.2 If possible, rewrite these newspaper headlines as passive sentences with the pattern It + passive verb + that-clause, as in 1. If this is not possible, write X after the headline. (A & B)

- 1 AGREEMENT THAT UN WILL SEND IN TROOPS It has been agreed that the UN will send in troops.
- 2 PATIENTS REASSURED ABOUT HOSPITAL SAFETY X
- 3 WATER DISCOVERED ON MARS X
- 4 TERRORISTS BELIEVED TO BE OPERATING IN BERLIN X
- 5 SPACE SHUTTLE EXPECTED TO RETURN TODAY X
- 6 EX-PRESIDENT JULIUS REVEALED AS SPY X
- 7 WARNING GIVEN ABOUT COMPUTER VIRUS X
- 8 KING SAID TO BE MAKING GOOD RECOVERY X
- 9 RESTAURANT ESTABLISHED AS SOURCE OF DUBLIN FOOD POISONING OUTBREAK X
- 10 POLICE TOLD TO WORK LONGER HOURS X

- 25.3 If possible, write two corresponding impersonal sentences from the pieces of information in the text using it + passive verb + that-clause in one and subject + passive verb + to-infinitive in the other, as in 1. In some cases the second pattern is not possible. (C)

(1) We have discovered that a mechanical fault caused the problem. (2) We don't think that the fault is serious. (3) We expect that it will take several weeks to correct the fault. (4) We have decided to postpone the next rocket launch, and (5) we suggest that the next launch should take place in May.

- 1 It has been discovered that a mechanical fault caused the problem./ A mechanical fault was discovered to have caused the problem.

Wh-questions with who, whom, which, how and whose

A

Who refers to people, and can be used as subject, object or complement:

- Who owns that car? Who did you meet? Who was her father?

Whom is used as a formal alternative to who as object, and also directly after prepositions:

- Whom did you meet? To whom were you talking?

Which is used to refer to people when we want to identify somebody in a group (for example, in a crowded room or on a photograph):

- ‘Which is your brother?’ ‘The one next to Ken.’

and we can use which instead of who to talk about particular classes of people:

- Which do you think earns more, a teacher or a police officer? (or Who do you think...?)

B

We usually use which, rather than who or what, in questions before one(s) and of, as which is commonly used to ask or talk about a choice between one or more things:

- I’ve decided to buy one of these sweaters. Which one do you think I should choose?
 Which of you would like to go first? (rather than Who of...?)

C

When we use who or what as subjects, the verb that follows is usually singular, even if a plural answer is expected:

- Who wants a cup of coffee? (said to a number of people; not Who want a cup of coffee?)
 What is there to do in Birmingham at Christmas? (expects an answer giving a number of things to do; not What are there to do in Birmingham at Christmas?)

However, the verb can be plural in echo questions (see Unit 27E) after a plural subject or a subject consisting of two or more noun phrases joined by and:

- ‘Mr Smith and his family are here to see you.’ ‘Who are here?’ (or Who’s here?)
 and when who and what function as complements:
 Who are those people over there? What are the consequences of the decision?

D

We use how, not what, to ask –

- ☆ a general opinion on something: How was the journey?
 ☆ about general health: How is your brother?
 ☆ about preferences relating to food and drink: How do you like your coffee?

We use what, not how, to ask –

- ☆ a general opinion on something with What...like? What was the journey like?
 ☆ for details with What... like/hate (etc.) about...? What do you like about the job?
 ☆ about the consequences of something with What if...? What if your plan doesn’t work?
 ☆ about the naming of something in the question What’s it called?

We use either what or how –

- ☆ to make a suggestion with What/How about...? How/What about having a swim?
 ☆ to ask for more information in the question How/What do you mean?

E

We can use whose to ask about the person that owns or is responsible for something. Whose can be used either before a verb (as a pronoun):

- Whose are these boots?

or before a noun or noun phrase (as a determiner) introducing direct or indirect questions:

- Whose boots are these? She asked me whose coat I was wearing.

In formal contexts we can use a preposition before whose (see also Unit 55B):

- In whose desk was it found? (less formally Whose desk was it found in?)

However, in questions without a verb a preposition comes before whose:

- ‘We’re meeting at nine.’ In whose house? (not Whose house in?)

26.1 Underline the correct word. If both are possible, underline them both. (A & B)

- 1 To whom/ who should the documents be sent?
- 2 Which/ Who of you is Dr Jameson? I have a message for you.
- 3 'Here's a photo of our children at the fancy dress party.' 'Who/ Which is Wendy?'
- 4 'Is your sister at home?' 'What/ Which one do you want to speak to?'
- 5 Whom/ Who do you hold responsible for the damage?
- 6 Who/ Which will captain the team if Nick isn't available?
- 7 Which/ Who would you rather be – a doctor or a vet?
- 8 Who/ Whom translated the book?

26.2 Complete the sentences with an appropriate present simple form of the verb in brackets. (C)

- 1 What those cakes made from? (be)
- 2 Who you for Maths and English? (teach)
- 3 What there to see on the island? (be)
- 4 Who the major decisions in the company? (take)
- 5 'The Turners are in France.' 'Who in France?' (be)
- 6 Who their textbook with them? Put your hands up. (have)

26.3 First, complete the sentences with how, what, or how/what if both are possible. Then choose an appropriate answer for each question. (D)

- | | |
|---|---------------------------------------|
| 1 '..... do you like about your new job?' | a 'It's really boring.' |
| 2 '..... if Tom calls while you're out?' | b 'I'd love one.' |
| 3 '..... about a coffee?' | c 'I mean you've got to wear a suit.' |
| 4 '..... are your parents these days?' | d 'Tell him I'll call back.' |
| 5 '.....'s your boss like?' | e 'It was great.' |
| 6 '..... do you like your new job?' | f 'Janet Gibbs.' |
| 7 '..... was the camping trip?' | g 'It's never boring.' |
| 8 '.....'s your boss called?' | h 'Quite well, thanks.' |
| 9 '..... do you mean, 'Smart clothes'?' | i 'We had an excellent time.' |
| 10 '..... was the camping trip like?' | j 'She works us really hard.' |

26.4 If necessary, suggest corrections in the underlined parts of these sentences or make them sound more natural. If the sentence is already correct, write ✓. (B, C & E)

- 1 Who's caravan were you staying in?
- 2 Whose are all these books?
- 3 He asked us who's car was parked in front of his house.
- 4 'Who live in the flat upstairs?' 'The Thompson family.'
- 5 Whose going with you to Canada?
- 6 About whose travels in Nepal did Nigel Smith write a book?
- 7 What one of the following statements is true?
- 8 Who of us has not wanted to own an expensive sports car at some time in our lives?
.....
- 9 'Ants have got into the fridge!' 'What has got into the fridge?'
- 10 'Can you post the books to us?' 'Whose address to?'

Negative questions; echo questions; questions with that-clauses

Negative questions

A

We usually make a negative yes/no or wh-question with an auxiliary verb (have, did, would, etc.) + -n't to suggest, persuade, criticise, etc. (see also GR:E4–E6):

- Wouldn't it be better to go tomorrow? Why don't we go out for a meal?

In formal contexts, or when we want to give some special emphasis to the negative (perhaps to show that we are angry, very surprised, or to strongly persuade someone), we can use not after the subject in negative questions. This happens particularly in yes/no rather than wh-questions:

- Did she not realise that she'd broken it? (less emphatically Didn't she realise that...?)
- Can you not get there a bit earlier? (less emphatically Can't you...?)

B

We sometimes use negative words other than -n't such as never, no, nobody, nothing, nowhere:

Why do you never help? Have you nowhere to go? (or Do you have nowhere to go?) or less emphatically or more informally:

- Why don't you ever help? Haven't you got anywhere to go? (or Don't you have anywhere...)

C

We can make a suggestion with Why not + verb or Why don't/doesn't... (but not Why do not/does not...):

- Why not decorate the house yourself? (or Why don't you decorate...?)
- Why not give her what she wants? (or Why don't we give her ...?)

Why didn't... isn't used to make a suggestion, but can show that we think an action was wrong. For example, depending on intonation and context, it can be used to criticise someone:

- Why didn't you decorate the house yourself? (I think you should have done)
- Why didn't you tell me that in the first place? (I'm annoyed that you didn't)

D

Negative question forms are used in exclamations giving opinions:

- Haven't you grown! Doesn't she look lovely! Didn't it snow a lot!

Exclamations like this are usually said with a falling intonation.

Echo questions

E

Echo questions are used when we haven't understood what has been said or to check that we heard correctly, perhaps because we found it very surprising. We might repeat, usually with a rising intonation, the whole of what was said:

- 'Jane's lost her job.' 'Jane's lost her job?'

or focus on part of what was said using a stressed wh-word or a phrase with how:

- 'Tom's arriving at 6.30.' 'When's Tom arriving?/Tom's arriving when?'
- 'We paid £3,000 for the painting.' 'How much did you pay?/You paid how much?'

We can use what or 'do' what to focus on the verb or part of the sentence beginning with the verb:

- 'We paid £3,000 for the painting.' 'You what?' (or You did what?)
- 'I think she's having a sleep.' 'She's what?' (or She's doing what?)

F Questions with that-clauses

F

A wh-question can refer to a following that-clause, particularly after verbs such as expect, hope, reckon, say, suggest, suppose, and think. We can leave out that in these questions:

- When do you reckon (that) you'll finish the job?
- Why did they suggest (that) we should buy new computers for the library?

However, when the wh-word is the subject, object or complement of the verb in the subordinate clause, we do not use that:

- What did you think was in the box? (not What did you think that was in the box?)
- Who do you suppose did it? (not Who do you suppose that did it?)

 - (when/ she say/ she/ be arriving) ‘ ?’ 'In a couple of hours.'

Unit 28

Verbs, objects and complements

A

Some verbs can be either transitive or intransitive, allowing us to focus on either the person or thing performing the action, or the person or thing affected by the action. Compare:

- She closed the door. (transitive) and The door closed. (intransitive)
- I've ripped my shirt. (transitive) and My shirt has ripped. (intransitive)

Verbs like this are often used to talk about some kind of change. Other examples are begin, bend, break, burn, change, decrease, drop, finish, increase, move, open, shut, start, vary, wake.

B

Some transitive verbs don't need an object when the meaning is clear from the context:

- He has smoked (cigarettes) since he was 10.
- She plays (the saxophone) beautifully.

Other verbs like this include answer, ask, change, cook, dance, drink, drive, eat, fail, park, phone, read, sing, study, wash, wash up, wave, win, write.

C

After some verbs we usually add a complement – a phrase which completes the meaning of a verb, noun or adjective – which is an adverb or prepositional phrase:

- The disease originated in Britain. (not The disease originated. We need to add something about where or how it originated.)

Other verbs commonly have a complement but may not. Compare:

- He paused for a few moments. and He paused. (no complement needed)

D

Some verbs are commonly followed by a particular preposition or prepositions and then an object (see also Unit 94):

- We had to deal with hundreds of complaints. (not We had to deal.)
- I'm sure that blue car belongs to Matthew. (not I'm sure that blue car belongs.)

Here are some more verbs with the prepositions which usually follow them: adhere to, aspire to, culminate in/with, detract from, differentiate between, incline to/towards, specialise in.

E

Some verbs are usually followed by an object + prepositional phrase complement:

- I always associate pizza with Italy. (not I always associate pizza.)
- She put the report on the floor. (not She put the report.)

Here are some more verbs with the prepositions which usually begin the complement: attribute ...to, base...on/upon, equate...with, inflict...on, mistake...for, regard...as/with, remind...of.

F

Some verbs are often followed by an object + adjective (or adjective phrase) complement:

- The people of this country will hold the government responsible.
- Beckman pronounced himself fit for the match.

Other verbs that can be followed by an object + adjective complement include assume, believe, consider, declare, find, judge, prove, report, think. The object after declare, find, pronounce and prove is often a reflexive pronoun (himself, etc.).

Notice that when these verbs are used with an object + adjective complement the sentence is usually rather formal. Less formal alternatives can be made by adding to be after the object or by using a that-clause:

- Dr Adams argues that house prices will fall, but other economists believe the opposite true. (or less formally ...believe the opposite to be true. or ...believe that the opposite is true.)

G

Note that many of the verbs in this unit can be followed by a number of patterns, sometimes associated with different meanings. Compare, for example:

- She found her ring. and She found herself in an embarrassing situation.

- 28.1 If it is possible to leave out the object (in italics) after the verbs (underlined), put brackets around it, as in 1. (B)

Jill was (1) reading (a book) when the telephone rang. It was Val. She said, "I called you earlier, but nobody (2) answered the phone. Would you like to come over to (3) eat dinner tonight with me and Tom? Is 8.00 okay?" Jill (4) thanked Val and said that she'd love to come. At about 7.00 Jill started to get ready. She (5) washed herself and (6) brushed her hair. Then she (7) changed her clothes and (8) put on some makeup. After that, she (9) drove her car to Malstowe, the village where Val and Tom lived. Val was gardening when Jill (10) reached their house and she (11) waved her hand when saw Jill. Jill (12) parked her car on the drive and walked over to Val. Val said, "Tom's still (13) cooking dinner, so I thought I had time (14) to pick some flowers. By the way, my sister Kate is staying with us. She's (15) studying French at university, but is on holiday at the moment. I forgot to (16) mention her when I spoke to you earlier. I'll (17) introduce you when we go inside." Jill (18) enjoyed the evening very much. The food was excellent. The others shared a bottle of wine, but Jill didn't (19) drink alcohol and had orange juice instead. They talked a lot about their holiday plans. Jill hoped to go to Canada, but wasn't sure yet that she could (20) afford it. Before she left, Jill helped (21) wash up the dishes. As she drove home, she decided that she must (22) invite Val and Tom for a meal at her house very soon.

- 28.2 Complete these sentences with: a verb + preposition + noun phrase (for 1–5); and verb + noun phrase + preposition for 6–10. Use verbs from (i) (with an appropriate form), prepositions from (ii), and noun phrases from (iii). (C–E)

- 1 The scientific evidence proved him
- 2 She declared herself with the result.
- 3 They considered the food
- 4 I'm surprised the plumber hasn't turned up. I've always found him
- 5 We believed her at school.

Now make less formal alternatives to these sentences using either to be after the object or a that-clause.

- 1 The scientific evidence proved him to be guilty./ The scientific evidence proved that he was guilty.

Verb + two objects

A

Some verbs can be followed by two objects. Usually the first object (= the Indirect Object (IO)) is a person or group of people and the second object (= the Direct Object (DO)) is a thing:

- Can you bring me (= IO) some milk (= DO) from the shops?
- I read Suzanne (= IO) a story (= DO).
- He made himself (= IO) a cup of coffee. (= DO).

Many verbs that can have two objects may also be used with a DO only (e.g. I read a story).

With many verbs that can have two objects, it is possible to reverse the order of the objects if we put for or to before the IO (this is then called a prepositional object). Compare:

- I built my daughter a doll's house. and I built a doll's house for my daughter.
- Can you pass me that bandage? and Can you pass that bandage to me?

We often use this pattern if we want to focus particular attention on the object after for/to. We also use it if the IO is a lot longer than the DO:

- Jasmin taught music to a large number of children at the school. (not Jasmin taught a large number of children at the school music.)

We use for + object with verbs such as book, build, buy, catch, choose, cook, fetch, find, get, make, order, pour, save. For suggests that the IO receives and benefits from goods or services. We use to + object with verbs such as award, give, hand, lend, offer, owe, pass, show, teach, tell, throw. To suggests a transfer of the DO to the IO.

If the DO is a pronoun, a pattern with DO + preposition + IO is usual. Patterns without a preposition are avoided because they are considered to be bad style:

- I gave them to Tim. (rather than I gave Tim them./I gave them Tim.)
- We bought it for them. (rather than We bought them it./We bought it them.)

B

The verbs bring, leave, pay, play, post, read, sell, send, sing, take, and write can be used with either for or to. Often there is a difference in meaning: to suggests that there is a transfer of something to someone, and for suggests that someone benefits from something. Compare:

- I hadn't got time to visit Ann, so I wrote a letter to her. and
- Ann had broken her wrist and couldn't hold a pen, so I wrote a letter for her.

Sometimes, however, the meaning is very similar:

- He played the piece to (or for) me. Can you sing that song again to (or for) us?

Notice that when object + object is used after these verbs it usually has a similar meaning to the verb with object + to + object. For example:

- I sold him the car. (means I sold the car to him, not I sold the car for him.)

C

Some verbs that are followed by two objects cannot have their objects reversed with for/to:

- We all envied him his lifestyle. (but not We all envied his lifestyle for/to him.)

Other verbs like this include allow, ask, cost, deny, forgive, guarantee, permit, refuse.

D

Some verbs can only have a second object if this is a prepositional object with to (see also Unit 22A). Compare:

- She described the situation. or
- She described the situation to me. (but not She described me the situation.) and
- She told this joke. or She told this joke to me. or She told me this joke.

Other verbs like describe include admit, announce, demonstrate, explain, introduce, mention, point out, prove, report, say, suggest.

Some verbs can only have a second object if this is a prepositional object with for. Compare:

- He fixed the tap. or He fixed the tap for me. (but not He fixed me the tap.) and
- I booked a room. or I booked a room for her. or I booked her a room.

Other verbs like fix include collect, mend, and repair.

- 29.1 Complete these sentences with a suitable form of one of the following verbs and either to or for. Write to/for if either can be used with little difference in meaning. Put these in appropriate places, as in 1. (A & B)

Verb + -ing forms and infinitives (1)

A

Some verbs can be followed either by an object + -ing or a possessive + -ing with a similar meaning, although the possessive + -ing form is usually considered to be rather formal:

- I resented Tom winning the prize. (more formally I resented Tom's winning the prize.)
- Mary recalled him buying the book. (more formally Mary recalled his buying the book.)

Other verbs like this include verbs of '(dis)liking' such as detest, (dis)approve of, (dis)like, hate, love, object to, and verbs of 'thinking' such as forget, imagine, remember, think of. Notice that we only use a possessive form (Tom's, his) here to talk about a person or a group of people:

- I remembered the horse winning the race. (but not ...the horse's winning...)

B

Some verbs can be followed by to + -ing where to is a preposition:

- She confessed to stealing the money.
- You don't object to working late tonight, do you?

Other verbs like this include adapt, adjust, admit, look forward, own up, resort. Note that these verbs can also be followed by to + noun phrase:

- She confessed to the crime.
- You don't object to the work, do you?

C

Other verbs can be followed by different prepositions + -ing. For example:

- ☆ by + -ing (begin, close, end, finish (off/up), open, start (off/out))
 - Can you begin by cleaning the floors, and then do the windows?
- ☆ on + -ing or on + object + -ing (concentrate, count, depend, focus, insist, rely)

- ☆ of + -ing or of + object + -ing (approve, hear, know, speak, talk, tell)
 - I don't approve of (them/ their) hunting animals for sport.
- ☆ object + from + -ing (deter, discourage, keep, prevent, prohibit, stop)
 - The noise from next door prevented me from sleeping.

D

Some verbs (feel, hear, notice, observe, overhear, see, watch) can be followed by an object and then either by an -ing form or a bare infinitive, but their meanings may be slightly different. An -ing form suggests that an action is in progress, while a bare infinitive suggests a completed action. Compare:

- I saw them playing football from my window. and I saw him smash the bottle.

Also, an -ing form can suggest that we watch, hear, etc. some of an action, but not from start to finish, while a bare infinitive suggests that we watch, hear, etc. the whole action from start to finish. Compare:

- I was able to watch them building the new car park from my office window. and
- I watched him climb through the window, and then I called the police.

E

After the verbs dare and help we can use either a bare infinitive or to-infinitive:

- I was angry with him, but I didn't dare (to) say anything.
- We hope the poster campaign will help (to) raise awareness of the problem.

When dare has an object, we can only use a to-infinitive. Compare:

- I dared him to cross the river. (not I dared him cross...) and I helped them (to) pack.

After have, let and make we can use an object + bare infinitive but not to-infinitive:

- His exam results might make him work harder. (not ...might make him to work...)
- I had Beth clean up her bedroom before I let her go out to play.

F

We use a bare infinitive after make and let in the phrases make do (= to manage to deal with a situation by using what is available) and let go (= to stop holding something):

- Jim had borrowed my new bike, so I had to make do with my old one.
- 'Don't let go!'

- 30.1 If possible, rewrite these sentences using the possessive form of the object, as in 1. If it is not possible, write X. (A)

- 1 + b When Sue thought of going on the roller-coaster it made her feel quite ill.

Verb + -ing forms and infinitives (2)

A

After some verbs we need to include an object before a to-infinitive in active sentences:

- The police warned everyone to stay inside with their windows closed. (not The police warned to stay...)
- My teachers didn't encourage me to work hard at school. (not My teachers didn't encourage to work...)

There are many other verbs like this including advise, allow, believe, cause, command, enable, encourage, entitle, force, invite, order, persuade, remind, show, teach, tell.

After other verbs, however, such as agree, consent, fail, hope, manage, offer, pretend, refuse, start, threaten, volunteer, we can't include an object before a to-infinitive:

- The shop refused to accept his cheque. (not The shop refused him to accept his cheque.)
- We've decided to leave early. (not We've decided us to leave early.)

B

After some verbs, including apply, arrange, ask, campaign, plan, and wait, we have to put a preposition, usually for, immediately after the verb before an object + to-infinitive (see also Unit 29):

- We waited for the taxi to come before saying goodbye. (not We waited the taxi to come...)
- They arranged for Jane to stay in London. (not They arranged Jane to stay...)

After apply, ask and campaign, the to-infinitive is often passive:

- They applied for the court appearance to be postponed.

Other verbs can be followed by different prepositions + object + to-infinitive. For example:

- ★ at + object + to-infinitive (go on (= to criticise continually), keep on (= to talk about something many times), scream, yell)
 - I shouted at the man to open the door.
- ★ on + object + to-infinitive (call (= to officially ask someone to do something), count, prevail, rely)
 - We're depending on you to find a solution soon.
- ★ to + object + to-infinitive (appeal, gesture, motion)
 - He closed the door and signalled to the pilot to take off.

C

A number of other to-infinitive and -ing forms can also follow verbs –

- ★ verb + negative to-infinitive and negative -ing forms:

- We decided not to go to Paris after all. (compare The people didn't decide to go to war, it was their political leaders.)
- Some of my friends have considered not going to college because of the cost. (compare I haven't considered going to college – I don't want to go on studying after school.)

- ★ verb + to have + past participle. Compare:

- Can you hear that strange noise? It seems to happen every time I turn on the tap. and
- The accident seems to have happened at around 1.00 p.m. yesterday.

This form is often used to give an opinion (with verbs like seem and appear) about a past event, or to report what is or was said (with passive verbs like is/was alleged, believed, said, thought) about past events:

- Simons is alleged to have assaulted a police officer.

- ★ verb + having + past participle. The verb + -ing and verb + having + past participle forms have a similar meaning with these verbs. Compare:

- I now regret buying the car. and I now regret having bought the car.

This form is most often used with the verbs admit, deny, forget, recall, regret and remember.

Reporting people's words and thoughts

Quoting and reporting in our own words

A

When we report what people think or what they have said, we often report in our own words when the information they convey is more important than their exact words. When we do this we can use sentences that have a reporting clause and a reported clause (see also Units 33 to 39):

| reporting clause | reported clause |
|------------------|---|
| She explained | (that) she couldn't take the job until January. |
| He didn't ask me | where to put the boxes. |

B

If their exact words are important or if we want to create some dramatic effect, we might report their actual words. In writing this is done in a quotation (see also Appendix 3):

- 'I suppose you've heard the latest news,' she said.
- 'Of course,' Carter replied, 'you'll have to pay him to do the job.'

The reporting clause can come before, within, or at the end of the quotation.

In the English used in stories and novels, the reporting verb (e.g. say, reply, think) is often placed before the subject when the reporting clause comes after the quotation:

- 'When will you be back?' asked Arnold. (or ...Arnold asked.)

However, we don't use this order when the subject is a pronoun (except in a literary style):

- 'And after that I moved to Italy,' she continued. (not ...continued she.)

Negatives in reporting

C

To report what somebody didn't say or think, we make the reporting verb negative:

- He didn't tell me how he would get to London.

If we want to report a negative sentence, then we usually report this in the reported clause:

- 'You're right, it isn't a good idea.' → He agreed that it wasn't a good idea.

although it may be reported in the reporting clause, depending on meaning:

- 'I disagree. It's not a good idea at all.' → He didn't agree that it was a good idea.

However, with some verbs, to report a negative sentence we usually make the verb in the reporting clause negative:

- 'I expect he won't come.' / 'I don't expect he will come.' → She didn't expect him to come.
(rather than She expected he wouldn't come.)

Other verbs like this include believe, feel, intend, plan, propose, suppose, think, want.

Reporting questions

D

To report a wh-question we use a reporting clause and a clause with a wh-word:

- She asked me what the problem was. I asked him where to go next.

When we report a yes/no question we use a reporting clause followed by a clause beginning with either if or whether (but note that we can't use if + to-infinitive; see Unit 34):

- Liz wanted to know if/whether we had any photos of our holiday.

The usual word order in a wh-, if-, or whether-clause is the one we would use in a statement:

- 'Have you seen Paul recently?' → She wanted to know if I had seen Paul recently.

However, if the original question begins what, which, or who followed by be + complement we can put the complement before or after be in the report:

- 'Who was the winner?' → I asked who the winner was. (or ...who was the winner.)

Notice that we don't use a form of do in the wh-, if-, or whether-clause:

- She asked me where I found it. (not ...where did I find it./...where I did find it.)

However, if we are reporting a negative question, we can use a negative form of do:

- He asked (me) why I didn't want anything to eat.

- 32.1 Report what was said, quoting the speaker's exact words with one of the following reporting verbs, as in 1. Put the reporting clause after the quotation and give alternative word orders where possible. (B & Appendix 3)

- 6 Oh, no, it's raining again. (Dick)
- 7 Good morning, Miss. (the children)
- 8 Have I done the right thing? (I)

- 32.2 Choose a pair of verbs to complete the reports of what was said, using appropriate forms of the verbs. Make the verb negative in the reporting clause (as in 1) or the reported clause, whichever is more likely. (C) announce – go expect – be feel – could intend – hurt insist – be promise – would think – would threaten – repay

Reporting statements: that-clauses

A

When we report statements, we often use a that-clause in the reported clause (see Unit 32):

- He said (that) he was enjoying his work.
- The members of the Security Council warned that further action may be taken.

After the more common reporting verbs such as agree, mention, notice, promise, say, and think, we often leave out that, particularly in informal speech. However, it is less likely to be left out –

- ☆ after less common reporting verbs such as complain, confide, deny, grumble, speculate, warn (and after the common reporting verbs answer, argue, and reply)
 - ☆ in formal writing
 - ☆ if the that-clause doesn't immediately follow the verb:
- She agreed with her parents and brothers that it would be safer to buy a car than a motorbike. (rather than ...and brothers it would be safer...)

B

Some reporting verbs which are followed by a that-clause have an alternative with an object + to-infinitive (often to be), although the alternatives are often rather formal. Compare:

- I felt that the results were satisfactory. and I felt the results to be satisfactory.
- They declared that the vote was invalid. and They declared the vote to be invalid.

Other verbs like this include acknowledge, assume, believe, consider, expect, find, presume, report, think, understand.

C

If we use a that-clause after the verb notify in an active form, then we must include an object between the verb and the that-clause, and this object can't be a prepositional object (see D below):

- I notified the bank that I had changed my address. (but not I notified that I .../I notified to the bank that I ...)

Other verbs like this include assure, convince, inform, persuade, reassure, remind, tell.

With the verbs advise, promise, show, teach, and warn, an object before a that-clause is not always necessary:

- They promised (me) that they would come to the party.
- The government has advised that tourists should leave the country immediately. (or The government has advised tourists that they should leave the country immediately.)

D

After some verbs we can use a that-clause with or without a personal object before the that-clause. However, if we do include an object, we put a preposition before it.

☆ After some verbs we use to:

- She admitted (to me) that she was seriously ill.
- I pointed out (to the driver) that he had parked across the entrance.

Other verbs like this include announce, complain, confess, explain, indicate, mention, propose, recommend, report, say, suggest.

☆ After some verbs we use with:

- We agreed (with Susan) that the information should go no further.
- I checked (with them) that they were free on Thursday.

Other verbs like this include argue, disagree, joke.

☆ After the verbs ask, demand and require we use of:

- The club asks (of its members) that they pay their fees by 31st December.
- The company demands (of its staff) that they should be at work by 8.30.

This pattern is usually used in formal contexts. Less formally we can use a to-infinitive clause after ask and require (e.g. The club asks its members to pay their fees by 31st December). However, we can't use a to-infinitive clause after demand (not The company demands its staff to...).

33.1 Underline the correct verb. If both are possible, underline them both. (C)

- 1 The doctors advised/ persuaded that I should rest for 3 months.
- 2 The police assured/ promised local residents that everything possible was being done to catch the car thieves.
- 3 A spokesperson for the company reminded/ warned that there may be delays on the railways this summer due to major engineering work.

- 6 The company has reassured/ has advised customers that cars ordered before 1st August would be delivered by the end of the month.
- 7 Jack told/ promised that he would be home before midnight.

33.2 If possible, rewrite these sentences in a more formal way with a to-infinitive clause, as in 1.

If it is not possible to rewrite the sentence in this way, write X. (B)

- 1 Two days after the launch Houston reported that the satellite was missing. Two days after the launch Houston reported the satellite to be missing.
- 2 The employees argued that the reduction in wages was unlawful.
- 3 The judge thought that his explanation was unconvincing.

- 7 We found that the football supporters were very well behaved.
- 8 The president's spokesman commented that the election result was a victory for democracy.

33.3 Complete the sentences with an appropriate form of one of the following verbs and to, with, or of. In some cases more than one verb is possible, but use each verb at least once. (D) announce complain disagree joke mention require

- 1 Mick the shop assistant that the computer he'd bought there was faulty.
- 2 She her neighbours that their dog was keeping her awake at night.

33.4 Suggest corrections to the italicised text in this newspaper article. (A, C & D)

PIK TO CUT WORKFORCE

PIK, the toy manufacturer, (1) has warned they are to make over 100 employees redundant over the next month. Managing Director Beth Edwards yesterday (2) explained employees that a national fall in demand for traditional toys is to blame. She (3) confessed her audience that management had been surprised by the downturn, but she (4) denied management had been incompetent. When asked whether staff would receive redundancy pay, Ms Edwards (5) replied an announcement would be made within a few days, but (6) reassured that they would receive financial compensation. She (7) went on to complain government help for small businesses was insufficient and (8) demanded ministers that they provide more support. She (9) asked staff that they continue to work as normal until details of the redundancies were given. She (10) reassured that the company would not close completely.

Verb + wh-clause

A

Some verbs can be followed by a clause beginning with a wh-word (how, what, when, where, which, who, or why):

- That might explain why he's unhappy.
- I couldn't decide which train to catch.
- Let's consider how we can solve the problem.

Verbs like this include arrange, calculate, check, choose, debate, determine, discover, discuss, establish, find out, forget, guess, imagine, know, learn, notice, plan, realise, remember, say, see, talk about, think (about), understand, wonder. Many of these verbs can also be followed by –

- ☆ a that-clause (see Unit 33): I decided that I ought to leave.
- ☆ a wh-clause (except 'why') + to-infinitive: Did you find out where to go?

Notice that if we add a subject in the wh-clause we don't use a to-infinitive:

- I can't imagine what he likes about jazz.

B

Some verbs must have an object before the wh-clause:

- She reminded me what (I had) to do. I told Linda how to get to my house.

Other verbs like this include advise, inform, instruct, teach, warn. The verbs ask and show often have an object before a wh-clause, but not always:

- I asked (him) how I could get to the station, and he told me.

These verbs can also be followed by object + wh-word + to-infinitive:

- She taught me how to play chess. I showed her where to put her coat.

C

We can often use the way instead of how referring to either the route or the means:

- Go back the way (that/by which) you came. (or informally Go back how you came.)
- Have you noticed the way (that/in which) he spins the ball? (or ...noticed how he spins...?)

Notice that we don't use 'the way how'. (e.g. not 'Go back the way how you came').

WhetherD

We can use whether as the wh-word in a wh-clause when we want to show possible choices.

Whether has a similar meaning to 'if' (see Unit 86):

- He couldn't remember whether/if he had turned the computer off.

Whether is commonly followed by a to-infinitive to talk about the choice between two or more possibilities. Notice that 'if' is never used before a to-infinitive:

- You have 14 days to decide whether to keep it or not. (not ...to decide if to keep it...)

Verbs that are often followed by whether + to-infinitive are concerned with talking or thinking about choices, and include choose, consider, debate, decide, determine, discuss, know (in questions and negatives), wonder. Some other verbs to do with talking or thinking are not used with whether + to-infinitive, including ask, conclude, explain, imagine, realise, speculate, think.

E

Notice the difference between these pairs of sentences. The first in each pair has a wh-clause with whether and the second has a that-clause (see Unit 33):

- I didn't know whether the shop was shut. (= if the shop was shut or not)
- I didn't know that the shop was shut. (suggests that the shop was shut)
- They haven't decided yet whether the airport should be closed. (the wh-clause says what the choice is)
- They decided that the airport should be closed. (the that-clause says what was decided)

F

In rather formal contexts, particularly in writing, we can use as to with a meaning similar to 'about' or 'concerning' before a wh-clause. This is most common before whether:

- Opinion was divided as to whether the findings from the study were representative of the population as a whole. (or less formally ...divided whether...)

34.1 Choose an appropriate sentence ending and choose a wh-word to connect them, as in 1.

Use each ending once only. If necessary, also add an appropriate object. (A & B)

34.2 Underline the correct or more appropriate verb. (D)

- 1 She was thinking/ debating whether to invite Jeremy over for dinner.

34.3 When Peter Miles got back from mountain climbing in the Andes he wrote a book about his experiences. Here are some extracts. Correct any mistakes you can find. (A-F)

The villagers warned what the conditions were like at higher altitudes, and advised to take enough food for a week. There was some discussion through the day as whether the snow would arrive before my descent from the mountain, but I never imagined how hard the conditions would be. In the morning they showed me the way how to get to the track up the mountain.

When the snow started falling it was very light, and I couldn't decide if to carry on or go back down. Soon, however, I couldn't see where to go.

I wondered if to retrace my steps and try to find the track again, but by the time I decided whether I should go back, the track had disappeared.

As the snow got heavier I began to realise whether my life was in danger. Fortunately, my years in the Andes had taught what to do in extreme conditions. I knew that there was a shepherd's hut somewhere on this side of the mountain that I could shelter in, but I didn't know that it was nearby or miles away.

Tense choice in reporting

Verb tense in the reported clause

A

When the situation described in the reported clause (see Unit 32) is in the past when we are reporting it, we use a past tense (past simple, past continuous, etc.):

- 'I'm leaving!' → Bob announced that he was leaving.
- 'I don't want anything to eat.' → Mark said that he didn't want anything to eat.
- 'Are you going to London?' → Connie asked me if I was going to London.

When the situation described in the reported clause was already in the past when it was spoken about originally, we often use the past perfect to report it:

- 'We have found the missing girl.' → Last night police said that they had found the missing girl.

However, if it is clear from the context that one event took place before another, then it may not be necessary to indicate this by using the past perfect and we use the past simple instead:

- 'I've sent out the invitations. I did it well before the wedding.' → She reassured me that she sent out the invitations well before the wedding. (or...had sent...)

B

When the situation described in the reported clause is a permanent/habitual situation, or still exists or is relevant at the time we are reporting it, then we use a present tense (or present perfect) if we also use a present tense for the verb in the reporting clause:

- Dr Weir thinks that he spends about 5 minutes on a typical appointment with a patient.
- US scientists claim that they have developed a new vaccine against malaria.

Note that the present perfect focuses attention on the result of the action, not the action itself.

However, when we use a past tense in the reporting clause we can use either a present or past tense (or present perfect or past perfect) in the reported clause:

- She argued that Carl is/was the best person for the job.
- They noted that the rate of inflation has/had slowed down.

Choosing a present tense (or present perfect) in the reported clause emphasises that the situation being reported still exists or is still relevant when we report it.

If we want to show we are not sure that what we are reporting is necessarily true, or that a situation may not still exist now, we prefer a past rather than a present tense. Compare:

- Sarah told me that she has two houses. (= might suggest that this is true) and
- Sarah told me that she had two houses. (= might suggest either that this is perhaps not true, or that she once had two houses but doesn't have two houses now)

Verb tense in the reporting clause

C

When we report something that was said or thought in the past, the verb in the reporting clause is often in a past tense:

- Just before her wedding, she revealed that she had been married before.

When we report current news, opinions, etc. we can use a present tense for the verb in the reporting clause. In some cases, either a present or past tense is possible, although we prefer a present tense to emphasise that what was said is true or still relevant when we report it:

- She says that she'll have to close the shop unless business improves. (or ...said...)

We often prefer a present rather than a past tense –

- ★ to report information that we have been told or heard, but don't know whether it is true:
 - I hear you're unhappy with your job.
- ★ to report what is said by some authority:
 - The law says that no-one under the age of 16 can buy a lottery ticket.
- ★ to report what many people say:
 - Every teacher I've spoken to tells me that standards of spelling are in decline.

- 35.1 Change the sentences into reported speech. Choose the most appropriate verb from the list, using the past simple for the verb in the reporting clause and either the past simple or past perfect for the verb in the that-clause. If more than one answer is possible, give them both. (A)
- alleged conceded denied estimated recalled repeated

- 1 'I have never been in love with James.' → She denied that she had ever been/ was ever in love with James.
- 2 'Thomas has stolen jewellery from my house.' → She
- 3 'I think the vase is around 250 years old.' → She
- 4 'I've told you once. I've already seen the film.' → She
- 5 'Well, perhaps you're right. Maybe I did treat Jane unkindly.' → She
- 6 'I seem to remember that Michael's great grandfather was from Spain.' → She

- 35.2 Underline the more appropriate verb. If they are both possible, underline both. (B)

- 1 Engineers hope that they solved/ have solved the problems with the bridge now that new supports have been built, and they plan to reopen it next week.
- 2 The current law states/ stated that an employee has the right to appeal against dismissal.
- 3 After he read the novel, he commented that the plot is/ was difficult to follow.
- 4 In the interview, Mr Brown acknowledged that he wishes/ wished to be prime minister.
- 5 Simon is already a good tennis player, but he accepts that he still has/ had a lot to learn.
- 6 I understand/ understood that you want to buy a second-hand car. Your brother just told me.
- 7 Health officials warn that anyone who looks/ looked directly at the sun during an eclipse may put their sight at risk.
- 8 They reassured us that the path is/ was perfectly safe.

- 35.3 Jim Barnes and Bill Nokes have been interviewed by the police in connection with a robbery last week. Study the verb tenses in the that-clauses in these extracts from the interview reports. Correct them if necessary, or write ✓. Suggest alternatives if possible. (A-C)

1 When I mentioned to Nokes that he had been seen in a local shop last Monday, he protested that he is at home all day. He swears that he didn't own a blue Ford Escort. He claimed that he had been to the paint factory two weeks ago to look for work. Nokes alleges that he is a good friend of Jim Barnes. He insisted that he didn't telephone Barnes last Monday morning. When I pointed out to Nokes that a large quantity of paint had been found in his house, he replied that he is storing it for a friend.

2 At the beginning of the interview I reminded Barnes that he is entitled to have a lawyer present. He denied that he knew anyone by the name of Bill Nokes. Barnes confirmed that he is in the area of the paint factory last Monday, but said that he is visiting his mother. He admitted that he is walking along New Street at around 10.00. He maintains that he was a very honest person and would never be involved in anything illegal.

Verb + (object) + to-infinitive clause

A

When we report offers, suggestions, orders, intentions, promises, requests, etc. we can follow some verbs in the reporting clause (see Unit 33) with –

★ a to-infinitive clause:

- 'I'll take the children into town.' → She offered to take the children into town. (not She offered me to take the children...)
- 'The theatre will be built next to the town hall.' → They propose to build the theatre next to the town hall. (not They propose them to build...)

Other verbs followed directly by a to-infinitive clause include agree, demand, guarantee, promise, swear, threaten, volunteer.

★ an object + to-infinitive clause:

- 'You should take the job, Frank.' → She encouraged Frank to take the job.
- 'Don't worry about the air fare – we'll pay.' → We told her not to worry about the air fare. The object usually refers to the person who the offer, suggestion, etc. is made to; that is, the person who performs that action in the reported clause (see Unit 33). Other verbs followed by an object + to-infinitive include advise, ask, call on, command, instruct, invite, order, persuade, recommend, remind, request, urge, warn.

Compare the use of ask with and without an object before a to-infinitive clause:

- We asked to leave our bags outside the exam room. (= this is something we wanted) and
- They asked us to leave our bags outside the exam room. (= this is something they wanted)

Verb + that-clause or verb + to-infinitive clause

B

After some verbs we can use a that-clause instead of a to-infinitive clause:

- He promised to arrive on time. or He promised that he would arrive on time.
- Kathy demanded to be allowed in. or Kathy demanded that she (should) be allowed in.

Verbs like this include agree, expect, guarantee, hope, propose, request, vow. With a that-clause the person promising, etc. and the person referred to in the reported clause may be different:

- He promised that he wouldn't be late. ('He...' and '...he...' may refer to different people)
- Kathy demanded that John should be allowed in.

C

Verb + that-clause (not verb + to-infinitive clause)

After the verbs insist, order, say and suggest we use a that-clause but not a to-infinitive clause:

- The team captain said that I had to play in goal. (not ...said to play...)
- There were cheers when he suggested that we went home early. (not ...suggested to go...)

Advise and order can be used with an object + to-infinitive clause (see A) or a that-clause:

- I advised that she should accept. (or I advised her to accept.; but not I advised to accept...)

Verb + to-infinitive clause (not verb + that-clause)

D

After some verbs we use a to-infinitive but not a that-clause:

- Carolyn intends to return to Dublin after a year in Canada. (not ...intends that...)
- The children wanted to come with us to the cinema. (not ...wanted that...)

Other verbs like this include long, offer, refuse, volunteer.

E

When we report a suggestion, either what the person reported might do themselves, or what someone else might do, we can use a reporting clause with advise, propose, recommend, or suggest followed by an -ing clause rather than a that-clause:

- The lecturer recommended reading a number of books before the exam. (or ...recommended that the students should read a number of books before the exam.)

- 36.1 Report each sentence using the verbs below and a to-infinitive clause. Use each verb once only.
If necessary, add an appropriate object after the verb. (A) advise agree ask call on expect hope order urge vow

- 1 'If I were you, I'd read the exam questions very carefully.' → He advised us to read the exam questions very carefully.
- 2 'Okay, I'll collect David from school.' → He
- 3 'Be quiet!' → He
- 4 'Please stay for a few more days.' → He
- 5 'I will fight the ban on smoking in public places.' → He
- 6 'I imagine I'll see Olivia at the party.' → He
- 7 'Can you lend me ten pounds?' → He
- 8 'The government should do more to help the homeless.' → He
- 9 'If I leave early I'll avoid the heavy traffic.' → He

- 36.2 Underline the correct verb. If either is possible, underline them both. (B, C & D)

- 1 The committee agreed/ suggested to postpone the meeting until 11th August.
- 2 Emma insisted/ said that we should bring the children along.
- 3 The prime minister insisted/ wanted to discuss transport policy in the interview.
- 4 She said/ offered that she would call me back.
- 5 He expected/ advised to leave at 5.30 in the morning.
- 6 The shop has guaranteed/ has promised that it will deliver the chairs by the end of the week.
- 7 She offered/ suggested to wait for the children to get ready.
- 8 Terry wanted/ suggested that I should stand in the student elections.
- 9 She refused/ requested that her brother should be invited too.
- 10 He longed/ promised to go back home and see his parents.

- 36.3 Complete the sentences in any appropriate way using a clause beginning with an -ing form of a verb. (E)

- 1 To avoid the road works, police have advised leaving the motorway at junction 3.
- 2 To encourage people to use public transport the council proposed
- 3 Richard said the play was very entertaining and he recommended
- 4 To find my way around London, Les suggested
- 5 I'd been feeling unwell for a few days and my mother advised
- 6 London urgently needs a new airport, and the government proposes
- 7 I've been putting on weight and my doctor has recommended
- 8 It was a lovely morning and Emma suggested

Can any of these sentences be rewritten with a to-infinitive clause without an object?

Modal verbs in reporting

A When there is a modal verb in the original statement, suggestion, etc., it sometimes changes when we report what was said or thought. The changes are summarised here:

| modal verb in original | modal verb in report |
|--|---|
| could, would, should, might, needn't, ought to, used to, could have, should have, etc. | could, would, should, might, needn't, ought to, used to, (i.e. no change) could have, should have, etc. |
| will, can, may | would, could, might will, can, may (existing or future situations and present tense verb in reporting clause) will or would, can or could, may or might (existing or future situations and past tense verb in reporting clause) |
| shall | would, should (offers, suggestions, etc.) |
| must (= necessity) must (= conclude; see Unit 18B) mustn't | must or had to must mustn't |

B We sometimes use a modal verb in a report when there is no modal verb in the original:

- 'You're not allowed to smoke here.' → She told me that I mustn't smoke there.
- 'My advice is to look for a new job now.' → She said that I should look for a new job now.

C The verbs could, would, should, might, needn't, ought to, used to, and could have, should have, etc. don't change in the report:

- 'I could meet you at the airport.' → He said that he could meet us at the airport.
- 'You should have contacted me earlier.' → She said I should have contacted her earlier.

D Will usually changes to would, can to could, and may to might. However, if the situation we are reporting still exists or is still in the future and the verb in the reporting clause has a present tense, we use will, can, and may in the reported clause (see Unit 32). Compare:

- 'I'll be in Paris at Christmas.' → She tells me she'll be in Paris at Christmas. and
- 'Careful! You'll fall through the ice!' → I warned him he would fall through the ice.

If the situation we are reporting still exists or is still in the future and the verb in the reporting clause has a past tense, then we can use either would or will, can or could, or may or might in the reported clause:

- 'The problem can be solved.' → They said the problem can/could be solved.

E When shall is used in the original to talk about the future, we use would in the report:

- 'I shall (I'll) call you on Monday.' → She told me she would call me on Monday.

However, when shall is used in offers, requests for advice and confirmation, etc. then we can use should in the report, but not shall or would:

- 'Where shall I put this box?' → He asked where he should put the box.

F When must is used in the original to say that it is necessary to do something, we can usually use either must or had to in the report, although had to is more natural in speech:

- 'You must be home by 9 o'clock.' → She said I must/had to be home by 9 o'clock.

However, when must is used in the original to conclude that something (has) happened or that something is true, then we use must, not had to, in the report:

- 'I keep forgetting things. I must be getting old.' → Neil said he must be getting old.

If mustn't is used in the original, we can use mustn't in the report but not didn't have to:

- 'You mustn't tell my brother.' → He warned me that I mustn't tell his brother.

37.1 Report what was said using a sentence with a that-clause. Use an appropriate modal verb in the that-clause, and give alternative modal verbs where possible. (B)

- 1 It's vital that you attend the meeting. → She said that I had to/ must attend the meeting.
- 2 If you want to travel with us, that's fine. → She said that
- 3 I'm not prepared to answer his questions → She said that
- 4 Karl's likely to be back soon. → She said that
- 5 There's a possibility that I'll have to move to Milan. → She said that
- 6 I refuse to accept that John is dishonest. → She said that
- 7 Maria is sure to be disappointed if you leave without seeing her. → She said that 37.2 Underline the more appropriate verb. If both are possible, underline them both. (D)

- 1 The doctor says that he will/ would see you in twenty minutes.
- 2 In her letter, Elizabeth revealed that she may/ might be getting married soon.
- 3 Peter tells me that he can/ could come for dinner with us tonight after all.

- 6 Sue reckons that she can/ could save enough money to go on holiday to Canada.
- 7 Mario explained that he will/ would be living in Austria for the next six months.

37.3 Complete the sentences to report what was said using a that-, wh- or if-clause. (E-F)

- 1 'I'm sure that we shall be there soon.' → He reassured us that we would be there soon.
- 2 'You mustn't forget your credit card.' → He reminded
- 3 'I shall miss the bus if I don't hurry.' → He worried
- 4 'Who shall I send the letter to?' → He wondered
- 5 'It must be cold outside. There's frost on the window.' → He thought
- 6 'You must come home at once.' → He said
- 7 'Shall I open a window?' → He asked
- 8 'I must have made a mistake in the calculations.' → He admitted

37.4 Complete the sentences to report what was said using a that-clause with a modal verb. (A & D)

- 1 'If all goes to plan, I'll study medicine.' → He hoped that he would study medicine but instead he became a vet.
- 2 'I won't be late.' → She promised and she kept her word.
- 3 'Perhaps we can go to Paris for the weekend.' → He suggested but I was busy.
- 4 'I can get you there in good time.' → She guaranteed but I didn't believe her.
- 5 'I'll pay for the meal.' → He insisted and I accepted, of course.

Look again at the sentences you have written. Which of them have an alternative with a to-infinitive clause (without a modal verb)? (36B)

- 1 He hoped to study medicine.

Reporting what people say using nouns and adjectives

Reporting using nouns

A

We sometimes report people's words and thoughts using a noun in the reporting clause followed by a reported clause beginning with that, a to-infinitive-, or wh-word. Most of these nouns are related to reporting verbs (acknowledgement – acknowledge, statement – state, etc.). Notice that when we report using nouns and adjectives (see C) the exact words that were said are not necessarily reported. Instead we might report what was said in our own words, or report that something was said without reporting what was said.

☆ Nouns followed by a that-clause include acknowledgement, advice, allegation, announcement, answer, argument, claim, comment, conclusion, decision, explanation, forecast, guarantee, indication, observation, promise, recommendation, reply, speculation, statement, suggestion, threat, warning:

- The claim is often made that smoking causes heart disease.
- The jury came to the conclusion that the woman was guilty.

Notice that we don't usually leave out that in sentences like this (see Unit 33).

☆ Nouns followed by a to-infinitive clause include decision, encouragement, instruction, invitation, order, promise, recommendation, refusal, threat, warning:

- I accepted Louisa's invitation to visit her in Rome.
- He was delighted with his portrait and gave me every encouragement to take up painting again.

Notice that some of these nouns can also be followed by a that-clause:

- They carried out their threat to dismiss workers on strike. (or ...their threat that they would dismiss workers on strike.)

☆ Nouns followed by a wh-clause include explanation, discussion, issue, problem, question.

We usually use of after these nouns in reporting:

- John raised the question of when the money would be collected.
- Our previous meeting looked at the issue of how to increase income.

B

After many of the nouns listed in A we can use as to + wh-clause or as to + wh-word + to-infinitive to introduce the subject of a question or topic discussed or thought about (see also Unit 34F). Notice that an alternative preposition can usually be used instead of as to:

- She asked my advice as to what subject she should study at university. (or ...advice on...)
- There was some discussion as to whether the price included tax or not. (or ...discussion of...)
- Before we left we gave them strict instructions as to how to cook it. (or about how to...)

Reporting using adjectives

C

A number of adjectives can be used to report a speaker's feelings or opinion about a situation. Some are followed by a that-clause. These include adamant, agreed, angry, annoyed, certain, grateful, insistent, sure:

- The builders are certain that they'll be finished by the end of the week.

Adjectives expressing uncertainty are usually followed by a wh-clause. These include doubtful (usually + whether), uncertain, not certain, unsure, not sure:

- Scientists aren't sure where the remains of the spacecraft will come to land.

Some are usually followed by a preposition (followed by a noun phrase). Here are some examples together with the most common preposition(s) following them: apologetic, complimentary, insulting, tactful (+ about something); critical, dismissive, scornful (+ of somebody/something); abusive, sympathetic (+ to/towards somebody):

- Today's newspapers are very critical of the President's decision to appoint Mr Walters.
- When I asked him what he thought of my new suit, he was quite insulting about it.

- 38.1 Complete the sentences with one of these nouns and then expand the notes in brackets. Use a that-, to-infinitive or wh-clause. Suggest alternatives where you can, as in 1. (A)

Should in that-clauses; the present subjunctive

A

We can sometimes report advice, orders, requests, suggestions, etc. about things that need to be done or are desirable using a that-clause with should + bare infinitive:

- They have proposed that Jim should move to their London office.
- We advised that the company should not raise its prices.

After should we often use be + past participle (passive) or be + adjective:

- They directed that the building should be pulled down.
- We insist that the money should be available to all students in financial difficulties.

B

In formal contexts, particularly in written English, we can often leave out should and use only the base form of the verb (that is, the form you would look up in a dictionary). This form is the present subjunctive (see Unit 85A for the past subjunctive) and is used when we talk about bringing about the situation expressed in the that-clause. Note that although they are called ‘present’ and ‘past’ subjunctive, they do not refer to present and past time:

- They have proposed that Jim move to their London office.
- They directed that the building be pulled down.

To make a negative form, we use not (not ‘do not’) before the verb:

- We advised that the company not raise its prices.

In less formal contexts we can use ordinary forms of the verb instead of the subjunctive. Compare:

- I suggested that he should give up golf. (negative: ...that he shouldn't give up...)
- I suggested that he give up golf. (more formal) (negative: ...that he not give up...)
- I suggested that he gives up golf. (less formal) (negative: ...that he doesn't give up...)

C

Other verbs that can be used in a reporting clause before a that-clause with either should or the subjunctive include advise, ask, beg, command, demand, direct, insist, instruct, intend, order, prefer, propose, recommend, request, require, stipulate, suggest, urge, warn. Notice that we can also use that-clauses with should after reporting clauses with nouns related to these verbs:

- The police issued an order that all weapons (should) be handed in immediately.
- The weather forecast gave a warning that people (should) prepare for heavy snow.

D

We can also use should or sometimes the subjunctive in a that-clause after it + be + adjective such as advisable, appalling, (in)appropriate, (in)conceivable, crucial, essential, imperative, important, obligatory, (un)necessary, urgent, vital:

- It is inappropriate that he (should) receive the award again. (or ...that he receives...)

E

We can use should in a that-clause when we talk about our own reaction to something we are reporting, particularly after be + adjective (e.g. amazed, amused, anxious, astounded, concerned, disappointed, shocked, surprised, upset). Compare:

- I am concerned that she should think I stole the money and
- I am concerned that she thinks I stole the money. (not ...that she think I stole...)

Notice that when we leave out should in sentences like this we use an ordinary tense, not a subjunctive. There is usually very little difference in meaning between sentences like this with and without should. We leave out should in less formal contexts.

F

We can use should in a that-clause to talk about both a situation that exists now:

- It's not surprising that they should be seen together – they're brothers.
- or one that may exist in the future:
- We believe it is important that she should take the exam next year.

If we are talking about an intention or plan, we can often use a subjunctive rather than should:

- I've arranged that she come to the first part of the meeting. (or ...that she should come.../ ...that she comes.../ ...for her to come...)

- 39.1 Here are some of the things that were said at a recent board meeting of the Spanit Engineering Company. Report them using a that-clause with should (either should + bare infinitive or should + be + past participle). (A–C)

- 1 Mr Leeson said: "I think it's important to expand our business in South America." Mr Leeson felt that business in South America should be expanded.
- 2 Mr Leeson said: "Philip Whittaker would make an excellent export manager. Let's promote him." Mr Leeson urged
- 3 Mrs Appleby said: "It would be valuable for us to send a sales representative to South Africa." Mrs Appleby recommended
- 4 Mrs Appleby said: "The Delaware Bridge project ought to be completed by August next year." Mrs Appleby reported
- 5 The Chairman said: "It is vital to keep to our work schedules." The Chairman insisted
- 6 The Chairman said: "I'd like all monthly reports sent to me directly." The Chairman instructed
- 7 Ms Wells said: "Perhaps we could involve trade union representatives in major decisions." Ms Wells suggested
- 8 Ms Wells said: "Our head office must remain in London." Ms Wells declared
- 9 Mr Clarke said: "It's okay for us to sponsor the European chess league for the next three years." Mr Clarke agreed
- 10 Mr Clarke said: "In future, all claims for travel expenses are to be made in US dollars." Mr Clarke announced

- 39.2 Look again at the sentences you have written in 39.1. In which ones is it possible to leave out should and still have a correct sentence? Write 'yes' if it is possible and 'no' if it isn't. (A–C)

1 ~~Mr Leeson felt that business in South America be expanded.~~ ... No

- 39.3 Expand the notes to report these suggestions, requests, advice, etc. Add one of the following adjectives where ... is written. In most cases, more than one word is possible, but use each word once only. Use a that-clause with should in your report. (D & E)

| | | | |
|----------------------|------------------|------------------|-------------------|
| amused | appalling | astounded | imperative |
| inconceivable | shocked | upset | urgent |

1 It is .../ she/ marry Simon.
It is inconceivable that she should marry Simon.

2 I am .../ Paul/ behave so badly.

3 I am .../ anyone/ vote for him.

4 It is .../ he/ return home immediately.

5 I am .../ he/ take his appearance so seriously.

6 I am .../ they/ think I had cheated them.

7 It is .../ they/ allowed to go free.

8 It is .../ we/ act now to avoid war.

Agreement between subject and verb (1)

A

If a sentence has a singular subject it is followed by a singular verb, and if it has a plural subject it is followed by a plural verb; that is, the verb agrees with the subject. Compare:

- She lives in China.* and More people live in Asia than in any other continent.

When the subject of the sentence is complex the following verb must agree with the main noun in the subject. In the examples below the subject is underlined and the main noun is circled.

Notice how the verb, in italics, agrees with the main noun:

- Many leading members of the opposition party have criticised the delay.*
- The only excuse that he gave for his actions was that he was tired.*

The verb must agree with the subject when the subject follows the verb (see Units 99 & 100):

- Among the people invited was the mayor.* (compare The mayor was among...)
- Displayed on the board were the exam results.* (compare The exam results were displayed...)

B

If the subject is a clause, we usually use a singular verb:

- To keep these young people in prison is inhuman.*
- Having overall responsibility for the course means that I have a lot of meetings.*
- Whoever took them remains a mystery.*
- That Rangers won both matches was a great achievement.*

However, if we use a what-clause as subject (see Unit 98B), we use a singular verb if the following main noun is singular, and either a singular or a plural verb if the following main noun is plural (although a plural verb is preferred in more formal contexts):

- What worries us is the poor selection process.*
- What is needed are additional resources.* (or more colloquially ...needed is...)

C

Some nouns with a singular form, referring to groups of some kind, can be used with either a singular or plural form of the verb:

- The council has (or have) postponed a decision on the new road.*

We use a singular verb if the focus is on the institution or organisation as a whole unit, and a plural verb if the focus is on a collection of individuals. Often you can use either with very little difference in meaning, although in formal contexts (such as academic writing) it is more common to use a singular verb. Other words like this, sometimes called collective nouns, include army, association, audience, class, club, college, committee, community, company, crew, crowd, department, electorate, enemy, family, generation, government, group, jury, opposition, orchestra, population, press, public, school, team, university, and the names of specific organisations such as the Bank of England, the BBC, IBM, Sony, the United Nations.

In some contexts a plural form of the verb is needed. We would say:

- The committee usually raise their hands to vote 'Yes'.* (not The committee usually raises its hands...)

as this is something that the individuals do, not the committee as a whole. In others, a singular form is preferred. We would say:

- The school is to close next year.* (not The school are to close...) as we are talking about something which happens to the school as a building or institution, not to the individuals in the school.

D

When names and titles ending in -s refer to a single unit we use a singular verb. Examples include countries; newspapers; titles of books, films, etc.; and quoted plural words or phrases:

- At this time of the year the Netherlands is one hour ahead of the UK.*
- The Los Angeles Times lists Derek Jones as the fifth richest man in the world.*
- The Machine Gunners was one of Robert Westall's most successful books.*
- 'Daps' is the word used in the south west of the country for sports shoes.*

- 40.1 Complete the sentences with a singular or plural form of the verb in brackets. Use present tense forms. (A & B)
- 1 Keeping large animals as pets in a small house cruel. (be)
 - 2 An investigation of the circumstances surrounding her death that she was murdered. (suggest)
 - 3 What amazes me his ability to hit the ball so hard. (be)

 - 5 The cost of housing in the southern parts of the country risen dramatically in the last year. (have)
 - 6 That he was the best of the many talented golfers of his generation indisputable. (seem)
 - 7 The village's first new houses for 20 years to be built next to Grove Farm. (be)
 - 8 Among the many valuable paintings in the gallery a self-portrait by Picasso. (be)
 - 9 What I particularly enjoy about the film the scenes in Australia. (be)
- 40.2 Complete the sentences with one of the following nouns and an appropriate form of the verb in brackets. If a singular and plural verb form are possible, give both. (C)
- | | | | | |
|----------|-------|--------------------|------------|-----------|
| audience | class | crew | jury | orchestra |
| press | team | the United Nations | university | |
- 1 The team play/plays its first match of the season at its home ground. (play)
 - 2 If the to host the conference, I just don't know where we will be able to hold it. (refuse)
 - 3 The world-wide television for tomorrow's cup final expected to be 200 million. (be)

 - 7 The a picture of chaos in our schools, but it's just not like that at all. (present)
 - 8 ordered an investigation of the capture of members of its peace-keeping force in eastern Africa. (have)
- 40.3 Correct any mistakes in these sentences or write ✓ if they are already correct. (A-D)
- 1 The United States come top of the list of countries ranked by economic performance.
 - 2 The people I know who have seen the film say that it's really good.

B

When a subject has two or more items joined by and, we usually use a plural verb:

- Jean and David are moving back to Australia.

However, phrases connected by and can also be followed by singular verbs if we think of them as making up a single item:

- Meat pie and peas is Tom's favourite at the moment. (or ...are...)
- The lorry, its cargo and passengers weighs around 35 tonnes. (or ...weigh...)

C

When a subject is made up of two or more items joined by (either)...or... or (neither)...nor... we use a singular verb if the last item is singular (although a plural verb is sometimes used in informal English), and a plural verb if the last item is plural:

- Either the station or the cinema is a good place to meet. (or ...are... in informal English)
- The President or his representatives are to attend the meeting.

If the last item is singular and previous item plural, we can use a singular or plural verb:

- Either the teachers or the principal is to blame for the accident. (or ...are to blame...)

D

- Over the last few years there have been many improvements in car safety.
- There's been lots of good films on lately. (or There've been...)

We often do the same with how/here/where + be/have:

Agreement between subject and verb (3)

A

Some nouns are usually plural and take a plural verb. These include belongings, clothes, congratulations, earnings, goods, outskirts, overheads, particulars (= information), premises (= building), riches, savings, stairs, surroundings, thanks. The noun whereabouts can be used with either a singular or a plural verb. The nouns police and people always take a plural verb, and the noun staff usually does:

- The company's earnings have increased for the last five years.
- Police believe that Thomas is in Brazil, although his exact whereabouts are/is unknown.
- Staff say that the new computer system has led to greater levels of stress in their work.

B

Some nouns always end in -s and look as if they are plural, but when we use them as the subject they have a singular verb:

- The news from the Middle East seems very encouraging.

Other words like this include means (= 'method' or 'money'); some academic disciplines, e.g. economics, linguistics, mathematics, phonetics, physics, politics, statistics; some sports, e.g. athletics, gymnastics; and some diseases, e.g. diabetes, measles, rabies. However, compare:

| academic subject | general use |
|---|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Politics is popular at this university. | <input type="checkbox"/> Her politics are bordering on the fascist. (= political belief) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Statistics was always my worst subject. | <input type="checkbox"/> Statistics are able to prove anything you want them to. (= numerical information) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Economics has only recently been recognised as a scientific study. | <input type="checkbox"/> The economics behind their policies are unreasonable. (= the financial system) |

Although the words data and media (= newspaper, television, etc.) are plural (with singular forms datum and medium), they are commonly used with a singular verb. However, in formal contexts such as academic writing a plural verb is preferred. Notice that other similar plurals such as criteria and phenomena (with singular forms criterion and phenomenon) are always used with plural verbs. Compare:

- All the data is available for public inspection. (or ...are available...) and
- I agree that the criteria are not of equal importance. (not ...the criteria is not...)

D

With a phrase referring to a measurement, amount or quantity we usually prefer a singular verb:

- Only three metres separates the runners in first and second places. (rather than ...separate...)
- The fifty pounds he gave me was soon spent. (rather than ...were...) and a singular verb must be used when the complement is a singular noun phrase (e.g. a long time):

- Three hours seems a long time to take on the homework. (not Three hours seem...)

After per cent (also percent or %) (of) we use a singular verb if the per cent phrase refers to a singular or uncountable noun and a plural verb if it refers to a plural noun. Compare:

- An inflation rate of only 2 per cent makes a big difference to exports. and
- I would say that about 50 per cent of the houses need major repairs.

However, where we use a singular noun that can be thought of as either a whole unit or a collection of individuals, we can use either a singular or plural verb:

- Some 80 per cent of the electorate is expected to vote. (or ...are expected...)

42.1 Make any necessary corrections to the underlined verbs. (A–D)

42.2 Complete these extracts from newspaper articles with a singular or plural form of the verbs in brackets. If both singular and plural forms are possible, give them both. (A–D; also Unit 40)

- 1 The outskirts of our cities (have) benefited from the new out-of-town shopping centres that (have) recently been built.

Compound nouns and noun phrases

A

In a compound consisting of noun + noun, often the second noun gives the general class of things to which the compound belongs and the first noun indicates the type within this class. The first noun usually has a singular form:

- an address book (= a book for addresses; not an addresses book)

However, there are a number of exceptions. These include –

- ☆ when the first noun only has a plural form:

- a savings account a customs officer a clothes shop (compare a shoe shop)
the arms trade (arms = weapons) a glasses case (glasses = spectacles. Compare 'a glass case' = a case made of glass) an arts festival (arts = music, drama, film, dance, painting, etc. Compare 'an art festival'; art = painting, drawing and sculpture)

- ☆ when we refer to an institution (an industry, department, etc.), such as

- the building materials industry the publications department which deals with more than one kind of item or activity (different types of building material, different forms of publication).

Notice that to make a compound noun plural we usually make the second noun plural:

- coal mine(s) office-worker(s) tea leaf/tea leaves

B

Sometimes a noun + noun is not appropriate and instead we use noun + -'s + noun (possessive form) or noun + preposition + noun. In general, we prefer noun + -'s + noun –

- ☆ when the first noun is the user (a person or animal) of the item in the second noun:

- a baby's bedroom a lion's den a women's clinic a girls' school birds' nests

- ☆ when the item in the second noun is produced by the thing (often an animal) in the first:

- goat's cheese duck's eggs cow's milk

(Note, however, lamb chops and chicken drumsticks (= the lower part of a chicken's leg))

- ☆ when we talk about parts of people or animals; but we usually use noun + noun to talk about parts of things. Compare:

- a woman's face a boy's arm but a pen top a computer keyboard

We prefer noun + preposition + noun –

- ☆ when we talk about some kind of container together with its contents. Compare:

- a cup of tea (= a cup with tea in it) and a tea cup (= a cup for drinking tea from)

- ☆ when the combination of nouns does not refer to a well-known class of items. Compare:

- income tax (a recognised class of tax) and a tax on children's clothes (rather than 'a children's clothes tax')

- ☆ in the phrases bird of prey rule of thumb Chief of Staff commander-in-chief sister-in-law

Notice that we usually make a plural form of these phrases by making the first noun plural (e.g. birds of prey). However, we can say either sisters-in-law or sister-in-laws (and brothers-in-law or brother-in-laws, etc.).

C

Some compound nouns are made up of verbs and prepositions or adverbs, and may be related to a two- or three-word verb (see Unit 94). Compare:

- Mansen broke out of the prison by dressing as a woman. (= escaped) and
- There was a major break-out from the prison last night. (= prisoners escaped)

Countable compound nouns like this have a plural form ending in -s:

- read-out(s) push-up(s) intake(s) outcome(s)

However, there are exceptions. For example:

- looker(s)-on (or onlooker(s)) runner(s)-up passer(s)-by hanger(s)-on

D

We can form other kinds of hyphenated phrases that are placed before nouns to say more precisely what the noun refers to:

- a state-of-the-art (= very modern) computer day-to-day (= regular) control

43.1 Study the italicised text and make corrections where necessary. (A & B)

A/an and one

A

We use a before nouns and noun phrases that begin with a consonant sound. If the noun or noun phrase starts with a vowel letter but begins with a consonant sound, we also use a:

- a university (/ə ju:n.../) a European (/ə juər.../) a one-parent family (/ə wʌn.../)

We use an before words that begin with a vowel sound:

- an orange an Italian an umbrella

These include words that begin with a silent letter 'h':

- an hour an honest child an honour an honorary degree and abbreviations said as individual letters that begin with A, E, F, H, I, L, M, N, O, R, S or X:

- an MP (/ən em pi:/) an FBI agent (/ən ef bi: ət.../) an IOU (/ən aɪ əʊ ju:/)

But compare abbreviations said as words:

- a NATO general (/ə nertəʊ.../) a FIFA official (ə fi:fə.../) but an OPEC meeting (/ən əʊpek.../)

Notice that we say

- a history (book) but an (or a) historical (novel)

B

We use a/an (not one) to talk about a particular but unspecified person, thing or event:

- I really need a cup of coffee.
- You never see a police officer in this part of town, do you?

We also use a/an, not one, in number and quantity expressions such as:

- three times a year half an hour a quarter of an hour a day or so (= 'about a day')
- 50 cents a (= each) litre (notice we can also say '50 cents for one litre')
- a week or two (= somewhere between one and two weeks; notice we can also say 'one or two weeks')
- a few a little a huge number of...

We use a rather than one in the pattern a...of... with possessives, as in:

- She's a colleague of mine.
- That's a friend of Bill's.

C

Before a singular countable noun one and a/an both refer to one thing:

- We'll be in Australia for one year. (or ...a year.)
- Wait here for one minute, and I'll be with you. (or ...a minute...)

Using one in sentences like these gives a little more emphasis to the length of time, quantity, amount, etc.:

- He weighs one hundred and twenty kilos! Would you believe it! (using one emphasises the weight more than using a)

However, we use one rather than a/an if we want to emphasise that we are talking about only one thing or person rather than two or more:

- Do you want one sandwich or two?
- Are you staying only one night?
- I just took one look at her and she started crying.

We use one, not a/an, in the pattern one...other/another:

- Close one eye, and then the other.
- Bees carry pollen from one plant to another.

We also use one in phrases such as one day, one evening, one spring, etc. to mean a particular, but unspecified day, evening, spring, etc.:

- Hope to see you again one day.
- One evening, while he was working late at the office...

44.1 Write a or an in the spaces. (A)

- | | |
|---------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1 unpaid bill | 8 U-turn |
| 2 DIY shop | 9 heirloom |
| 3 MA in Russian | 10 NASA space launch |
| 4 Euro | 11 UN decision |
| 5 MiG fighter plane | 12 SOS message |
| 6 Olympic medal | 13 F grade |
| 7 AGM | 14 hero |

44.2 Change a/an or one in these sentences if necessary, or write ✓. In which sentences are both a/an and one possible? (B & C)

- 1 I usually go to the gym four times one week.

A/an, the and zero article (1)

A

We usually use the when we talk about things which are unique – there is only one of them (or one set of them):

- the world the sky the atmosphere the sun the ground the climate the sea
- the horizon the human race the environment the travel industry the arms trade

We also refer to general geographical areas with the as in:

the beach the country the countryside the town the seaside the forest where ‘the country’ or ‘the countryside’ means ‘the area where there are no towns’. We also talk about:

- the past the present the future

Notice, however, that some nouns like this can be used with zero article (i.e. no article) to refer to a concept in general:

- Climate is one of the many factors involved in changing farming methods. (or The climate...)
- The flowers grow best in sandy soil and sun. (= sunshine)
- In autumn the temperature difference between land and sea reduces. (or ...the land and the sea...)

If we want to describe a particular instance of these we can use a/an. Compare:

- I could see the plane high up in the sky. and
- When I woke up there was a bright blue sky.
- What are your plans for the future? and
- She dreamt of a future where she could spend more time painting.

B

We can use the when we make generalisations about classes of things using singular countable nouns. (See also Unit 47A.) Compare the use of the and a/an in these sentences:

- The computer has revolutionised publishing. (this refers to computers in general) but not A computer has revolutionised publishing. (computers in general have done this, not an individual computer)
- The computer is an important research tool. and A computer is an important research tool. (this statement is true of both the general class and the individual item)

As an alternative to the + singular countable noun we can use a plural countable noun to talk about a class of things:

- Computers are an important research tool.

Notice that if the is used with plural and uncountable nouns we refer to a specific thing or group:

- The computers have arrived. Where shall I put them?
- The music was wonderful. I could have listened to the orchestra all night.

When we define something or say what is typical of a particular class of people or things, we generally use a/an rather than the:

- A corkscrew is a gadget for getting corks out of bottles.
- A garden is there to give you pleasure, not to be a constant worry.

C

Some nouns can be used uncountably when we talk about the whole substance or idea, but countably when we talk about an instance or more than one instance of it. When these nouns are used countably we can use a/an (and plurals). Compare:

- I don’t drink coffee. and Would you like a coffee? (= a cup of coffee)
- She’s got blonde hair. and There’s a hair in my soup!
- He shook with fear. and He has a fear of heights.

There are many other nouns like this, including conversation, grammar, importance, iron, pleasure, shampoo, sound. (For more see GR:H2 & H3.) Some of these nouns (e.g. grammar, iron) have different meanings when they are used countably and uncountably (see GR:H3).

A/an, the and zero article (2)

A

We use a/an to say what a person's job is, was, or will be:

- She was a company director when she retired.
- Against her parents' wishes, she wants to be a journalist.

However, when we give a person's job title, or their unique position, we use the or zero article (i.e. no article), not a/an. Compare:

- She's been appointed (the) head of the company. and
- I'm a production manager at Fino. (= there may be more than one production manager)

After the position of, the post of, or the role of we use zero article before a job title:

- Dr Simons has taken on the position of Head of Department.

B

We usually use zero article (i.e. no article) before the name of an individual person or place.

However, we use the –

- ★ when there are two people with the same name and we want to specify which one we are talking about:
 - That's not the Stephen Fraser I went to school with.
but compare 'There was a Stephen Fraser in my class.' (= a person named Stephen Fraser)
- ★ when we want to emphasise that the person we are referring to is the most famous person with that name. Used this way, the is stressed and pronounced /ði:/:
 - Do they mean the Ronald Reagan, or someone else?
- ★ with an adjective to describe a person, or another noun which tells us their job:
 - the late Buddy Holly
 - the artist William Turner
- ★ when we talk about a family as a whole:
 - The Robinsons are away this weekend.

C

Notice that a/an, or sometimes zero article, is used with a name when referring to the particular excellent qualities of the person named:

- Jane plays tennis well, but she'll never be (a) Steffi Graf.

We also use a/an when we refer to an individual example of a product made by a particular manufacturer (e.g. I've just bought a Mercedes) or a work by a particular artist (e.g. Do you think it could be a Van Gogh/a Rembrandt?).

You can use a/an before a person's name if you don't know the person yourself. Compare:

- Dr Perch is here for you. (= I know Dr Perch) and
- There's a Dr Kenneth Perch on the phone. (= I haven't heard of him before) Do you want to talk to him?

D

In stories and jokes in conversation, this is commonly used instead of a/an to introduce a new person or thing. Using this highlights the person or thing as the topic of what is to come next:

- As I was walking along, this spider (= 'a spider') landed on my head, and...
- This man (= 'a man') goes into a chemist and he says...

E

We use the before a superlative adjective (the biggest, the most expensive, etc.) when the superlative adjective is followed by a noun or defining phrase:

- He is the finest young player around at the moment.

However, we can often leave out the, particularly in an informal style, when there is no noun or defining phrase after the superlative adjective. Compare:

- A: Why did you decide to stay in this hotel?
B: It was (the) cheapest. and It was the cheapest I could find.

(Units 45 & 46)

Something very strange happened to me the other night. As I was going home (1) man came up to me. He had (2) untidy hair and (3) paint all over his clothes. When I looked back he had stopped (8) woman. He was telling her that he was (9) President of the United States and that he wanted her to be (10) Defence Secretary...

A/an, the and zero article (3)

With plural and uncountable nouns, zero article (i.e. no article) is used to talk generally, without definite people or things in mind. The is used when we assume the listener or reader will understand who or what we are referring to, or when other words in the noun phrase make the reference specific. Compare:

- The government has promised not to tax books. (= books generally) and
- The books have arrived. (= the books you ordered)
- Music played an important part in his life. (= music generally) and
- I thought the music used in the film was the best part. (= this particular music)

B

We often use zero article with the names of holidays, special times of the year, months, and days of the week including Easter, Ramadan, New Year's Day. But compare:

- I'll see you on Saturday. (= next Saturday) We met on Saturday. (= last Saturday)
- They arrived on a Saturday as far as I can remember. (we are only interested in the day of the week, not which particular Saturday)
- They arrived on the Saturday after my birthday. (a particular Saturday, specifying which one)

With winter, summer, spring, autumn, and New Year (meaning the holiday period), we can use either zero article or the:

- In (the) summer I try to spend as much time as I can in the garden.

We use the when it is understood or we go on to specify which summer, spring, etc. we mean:

- I'd like to go skiing in the autumn. (= this year) I first went skiing in the spring of 1992.

We say 'in the New Year' to mean near the beginning of next year:

- I'll see you again in the New Year.

When we want to describe the features of a particular holiday, season, or other period of time and say that it was somehow special when compared with others, we can use It/That was... + a/an + noun + modifying phrase. Compare:

- That was a winter I'll never forget. (= compared to other winters it was unforgettable) and
- That was the winter we went to Norway. (= a statement about a particular winter)

C

We use zero article with times of the day and night such as midnight, midday, and noon:

- If possible, I'd like it finished by midday. Midnight couldn't come quickly enough.

But notice that we can say either the dawn or dawn:

- He got back into bed and waited for (the) dawn.

We use the + morning/afternoon/evening for a day which is understood or already specified:

- I enjoyed the morning, but in the afternoon the course was boring. But compare:
- Morning is the time I work best. (= mornings in general; The morning... is also possible)
- I'll be there by (the) morning/evening. (but ...by the afternoon, not ...by afternoon)
- I waited all morning. (more usual than all the morning/afternoon, etc.)
- 'You look upset.' 'Yes, I've had a terrible morning.' (= compared to other mornings)

D

We use by + zero article to talk about means of transport and communication, including go/travel by car/taxi/bus/plane/train/air/sea; contact/communicate by post/email/phone. Compare:

- I generally go by bus to work. and I generally take the bus to work.

E

We often use zero article in patterns where repeated or related words are joined by a preposition and used with a general meaning:

- The government makes grants according to criteria that differ from region to region.

Other examples include person to person, back to back, end to end, face to face, side by side, start to finish, day by day, put pen to paper.

Some and any

Some

A

Before plural and uncountable nouns we sometimes use some or zero article (i.e. no article) with very little difference in meaning:

- ‘Where were you last week?’ ‘I was visiting (some) friends.’
- Before serving, pour (some) yoghurt over the top.

With both some and zero article we are referring to particular people or things but in an indefinite way. When it is used in this way, some is usually pronounced /səm/.

We don't use some to make general statements about whole classes of things or people (GR:I8 & I9):

- Furniture can be an expensive item when you buy your first home.
- Babies need lots of care and attention.

B

Some is used before a number to mean ‘approximately’:

- Some eighty per cent of all residents took part in the vote. (= approximately eighty per cent; beginning ‘Eighty per cent...’ suggests a more precise figure)

When it is used in this way, some is usually pronounced /səm/.

C

When we can't say exactly which person or thing we are talking about because we don't know, can't remember, or want to emphasise that it is not important, we can use some instead of a/an with a singular noun. When it is used in this way, some is usually pronounced /səm/.

- He was interrupted twice by some troublemaker in the audience.

We use the phrase some(thing) or other in a similar way:

- I bought them from some shop or other in New Street. (not ...from a shop or other...)

Any

D

We usually use any not some (and anyone, anything, etc. not someone, something, etc.) –

- ☆ in non-affirmative contexts; that is, lacking positive, affirmative meaning.
- ☆ to refer to non-specific, unspecified things.

For example, we generally use any in sentences with a negative meaning when they include negative adverbs such as barely, hardly, never, rarely, scarcely, seldom; negative verbs such as deny, fail, forbid, prevent, prohibit, refuse; negative adjectives such as impossible, reluctant, unable, unlikely; and the preposition without:

- There's hardly any sugar left. We must get some when we go shopping.
- I boarded up the windows to prevent any damage during the storm.
- It was impossible to see anything in the dark.
- We didn't have tickets, but we got into the stadium without any difficulty.

However, we use some with these negative words –

- ☆ when some (pronounced /səm/) has the implication ‘not all’ (see I13):
 - We were able to prevent some damage to the house. (= but not all of it)
 - I talk to colleagues before I take some decisions, but this one I had to decide on my own.
- ☆ when the basic meaning is positive:
 - Somebody isn't telling the truth. (= There is some person (who isn't telling the truth))
- ☆ when we are talking about a particular but unspecified person or thing:
 - I was reluctant to repeat something so critical of Paul. (= a specific criticism)

E

We often use any in clauses that begin with before, and with comparisons:

- I cleared up the mess before anyone saw it. ('...before someone saw it' suggests that I have a particular person in mind who might see it)
- She has as good a chance as anybody of winning the race.
- The material felt softer than anything she had ever touched before.

- 48.1 Complete the sentences with some or zero article (-). If both some and zero article are possible with little difference in meaning, write (some). (A & GR I10-I14)

- 1 There have been allegations of corruption in the government.
- 2 If you're going to the library, could you take back books that I've finished reading?
- 3 The price of coffee is at an all-time low.

- 6 Tony knows more about jazz than anyone I've every met.
- 7 It costs much more to make films today than 10 years ago.
- 8 I need to get bread from the supermarket.

- 48.2 Rewrite these newspaper headlines in your own words using some to mean 'approximately'. The first is done for you. (B)

Some 250 people have been charged with assault following the Molton riots.

- 3 I don't know where the book is. Maybe I lent it
- 4 I don't know where Maggie works. I think it's in
- 5 I don't know why Ken is still at work. Perhaps he's got to

- 48.4 Complete these sentences with some, someone, something, any, anyone or anything. Where both some(one/thing) or any(one/thing) are possible, write them both and consider any difference in meaning. (D & E)

- 1 John worked hard at learning Japanese but failed to make real progress.
- 2 I was unable to eat of the food.

- 12 She valued friendship more than in the world.

No, none (of) and not any

A

We can use no and none (of) instead of not a or not any for particular emphasis. Compare:

- There isn't a train until tomorrow. and There's no train until tomorrow. (more emphatic)
- She didn't give me any help at all. and She gave me no help at all.
- Sorry, there isn't any left. and Sorry, there's none left.
- He didn't have any of the usual symptoms. and He had none of the usual symptoms.

We use other pairs of negative words and phrases in a similar way:

- There isn't anyone/anybody here. and There's no-one/nobody here. (more emphatic)
- I haven't got anything to wear for the party. and I've got nothing to wear for the party.
- She wasn't anywhere to be seen. and She was nowhere to be seen.
- Why don't you ever call me? and Why do you never call me?

B

We don't usually use not a/any, not anyone, etc. in initial position in a sentence or clause, or straight after and, but or that at the beginning of a clause. Instead we use no, none of, no-one, etc.:

- No force was needed to make them move. (not Not any force was needed...)
- Most players are under 16 and none of them is over 20. (not ...and not any of them...)
- We arranged the meeting, but no-one came. (not ...but not anyone...)
- I'm sure that nothing can go wrong. (not ...that not anything can...)

C

In a formal or literary style we can use not a in initial position or after and, but or that (see also Unit 100):

- Not a sound came from the room. (less formally There wasn't a sound from the room.)
- She kept so quiet that not a soul in the house knew she was there.

D

After no, we can often use either a singular or a plural noun with little difference in meaning, although a singular noun is usually more formal:

- No answers could be found. (or more formally No answer...)
- We want to go to the island but there are no boats to take us. (or more formally ...there is no boat.)

However, we use a singular noun in situations where we would expect one of something, and a plural noun where we would expect more than one. Compare:

- I phoned Sarah at home, but there was no answer. (not ...but there were no answers.) and
- He seems very lonely at school, and has no friends. (not ...no friend.)

E

We can give special emphasis to no or none of using phrases like no amount of with uncountable nouns, not one.../ not a single... with singular countable nouns, and not one of... with plural nouns:

- The company is so badly managed that no amount of investment will make it successful.
- It was clear that no amount of planning could have improved the situation.
- Not one person remembered my birthday. (or Not a single person...)
- Not one of the families affected by the noise wants to move.

F

Some phrases with no are commonly used in informal spoken English: No wonder (= it's not surprising); No idea (= I don't know); No comment (= I have nothing to say); No way, No chance (= emphatic ways of saying 'no', particularly to express refusal to do or believe something); No problem, No bother (= it isn't/wasn't difficult to do something):

- 'The computer's not working again.' 'No wonder. It's not plugged in!'
- 'Thanks for the lift.' 'No problem. I had to go past the station anyway.'

Much (of), many (of), a lot of, lots (of), etc.

A

In affirmative sentences we generally use a lot of and lots (of) rather than much (of) and many (of), particularly in informal contexts. However, there are a number of exceptions –

- ☆ In formal contexts, such as academic writing, much (of) and many (of) are often preferred. We can also use phrases such as a large/considerable/substantial amount of (with uncountable nouns), or a large/considerable/great/substantial number of (with plural nouns):
 - Much debate has been heard about Thornton's new book.
 - There could be many explanations for this.
 - Much of her fiction describes women in unhappy marriages.
 - A large amount of the food was inedible. (or Much of...)
 - The book contains a large number of pictures, many in colour. (or ...many...)
- ☆ In formal contexts we can use much and many as pronouns:
 - There is no guarantee of a full recovery. Much depends on how well she responds to treatment.
 - The government's policies have done much to reduce unemployment.
 - Many (= many people) have argued that she is the finest poet of our generation.
 - Not once did I see a tiger in the jungle, although I heard many. (referring back to 'tiger(s)')
- ☆ We usually use many rather than a lot of or lots of with time expressions (days, minutes, months, weeks, years) and number + of (e.g. thousands of voters, millions of pounds):
 - We used to spend many hours driving to Melbourne and back.
 - He was the founder of a company now worth many millions of pounds.

B

We can use many following the, my, its, his, her, etc. and plural countable nouns:

- Among the many unknowns after the earthquake is the extent of damage to the foundations of buildings.
- The gallery is exhibiting some of his many famous paintings of ships.

We can use the phrase many a with a singular noun to talk about a repeated event or a large number of people or things:

- The manager must have spent many a sleepless night worrying about his team selection.
- Many a pupil at the school will be pleased that Latin is no longer compulsory.

C

To emphasise that we are talking about a large number we can use a good/great many with a plural noun:

- She has a good/great many friends in New Zealand.

To emphasise that we are talking about a large amount we can use a good/great deal of with a singular or uncountable noun:

- A good/great deal of the exhibition was devoted to her recent work.

D

We use far (not 'much' or 'many') before too many + a plural countable noun or too much + an uncountable noun:

- Far too many students failed the end-of-year maths exam. (not Much/Many too many...)
- Far too much time is wasted filling in forms. (not Much/Many too much time...)

E

We often use plenty of instead of a lot of or lots of with uncountable and plural countable nouns. However, plenty of means 'enough, or more than enough' and is therefore not likely in certain contexts. Compare:

- We took lots of food and drink on our walk through the hills. (or ...plenty of...) and
- Jim doesn't look well. He's lost a lot of weight. ('plenty of' is unlikely here)

- 50.1 Make corrections or improvements to these extracts from conversations (1–3) and from academic writing (4–6). (A, C, D & E)

- 1 Sheila's had many problems with her back for a lot of years. She's having an operation next week and she won't be back at work for a good deal of weeks afterwards.
- 2 'There's bound to be much traffic on the way to the station. Perhaps we should leave now.' 'Don't worry, there's plenty time left, and at this time of day many people will already be at work.'
- 3 Many think that hedgehogs are very rare nowadays, but when I was in Wales I saw many.
- 4 A lot have claimed that Professor Dowman's study on current attitudes to politics is flawed. One criticism is that much too many people questioned in the survey were under 18.
- 5 A lot of research has been conducted on the influence of diet on health, with a lot of studies focusing on the relationship between fat intake and heart disease. However, a lot remains to be done.
- 6 While it is true that a lot of thousands of jobs were lost with the decline of the northern coal and steel industries, a lot of advantages have also followed. Much too many cases of lung disease were recorded in the region, but with lower levels of pollution the number has declined. In addition, a great deal of hi-tech companies have moved in to take advantage of the newly available workforce.

- 50.2 Complete the sentences with either the/my/its/his/her many or many a/an and then one of the following. (B)

| | | | |

- 4 We were surprised when students failed to attend the lecture.
- 5 I'm looking forward to a relaxing holiday, and I'm taking books to read.

All (of), whole, every, each

All (of)

A

We sometimes use all after the noun it refers to:

- His songs all sound much the same to me.* (or All (of) his songs sound...)
- We all think Ann's working too hard.* (or All of us think...)

Notice that we usually put all after the verb be and after the first auxiliary verb if there is one:

- They are all going to Athens during the vacation.* (not They all are going...)
- You should all have three question papers.* (not You all should have...; however, note that we can say 'You all should have...' for particular emphasis in spoken English)

B

To make negative sentences with all (of) we usually use not all (of) rather than all...not (although all...not is sometimes used in informal spoken English):

- Not all (of) the seats were taken.* or The seats were not all taken.

Note that not all and none of have a different meaning. Compare:

- Not all my cousins were at the wedding.* (= some of them were there) and
- None of my cousins were at the wedding.* (= not one of them was there)

All and whole

C

Before singular countable nouns we usually use the whole rather than all the:

- They weren't able to stay for the whole concert.* (rather than...for all the concert.)

However, we can also say all + day/week/night/month/winter, etc. (but not usually all October/2001/ 21st May, etc.; all Monday/Tuesday, etc. are only usually used in informal contexts); all the time, all the way; and in informal speech we can use all the with things that we see as being made up of parts (all the world/house/city/country/department, etc.):

- She spent the whole winter in the south of Spain.* (or ...all winter...)
- After the fire the whole city was covered in dust.* (or ...all the city... in informal speech)

Notice that we can use entire instead of whole immediately before a noun:

- The whole/entire building has recently been renovated.*

Before plural nouns we can use all (of) or whole, but they have different meanings. Compare:

- All (of) the towns had their electricity cut off.* (= every town in an area) and
- After the storm, whole towns were left without electricity.* (= some towns were completely affected; note that we don't say '...whole the towns...')

Every and each

D

Often we can use every or each with little difference in meaning. However, we use every –

- ★ with almost, nearly, virtually, etc. to emphasise we are talking about a group as a whole:

- Almost every visitor stopped and stared.* (not Almost each visitor...)

- ★ with a plural noun when every is followed by a number:

- I go to the dentist every six months.* (rather than ...each six months.)

- ★ in phrases referring to regular or repeated events such as: every other (kilometre), every single (day), every so often, every few (months), and every now and again (= occasionally)

- ★ with abstract uncountable nouns such as chance, confidence, hope, reason, and sympathy to show a positive attitude to what we are saying. Here every means 'complete' or 'total':

- She has every chance of success in her application for the job.*

We use each –

- ★ when we are talking about both people or things in a pair:

- I only had two suitcases, but each one weighed over 20 kilos.*

- ★ as a pronoun:

- I asked many people and each gave the same answer.* (or ...each/every one gave...)

51.1 Put all in the more appropriate space in each sentence. (A)

- 1 They were sitting around the table waiting for me.
- 2 You can stay for dinner if you want.
- 3 It had happened so quickly, I couldn't remember much about it.

51.4 Find any mistakes in the italicised parts of this text and suggest corrections. (A-D)

(1) Each so often I like to invite (2) my entire family – my parents, six brothers and their families – over for dinner on Saturday evening. My parents are quite old now, so I like to see them (3) each few weeks. It's quite a lot of work and I usually spend (4) all Friday shopping and cooking. Some of my family are fussy about what they eat, so I generally have to cook different things for (5) every of them. Fortunately, (6) all the food doesn't usually get eaten, so I have plenty left for the rest of the week. (7) None of my brothers always come, but the ones who live locally usually do. This time (8) Neil and his family all were on holiday so they couldn't make it. (9) We had all a great time and we spent (10) the whole evening talking about when we were children.

Few, little, less, fewer

A

We often use (a) few and (a) little with nouns. However, we can also use them as pronouns:

- Little is known about the painter's early life.
- It is a part of the world visited by few. (= few people)
- Do you want a chocolate? There's still a few left. (= a few chocolates)
- The password is known by only a few. (= a few people)
- 'Do you know anything about car engines?' 'A little.' (= I know a little about car engines)

Note that quite a few means 'quite a large number':

- She's been away from work for quite a few weeks.

B

We can use the few and the little followed by a noun to suggest 'not enough' when we talk about a group of things or people (with few) or part of a group or amount (with little):

- It's one of the few shops in the city centre where you can buy food.
- We should use the little time we have available to discuss Jon's proposal.

Instead of the few/little we can use what few/little to mean 'the small (number/amount)':

- She gave what little money she had in her purse to the man. (or ...the little money...)
- What few visitors we have are always made welcome. (or The few visitors...)

Notice that we can also say 'She gave what/the little she had...' and 'What/The few we have...' when it is clear from the context what is being referred to.

We can use few (but rarely little) after personal pronouns (my, her, etc.) and these and those:

- I learned to play golf during my few days off during the summer.
- She put her few clothes into a bag, and walked out of the house for ever.
- These few miles of motorway have taken over ten years to build.

C

In speech and informal writing, it is more usual to use not many/much or only/just... a few/little instead of few and little to talk about a small amount or number, and we often use a bit (of) in informal speech instead of a little:

- Sorry I haven't finished, I haven't had much time today. (rather than ...I had little time...)
- I won't be long. I've only got a few things to get. (rather than ...I've got few things...)
- Want a bit of chocolate? (rather than ...a little chocolate?)

In more formal contexts, such as academic writing, we generally prefer few and little:

- The results take little account of personal preference. (rather than ...don't take much...)

D

less (than) and fewer (than)

We use less with uncountable nouns and fewer with plural countable nouns:

- You should eat less pasta.
- There are fewer cars on the road today.

Less is sometimes used with a plural countable noun (e.g. ...less cars...), particularly in conversation. However, this is grammatically incorrect.

We use less than with a noun phrase indicating an amount:

- I used to earn less than a pound a week when I first started work.

Less than is sometimes also used with a noun phrase referring to a group of things or people, particularly in conversation. However, some people think this is incorrect, particularly in formal contexts, and that fewer than should be used instead:

- There were fewer than twenty students present. (or informally ...less than...)

When we talk about a distance or a sum of money we use less than, not fewer than:

- The beach is less than a mile away.

To emphasise that a number is surprisingly large we can use no less than or no fewer than:

- The team has had no fewer than ten managers in just five years. (or ...no less than...)

Notice that we prefer no less than with percentages, periods of time and quantities:

- Profits have increased by no less than 95% in the last year. (rather than ...no fewer than...)

- 52.1 Complete the sentences with (a) few, (a) little, the few, the little, what few or what little, giving alternatives where possible. (A & B)

- 1 Thomas was named sportsman of the year, and would disagree with that decision.
- 2 remains of the old castle walls except the Black Gate.
- 3 She called her remaining relatives together and told them she was leaving.
- 4 Simpson is among foreign journalists allowed into the country.
- 5 evidence we have so far suggests that the new treatment will be important in the fight against AIDS.
- 6 'Has my explanation helped?' '....., yes.'
- 7 belongings she had were packed into a small suitcase.
- 8 will forget the emotional scenes as Wilson gave his farewell performance in front of a huge audience.
- 9 The announcement will come as surprise.
- 10 Tony hasn't been looking well recently, and I'm worried about him.
- 11 'Have there been many applications for the job?' 'Yes, quite'.
- 12 The children weren't well so I had to take days off.
- 13 I don't have much money, but I'm happy to lend you I have.
- 14 The tax reforms will mean less income for the majority of people and more for

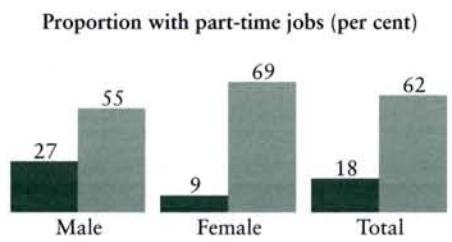

- 52.2 If necessary, suggest changes to the italicised text in these examples from conversations (1–4) and from academic writing (5–8). (C)

- 1 'Did you do anything last night?' 'I just watched a little TV and then went to bed.'
- 2 Take some sweets if you want, although there are few left.
- 3 I've tried to help her, but there's little more I can do.

- 8 There doesn't seem to be much prospect of ever recovering the missing manuscript.

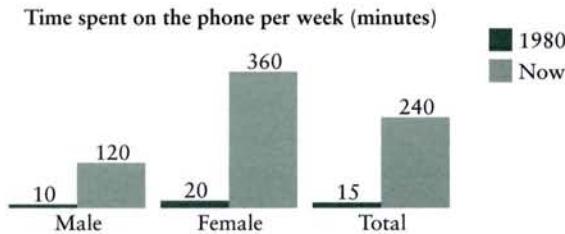

- 52.3 A survey of British university students was conducted in 1980 and recently repeated. Some of the results are given below. Comment on them in sentences using fewer (than) or less (than). (D)

- 1 Do you have a part-time job?
Fewer students had a part-time job in 1980 than now.

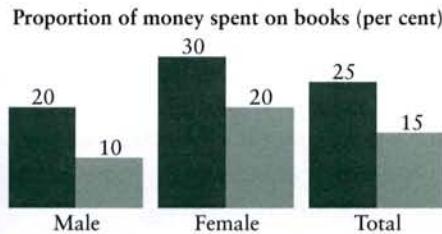

- 3 Do you walk to the university?

- 4 On average, how much time per week do you spend on the phone?

- 2 What proportion of your money do you spend on books?

Are there any results that surprise you? Comment on them using no less than or no fewer than.

Relative pronouns

A

Defining and non-defining relative clauses (see also GR: J1–J2) begin with a relative pronoun, which can sometimes be omitted:

- We went to a beach (which/that) Jane had recommended to us.

Here the relative pronoun refers to ‘a beach’, and the subject of the relative clause is ‘Jane’. Compar-

- I know a man who/that ran in the New York Marathon last year.

where the relative pronoun refers to ‘a man’, and the subject of the relative clause is also ‘a man’. In this case, the relative pronoun can’t be omitted.

B

When we use a defining relative clause, the relative pronoun can be either the subject or the object of the relative clause. When it is the subject the word order is subject + verb + object:

- I have a friend who/that plays guitar. (a friend = subject, plays = verb, guitar = object)

When the relative pronoun is the object the word order is object + subject + verb:

- He showed me the rocks (which/that) he had collected. (the rocks = object, he = subject, had collected = verb)

C

Relative pronouns are used to add information in defining relative clauses as follows:

adding information about things

| Relative pronoun | which | that | no relative pronoun |
|------------------|-------|------|---------------------|
| subject | ✓ | ✓ | ✗ |
| object | ✓ | ✓ | ✓ |

adding information about people

| Relative pronoun | who | that | no relative pronoun | whom |
|------------------|-----|------|---------------------|------|
| subject | ✓ | ✓ | ✗ | ✗ |
| object | ✓ | ✓ | ✓ | ✓ |

★ When we add information about things, we can use that (or no relative pronoun) as object in conversation and which in more formal contexts:

- Decorating’s a job (that) I hate. (rather than ‘...which...’ in this informal context)

★ When we add information about people, we generally prefer that (or no relative pronoun) as object in informal contexts rather than who or whom:

- That’s the man (that) I met at Alison’s party (*rather than*who/whom I met...)

★ whom is very formal and rarely used in spoken English:

- The boy whom Elena had shouted at smiled. (less formally that, no relative pronoun or who)

★ We use that as subject after: something and anything; words such as all, little, much, and none used as pronouns; and noun phrases that include superlatives. Which is also used as subject after something and anything, but less commonly:

- These walls are all that remain of the city. (not ... which remain of the city.)

★ Note that we can use that (or no relative pronoun) as object after something/anything; all, etc.; and noun phrases with superlatives. For example:

- She’s one of the kindest people (that) I know. (not ...one of the kindest people who I know.)

D

Relative pronouns are used to add information in non-defining relative clauses as follows:

adding information about things

| Relative pronoun | which | that |
|------------------|-------|------|
| subject | ✓ | ✓ |
| object | ✓ | ✓ |

adding information about people

| Relative pronoun | who | whom |
|------------------|-----|------|
| subject | ✓ | ✗ |
| object | ✓ | ✓ |

★ Notice that we must include a relative pronoun in a non-defining relative clause.

★ We can use who or whom as object, although whom is very formal:

- Professor Johnson, who(m) I have long admired, is to visit the University next week.

★ When we add information about things, we can use which as subject or object. That is sometimes used instead of which, but some people think this is incorrect:

- The Master’s course, which I took in 1990, is no longer taught. (or ...that I took...)

53.1 Put brackets around the underlined relative pronoun if it can be omitted from these sentences. (A)

- 1 We talked about the party which Sarah wants to organise for my birthday.
- 2 To get to Frank's house, take the main road that bypasses the village.
- 3 The paintings which Mr Flowers has in his house are worth around £100,000.

- 8 In the shop window there's a sign that says 'Ten per cent off'.
- 9 The couple who live next to us have sixteen grandchildren.
- 10 There was little that we could do to help her.

53.2 Write the information in brackets as a relative clause (defining or non-defining) in an appropriate place in the sentence. Give alternative relative pronouns if possible. (Use – to indicate 'no relative pronoun') (C & D)

- 1 Susan said something. (I couldn't hear it clearly) ... Susan said something that/ which/ – I couldn't hear clearly.
- 2 Julia's father has just come back from a skiing holiday. (he is over 80)

.....
- 8 The minister talked about the plans for tax reform. (he will reveal them next month)
.....
- 9 I have two older sisters. (I love them very much)
.....

53.3 If necessary, correct or make improvements to these sentences. If they are already correct, write ✓. (A–D)

- 1 There's something which I should tell you.
- 2 The doctor whom Ingrid went to see was very thorough.
- 3 Yesterday was the hottest day I can remember.
- 4 There isn't much can go wrong with the machine.

Other relative words: whose, when, whereby, etc.

A

Clauses with whose

We use a relative clause beginning with the relative pronoun whose + noun, particularly in written English, when we talk about something belonging to or associated with a person, animal or plant:

- Stevenson is an architect whose designs have won international praise.
 - Sue was taking care of a rabbit whose ears were badly damaged in a fight with a cat.
- We can use whose in both defining and non-defining relative clauses (see GR: J1–J2).

We generally avoid using whose to talk about something belonging to or associated with a thing:

- I received a letter, and its poor spelling made me think it was written by a child. (more natural than 'I received a letter, whose poor spelling made me think...')

However, we sometimes use whose when we talk about towns, countries, or organisations:

- The film was made in Botswana, whose wildlife parks are larger than those in Kenya.
- We need to learn from companies whose trading is more healthy than our own.

In academic writing whose is used to talk about a wide variety of ‘belonging to’ relationships:

- Students are encouraged to use an appropriate theory in order to solve problems whose geographical limits are clear.

B

Clauses with when, whereby, where and why

We can begin relative and other clauses with when (referring to time), whereby (method or means; used mainly in formal contexts), and where (location). In formal English in particular, a phrase with preposition + which can often be used instead of these:

- He wasn't looking forward to the time when he would have to leave. (or ...the time at which ...)
- Do you know the date when we have to hand in the essay? (or ...the date on/by which...)
- The government is to end the system whereby (= ‘by which means’) farmers make more money from leaving land unplanted than from growing wheat. (or ...the system in/by which farmers...)
- This was the place where we first met. (or ...the place at/in which we...)

In academic English, we can also use where to refer to relationships other than location, particularly after words such as case, condition, example, situation, system:

- Later in this chapter we will introduce cases where consumer complaints have resulted in changes in the law. (or more formally ...cases in which...)

We can also use a/the reason why or a/the reason that or just a/the reason:

- I didn't get a pay rise, but this wasn't the reason why I left. (or ...the reason (that) I left.)

C

Clauses with who and what; whatever, whoever and whichever

Some clauses beginning with a wh-word are used like a noun phrase in a sentence. These are sometimes called nominal relative clauses:

- Can you give me a list of who's been invited? (= the people who have been invited)
- I didn't know what I should do next. (= the thing that I should do next)

Notice that we can't use what in this way after a noun:

- I managed to get all the books that you asked for. (not ...all the books what you asked for.)

We use clauses beginning with whatever (= anything or it doesn't matter what), whoever (= the person/group who or any person/group who), or whichever (= one thing or person from a limited number, to talk about things or people that are indefinite or unknown):

- I'm sure I'll enjoy eating whatever you cook.
- Whoever wins will go on to play Barcelona in the final.
- Whichever one of you broke the window will have to pay for it.

Prepositions in relative clauses

A

In formal styles noun + of which is often preferred to whose + noun when we talk about things:

- A huge amount of oil was spilled, the effects of which are still being felt.
- The end of the war, the anniversary of which is on the 16th November, will be commemorated in cities throughout the country.

We can use of which and of whose, but not usually which or whose, after all, both, each, many, most, neither, none, part, some, a number (one, two, etc.; the first, the second, etc.; half, a third, etc.) and superlatives (the best, the biggest, etc.):

- Lotta was able to switch between German and Russian, both of which she spoke fluently. (not ...both which she spoke fluently.)
- She joined the local tennis club, most of whose members were at least 60.

In formal contexts, of which can be used instead of that/which...of in relative clauses:

- The school that/which she is head of is closing. (or more formally The school of which she...)
- The book that/which he's most proud of... (or more formally The book of which he...)

B

In formal, mainly written, English whose can come after a preposition in a relative clause. However, it is more natural to put the preposition at the end of the clause in less formal contexts and in spoken English:

- The council is in discussion with Lord Thomas, on whose land most of the village is built. (or less formally ...Lord Thomas, whose land most of the village is built on.)
- I now turn to Freud, from whose work the following quotation is taken. (or less formally ...Freud, whose work the following quotation is taken from.)

C

When a preposition is needed with the relative pronouns which and whom we usually put it before the relative pronoun in formal styles:

- The rate at which a material heats up depends on its chemical composition.
- Her many friends, among whom I like to be considered, gave her encouragement.

After a preposition we usually use whom rather than who in formal styles:

Is it right that politicians should make important decisions without consulting the public to whom they are accountable? (rather than ...the public to who they are accountable.) and we don't use that or no relative pronoun:

- The valley in which the town lies is heavily polluted. (not The valley in that the town lies is heavily polluted.; not The valley in the town lies is heavily polluted.)

In less formal English we usually put the preposition later in the relative clause rather than at the beginning:

- The office that Graham took us to was filled with books.

and we prefer who (or that) rather than whom (see also Unit 26A):

- The playground wasn't used by the children who it was built for.

D

If the verb in the relative clause is a two-word verb (e.g. come across, fill in, look after, take on) we don't usually put the preposition before the relative pronoun:

- The Roman coins, which a local farmer came across in a field, are now on display in the National Museum. (not ...coins, across which the local farmer came, are...)

With three-word verbs, we only put the preposition before the relative pronoun in a very formal or literary style, and many people avoid this pattern:

- She is one of the few people to whom I look up. (or less formally ...who I look up to.)

- 55.1 Rewrite these sentences so that they are more appropriate for formal written English. Use preposition + which or preposition + whose, as appropriate. (A & B)

1 Fleming's discovery of penicillin, which he was awarded the Nobel Prize for, had a major influence on the lives of people in the 20th century.

1 My English teacher, Mrs Brookes, was someone who/that/- I had great respect for.

- 55.4 Suggest corrections or improvements to these sentences or write ✓ if they are already correct. (A, C & D)

Other ways of adding information to noun phrases (1): additional noun phrases, etc.

A

We sometimes add information about a person or thing referred to in one noun phrase by talking about the same person or thing in a different way in a following noun phrase:

- A hooded cobra, one of the world's most dangerous snakes, has escaped from Dudley Zoo.
- Dr Alex Parr, director of the State Museum, is to become the government's arts adviser.
- When Tom fell off his bike we gave him arnica, a medicine made from a flower, for the bruising.

In writing, the items are usually separated by a comma, and in speech they are often separated by a pause or other intonation break. However, when the second item acts like a defining relative clause, when it is usually a name, there is usually no punctuation in writing or intonation break in speech:

- My friend Jim has moved to Sweden. (rather than My friend, Jim, ...)
- The current champion is expected to survive her first-round match with the Italian Silvia Farina. (rather than ...the Italian, Silvia Farina.)

B

We can add information to a noun phrase with a conjunction such as and or or:

- Kurt Svensson, her teacher and well-known concert pianist, thinks that she has great talent. (= her teacher is also a well-known concert pianist)
- My business partner and great friend Tom Edwards is getting married today.
- Phonetics or the study of speech sounds is a common component on courses in teaching English as a foreign language.

C

The adverb namely and the phrase that is are used to add details about a noun phrase:

- This side-effect of the treatment, namely weight gain, is counteracted with other drugs.
- The main cause of global warming, that is the burning of fossil fuels, is to be the focus of negotiations at the international conference.

D

We can also add information to a noun phrase using a participle clause beginning with an -ing, -ed or being + -ed verb form. These are often similar to defining relative clauses (see GR: J1–2):

- Any passengers travelling to Cambridge should sit in the first two carriages of the train. (or Any passengers who are travelling...)
- The people living next door come from Italy. (or The people who are living next door...)
- The weapon used in the murder has now been found. (or The weapon that was used..)
- The book published last week is his first novel. (or The book that was published last week...)
- The prisoners being released are all women. (or The prisoners who are being released...)
- The boys being chosen for the team are under 9. (or The boys who are being chosen...)

Notice that -ing participle clauses correspond to defining relative clauses with an active verb, while -ed and being + -ed clauses correspond to defining relative clauses with a passive verb.

We can also use a to-infinitive clause, as in:

- Have you brought a book to read? (= you bring it and you read it)
- Have you brought a book for Kevin to read? (= you bring it and Kevin reads it)
- My decision to resign from the company was made after a great deal of thought.
- I thought that the decision of the committee, to increase staff holidays, was a good one.

E

In written English, particularly in newspapers, -ing and -ed clauses are also used instead of non-defining relative clauses. These are usually written between commas or dashes (–):

- The men, wearing anoraks and hats, made off in a stolen Volvo estate.
- The proposals – expected to be agreed by ministers – are less radical than many employers had feared.

- 56.1 Add the information given below to the sentences and rewrite them in an appropriate way, using the examples in A and B as models.

Klaus Schmidt is the current European champion

Andy Todd is head of Downlands Hospital

Beluga caviar is among the most expensive food in the world

Tonya's father has also been her trainer for the last 10 years

Paul Jennings is Australian My colleague is Paul

Gofast Technology is part of the Maddison Enterprises Group

Another name for rubella is German measles

The German 10,000 metres record holder is also the current European champion

- 1 Gofast Technology has launched its new generation of high-speed trains.

- 56.2 Match the sentence beginnings (in i) and endings (in ii) and add appropriate information (from iii) after namely or that is. The first is done for you. (C)

1+e Leo Tolstoy's most celebrated novel, namely War and Peace, was published in 1869.

- 56.3 Complete the sentences with an -ing, -ed or being + -ed form of these verbs. Then rewrite the sentence using a relative clause instead of the participle clause. (D) build drive educate elect flow hold

- 1 The man driving the bus is my brother. The man who is driving the bus is my brother.
- 2 I went to a reunion for students in the physics department during the 1980s.
- 3 As my aunt told me what she thought, I felt like a schoolboy by his headmaster.
- 4 There is a sign on the gate 'Entry forbidden'.

- 9 Mary O'Brien, the Democrat to the council only last week, has resigned.
- 10 We live in a house in 1906.
- 11 The protest march next week is expected to attract over 100,000 people.

Other ways of adding information to noun phrases (2): prepositional phrases, etc.

A

We commonly add information about a thing or person using a prepositional phrase. Often these have a meaning similar to a relative clause:

- What's the name of the man by the window? (or ...the man who's by the window?)
- It's in the cupboard under the stairs. (or ...the cupboard that's under the stairs.)
- She lives in the house with the red door. (or ...the house which has the red door.)

In some cases, however, these prepositional phrases do not have a corresponding relative clause:

- You need to keep a careful record of what you spend.
- There is likely to be an increase in temperature tomorrow.

We often prefer a relative clause rather than a prepositional phrase in non-defining relative clauses with be + preposition or with have as a main verb:

- Johnson*, who was in the store at the time of the robbery, was able to identify two of the men. (rather than ...Johnson, in the store...)
- Jim Morton*, who has a farm in Devon, has decided to grow only organic vegetables. (rather than Jim Morton, with a farm in Devon, has...)

B

In written English, particularly in academic writing, a series of prepositional phrases and relative clauses is often used to add information about a previous noun phrase. Note that prepositional phrases can also be used with an adverbial function (e.g. '...taken the drug in the last 6 months' in the sentence below):

- Doctors are contacting patients with diabetes who have taken the drug in the last 6 months.
- Scientists in Spain who have developed the technique are optimistic that it will be widely used in laboratories within the next decade.

We can also use participle clauses and noun phrases (see Unit 56) in a series of clauses/phrases which add information to the preceding noun phrase:

- The waxwing is the only bird found in Britain with yellow and red tail feathers.
- Mr Bob Timms, leader of the Democratic Party, MP for Threeoaks, has announced his resignation.

C

Notice that adding a series of prepositional phrases can often lead to ambiguity. For example:

The protesters were demonstrating against the mistreatment of animals on farms.
 could mean either that the place the protesters were demonstrating was 'on farms' or that the animals were 'on farms'. We could make the sentence unambiguous with, for example:

- The protesters were demonstrating on farms against the mistreatment of animals. or
- The protesters were demonstrating against the mistreatment of animals kept on farms.

57.1 Match the sentence halves, adding an appropriate preposition, as in 1. (A)

- | | |
|--|-----------------------|
| 1 Jane's the girl... | a ...green shirts. |
| 2 She's in the photograph... | b ...the back garden. |
| 3 I plan to cut down the tree... | c ...blonde hair. |
| 4 There's a team of people... | d ...the canal. |
| 5 I walked along the footpath... | e ...the piano. |
| 6 The children can't get over the fence... | f ...Paris to Lyons. |
| 7 Go along the lane... | g ...the houses. |
| 8 Jack's a boy... | h ...New Zealand. |
| 9 Follow the main road... | i ...the pool. |
| 10 She's a teacher... | j ...a quick temper. |

1 + c Jane's the girl with blonde hair.

57.2 Rewrite the sentences in 57.1 with defining relative clauses. (A)

1 Jane's the girl who has blonde hair.

57.3 Complete the sentence by adding the pieces of information given. Use relative clauses (see Unit 53), additional noun phrases and participle clauses (Unit 56) and prepositional phrases (Unit 57).

1 Police are questioning men... between 25 and 30 living in the village, known to have a criminal record.

(The men are between 25 and 30. They live in the village. They are known to have a criminal record.)

2 Teachers...

(The teachers work at Queen's College. Queen's College is in the city centre. The teachers went on strike last week. They have appointed Jacqui Smith as their spokesperson. She is the head of English.)

3 Marge Scott...

(Marge Scott has died. She was aged 95. She was educated at Marston College. She was the first woman to be educated there. Marston College is in south Wales.)

4 The conference...

(The conference was held in Singapore. It approved the world trade agreement. The agreement was drawn up by European and Asian states. The conference has now ended.)

5 A book...

(The book is on gardening. It is called All about Plants. Mary wanted to borrow it. It wasn't available in the library.)

6 A painting...

(The painting was found in a second-hand shop. It was found by Beth Sands. She is an antique dealer. She is from York. The painting is thought to be by J.M.W. Turner. Turner was a British landscape artist.)

57.4 Why are these sentences ambiguous? Can you rewrite them to remove the ambiguity? (C)

1 A man was talking with a grey suit.

2 A lorry was stopped by a police officer carrying thousands of stolen cigarettes.

3 I discussed my plan to decorate the room with my parents.

Participle clauses with adverbial meaning (1)

A

We can use present participle (-ing) and past participle (-ed) clauses with an adverbial meaning. (See also Unit 59.) Clauses like these often give information about the timing, causes, and results of the events described:

- Opening her eyes*, the baby began to cry. (= When she opened her eyes...)
- Faced with a bill for £10,000*, John has taken an extra job. (= Because he is faced...)
- Looked after carefully*, the plant can live through the winter. (= If it is looked after...)
- Having completed the book*, he had a holiday. (perfect; = When/Because he had completed...)
- The fruit was expensive, being imported. (simple passive; = ...because it was imported)
- Having been hunted close to extinction*, the rhino is once again common in this area. (perfect passive; = Although it had been hunted close to extinction...)

B

The implied subject of a participle clause (that is, a subject known but not directly mentioned) is usually the same as the subject of the main clause:

Arriving at the party, we saw Ruth standing alone. (= When we arrived...we saw...) However, sometimes the implied subject is not referred to in the main clause:

- Having wanted* to drive a train all his life, this was an opportunity not to be missed.

In careful speech and writing we avoid different subjects for the participle and main clause:

- Turning round quickly, the door hit me in the face. (first implied subject = 'I'; second subject = 'the door')

C

In formal English, the participle clause sometimes has its own subject, which is often a pronoun or includes one:

- The collection of vases is priceless, some being over two thousand years old.
- Her voice breaking with emotion*, Jean spoke about her father's illness.

We use a present participle (-ing) clause to talk about something happening at the same time as an event in the main clause, or to give information about the facts given in the main clause.

D

When we use not in a participle clause it usually comes before the participle. However, it can follow the participle, depending on the part of the sentence affected by not. Compare:

- Wishing not* to go out that night, I made an excuse. ('not' relates to 'to go out that night'; the sentence means 'I didn't want to go out on that particular night') and
- Not wishing to* go out that night, I made an excuse. ('not' relates to 'wish to go out that night'; the sentence could mean 'going out on that particular night wasn't my wish')

E

We use a clause beginning with having + past participle rather than a present participle if the action in the main clause is the consequence of the event in the participle clause:

- Having won* every major judo title, Mark retired from international competition. (or After winning...; not Winning every major judo title...)
- Having broken* her leg the last time she went, Brenda decided not to go on the school skiing trip this year. (or After breaking her leg...; not Breaking her leg...)

We can use either a present participle (-ing) clause or a having + past participle clause with a similar meaning when the action in the participle clause is complete before the action in the main clause begins. Compare:

- Taking off* his shoes, Ray walked into the house. (Having taken off... has a similar meaning) and
- Running* across the field, I fell and hurt my ankle. (= While I was running...; 'Having run...' would suggest that I fell after I had run across the field)

58.1 Rewrite the sentences beginning with one of the clause forms shown in A and D.

- 1 When she saw the dog coming towards her, she quickly crossed the road.
Seeing the dog coming towards her, she quickly crossed the road.
- 2 As she was dressed all in black, she couldn't be seen in the starless night.
- 3 As I don't have a credit card, I found it difficult to book an airline ticket over the phone.
- 4 Keith spent a lot of time filling in job application forms because he was unemployed.
- 5 Because I was walking quickly, I soon caught up with her.
- 6 The house was built of wood, so it was clearly a fire risk.
- 7 I was eager to catch the bus in good time because I had been told off the day before for arriving late.
- 8 She didn't know where the theatre was, so she asked for directions at the hotel reception.
- 9 As she was a nurse, she knew what to do after the accident.
- 10 He had spent his childhood in Oslo so he knew the city well.

58.2 Where the implied subject of the two clauses is the same write S and where it is different write D. In the sentences where it is different, rewrite the sentence to make it more acceptable. (B)

- 1 Waiting for the bus, a car went through a puddle and splashed water all over me.
- 2 Known mainly as a writer of novels, James has now written a successful biography.
- 3 Keeping a careful eye on the spider, Suzanne hurried out of the bathroom.
- 4 Looking down from the hill, the town spread out before us towards the coast.
- 5 Feeling rather sick, the boat ploughed through the huge waves.
- 6 Found only in the Andes, the plant is used by local people to treat skin diseases.

58.3 Choose the more appropriate position for not in these sentences. (D)

- 1 wishing to boast, she said nothing about her success.
- 2 pretending to notice that people were staring at me, I carried on looking on the floor for my lost contact lens.
- 3 determined to be beaten, she put all her energy into the serve.
- 4 feeling well, she went home early.
- 5 bothering to put on his coat, he left the house.
- 6 trying to cry, she waved to Mark as the train pulled out.

58.4 Complete the sentences with either having + past participle or the -ing form of one of these verbs. In which is it also possible to use either form with a similar meaning? (E) move park suffer wait walk

- 1 the car about a kilometre from the stadium, I walked the rest of the way.
- 2 out of the city, she felt much happier.
- 3 through the tunnel, I banged my head on the low roof.
- 4 six months for the washing machine to be delivered, I decided to cancel the order.
- 5 from depression himself as a teenager, Kevin could understand how his son was feeling.

Participle clauses with adverbial meaning (2)

A

We can use prepositions such as after, before, besides, by, in, on, since, through, while, with, and without with a present participle (-ing) clause with an adverbial meaning (see also Unit 58):

- While understanding her problem, I don't know how I can help. (= Although I understand...)
- After spending so much money on the car, I can't afford a holiday.
- Before being changed last year, the speed limit was 70 kph. (passive form)

Less formal alternatives have a clause with a verb that can change according to tense and subject. Compare:

- Since moving to London, we haven't had time to go to the theatre. and
- Since we moved to London, we haven't had time to go to the theatre. (less formal)

by, in, on + -ing

|--|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> By working hard, she passed her maths exam. | = the -ing clause indicates 'the method or means used' |
| <input type="checkbox"/> They only survived by eating roots and berries in the forest. | |
| <input type="checkbox"/> On returning from Beijing, he wrote to the Chinese embassy. | = the -ing clause indicates 'when' |
| <input type="checkbox"/> John was the first person I saw on leaving hospital. | |
| <input type="checkbox"/> In criticising the painting, I knew I would offend her. | = the -ing clause indicates 'cause' |
| <input type="checkbox"/> In choosing Marco, the People's Party has moved to the left. | |

We can often use by + -ing or in + -ing with a similar meaning, although by + -ing is preferred in informal contexts:

- In/By writing the essay about Spanish culture, I came to understand the country better.
('In writing...' = the consequence of writing was to understand...; 'By writing...' = the method I used to understand the country better was to write...)

But compare:

- By telephoning every hour, she managed to speak to the doctor. (not In telephoning...; the method, not the consequence)

with -ing; without -ing

With + -ing often introduces a reason for something in the main clause. This use is fairly informal. Notice that a subject has to come between with and -ing:

- With Louise living in Spain, we don't see her often. (= Because Louise lives in Spain...)
- With sunshine streaming through the window, Hugh found it impossible to sleep.
(= Because the sunshine was streaming...)

With and what with can also be used with a noun phrase to introduce a reason:

- With my bad back I won't be able to lift a heavy suitcase.
- What with the traffic and the heavy rain, it's no wonder you were late.

We can use without + ing to say that a second action doesn't happen:

- I went to work without eating breakfast. They left without paying.

Often, however, it has a similar meaning to 'although...not' or 'unless':

- Without meaning to, I seem to have offended her. (= Although I didn't mean to...)
- Without seeing the photo, I can't judge how good it is. (= Unless I see the photo...)

D

Adverbial meanings can also be added by a clause beginning with a conjunction or adjective but with no verb, having the same meaning as a clause beginning with a conjunction + subject + be. This is used in fairly formal English. More informal alternatives are given in brackets:

- While in Poland, they will play two concerts in Warsaw. (or While they are in Poland...)
- Although just two feet apart, they didn't speak. (or Although they were just...)
- I try to use public transport whenever possible. (or ...whenever it is possible.)
- Unhappy with the decision, Johnson swore at the referee. (or Because he was unhappy...)
- James relaxed, pleased with his day's work. (or ...because he was pleased...)

- 59.1 Complete these sentences with a preposition from (i) and a verb from (ii). Use an -ing form of the verb or being + past participle, as appropriate. You will need to use some of the words from (i) more than once. (A)

| | | | |
|---|---------|--------|-------|
| i | after | before | since |
| | through | while | |

| | | | | |
|----|--------|-----------|---------|-----------|
| ii | -come- | interview | leave | overthrow |
| | sell | take | welcome | work |

- 1 Since coming ... out of hospital, I have been to the gym every day.
- 2 on TV last night, the minister mentioned that she would be retiring soon.
- 3 the back off the computer, make sure it is unplugged.
- 4 the government's new policy, I think it should have been introduced months ago.
- 5 in a military takeover, the king has been under house arrest.
- 6 with young children for the last 40 years, she has come to understand their behaviour better than most.
- 7 in supermarkets, most milk is pasteurised.
- 8 Oxford University in 1953, Painter spent three years teaching at a local school.

- 59.2 Match the items on the left with those on the right. Then write sentences beginning by + -ing, on + -ing, or in + -ing, as in the example. (B)

|--------------------------------|---|
| 1 She returned home. | a She soon began to lose weight. |
| 2 She gave up sugar. | b She saved over a hundred pounds a month. |
| 3 She turned down the job. | c She knew that she might offend him. |
| 4 She moved to a smaller flat. | d She found Dave waiting outside her front door. |
| 5 She entered the classroom. | e She gave up the possibility of a huge salary. |
| 6 She criticised her father. | f She was surprised when all the children stood up quietly. |

1+ d On returning home, she found Dave waiting outside her front door....

- 59.3 Rewrite these sentences beginning With... -ing or Without... -ing. (C)

- 1 We couldn't go on holiday because Kathy had flu.
- 2 I won't be able to advise you unless I have more information.
- 3 He had solved the problem, although he didn't realise it.
- 4 I couldn't wait for Ken any longer as time was running out before the train left.

- 59.4 Match the sentence halves and write new sentences with a reduced clause, as in the examples in D.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 When you are in Madrid,... | a ...she continued to climb. |
| 2 Because he was popular with his fellow pupils,... | b ...the flowers are a welcome addition to any garden. |

| 5 Since they are attractive to butterflies,... | e ...he was elected head boy at the school. |
| 6 Where it is necessary,... | f ...you must visit the Prado Museum. |

1+ d When in Madrid, you must visit the Prado Museum....

Reflexive pronouns: herself, himself, themselves, etc.

A

In addition to the usual reflexive pronouns (myself, yourself, etc.; see GR: K1–K2) some people use themselves to refer to the person who is the subject of the sentence, to avoid saying whether the subject is male or female:

- The author of the letter describes themselves as ‘a senior government official’.*
- Who wants to go through life by themselves, without friends?*

Oneself (or less formally yourself) is used to refer to people in general:

- I think one has to have the courage to be oneself and say whatever comes naturally. (less formally I think you have to have the courage to be yourself...)

B

We can use reflexive pronouns for emphasis in various ways (see GR: K2). We also use reflexive pronouns to emphasise that the subject caused a certain action:

- When Tom and Jack saw the robbery they called the police, but then they got arrested.
- When Tom and Jack saw the robbery they called the police, but got themselves arrested. (emphasises that Tom and Jack did something to make the police arrest them)
- When Tom and Jack saw the robbery they called the police, but they got arrested themselves. (emphasises that Tom and Jack were arrested, not the robbers)

C

If the object of a transitive verb refers to the same person or thing as the subject, then that object must be a reflexive pronoun. Compare:

- He walked around the golf course to familiarise himself with it. and
- We walked around to familiarise the children with their new surroundings.

Other verbs commonly used in this way include absent...from, avail...of, busy...with, concern...with, occupy...with, pride...on, tear...away from, trouble...about/with.

With some verbs we can use a reflexive pronoun or leave it out with little difference in meaning:

- We are confident that both sets of fans will behave (themselves) at the match.

Other verbs like this include acclimatise, adapt, (un)dress, hide, move, prepare, shave, wash. We include the reflexive pronoun if we want to emphasise particularly that the person or thing referred to in the subject is affected by the action:

- Although he helped other athletes in their preparations for competing at high altitudes, he found it difficult to acclimatise himself.

D

When the subject and object (after a preposition) refer to the same person or thing we use a reflexive pronoun after the preposition:

- He was pleased with himself. (not ...pleased with him.)

If the verb has a direct object we use a personal pronoun, not a reflexive pronoun:

- I remember closing the door behind me. (not ...closing the door behind myself.)

However, if the clause has a direct object and we need to make it clear that the subject and prepositional phrase refer to the same person or thing, we use a reflexive pronoun:

- She bought the bracelet for herself. (...for her' suggests it was bought for someone else)

E

Myself is sometimes used after and and or rather than 'I' or 'me', although some people consider this use incorrect and avoid it:

- I believe that Tony and myself have done a pretty good job.
- When you've finished the job can you send the bill either to Mrs Smith or myself?

Using myself reduces focus on the speaker or writer and so sounds less forceful or more polite.

F

When we want to contrast someone's characteristics with how they were or usually are we can use a possessive pronoun with self or selves:

- Colin was very cheerful this morning. He didn't seem at all like his usual miserable self.
- The image that people have of famous actors may not coincide with their real selves.

- 60.1 Complete the sentences with one of these verbs in an appropriate form followed by a reflexive pronoun and, if necessary, a preposition. If the reflexive pronoun can be omitted, put brackets around it. (C) absent adapt concern dress hide occupy prepare pride trouble

- 1 She works for a charity which concerns itself with the welfare of children in developing countries.
- 2 She for the interview by reading the job description again.
- 3 It is a town with a long history, that being civilised and sophisticated.
- 4 While I was working, the children reading and drawing.
- 5 When you get to Tokyo, it will take you some time to to the pace of life there.
- 6 Jack just expects to be given a job without making any effort. He won't even filling in any application forms.
- 7 When Marjorie broke her arm she couldn't properly, so I had to go round each morning to help.
- 8 I could see my brother coming through the park, so I behind a tree and waited to surprise him.
- 9 Peter arranged to the company for the first time in his life so that he could spend time with his father in hospital.

- 60.2 Underline the correct answer. If both answers are possible, notice the difference in meaning. (D)

- 1 Can you post this letter for myself/ me, please?
- 2 All my friends were away, I was bored, and I just didn't know what to do with myself/ me.
- 3 We put the tape recorder on the table between ourselves/ us.
- 4 They dragged the tree behind themselves/ them all the way to the trailer.
- 5 Now that you're a well-known novelist, you must hear a lot about yourself/ you on TV and in the newspapers.
- 6 He ought to be ashamed of himself/ him, being rude to his parents like that.
- 7 She should take care of herself/ her better. She's looking really ill.
- 8 I opened the window in front of myself/ me and took a deep breath of fresh air.

- 60.3 Study the underlined parts of this email. Make corrections if necessary or write ✓. Give alternatives where possible. (A–F)

From: Maggie
To: Jane
Subject: Tony

Hi Jane

Yes, Tony's a lot better, thanks. Pretty much back to (1) his old himself. We (2) got vaccinated ourselves against hepatitis before we went to West Africa, so Tony was just unlucky to get it. He went into work after we got back although he was feeling bad, and some of his colleagues were worried about (3) getting it themselves. I know that some of them (4) had checked themselves by their doctors. By coincidence, his boss said that (5) he'd caught himself hepatitis when he was in Africa a few years ago. When he's completely recovered, (6) Tony and myself are off to Paris for a few days, and (7) we're going to occupy us with looking at the galleries and having a rest.

Must go now. The children have just shouted that they want some juice and (8) they can't reach it themselves.

Will be in touch, Maggie

One and ones

A

We can use one instead of repeating a singular countable noun and ones instead of repeating a plural noun when it is clear from the context what we are talking about:

- ‘Can I get you a drink?’ ‘It’s okay, I’ve already got one.’ (= a drink)
- I think his best poems are his early ones. (= poems)

We don’t use one/ones instead of an uncountable noun:

- If you need any more paper, I’ll bring you some. (not ...I’ll bring you one/ones.)
- I asked him to get apple juice, but he got orange. (not ...but he got orange one/ones.)

We can’t use ones without defining precisely which group of things we are talking about.

Instead, we use some. Compare:

- ‘We need new curtains.’ ‘Okay, let’s buy green ones this time./...ones with flowers on/...those ones.’ and
- ‘We need new curtains.’ ‘Okay, let’s buy some.’ (not Okay, let’s buy ones.)

B

We don’t use one/ones after nouns used as adjectives:

- I thought my key was in my trouser pocket, but it was in my coat pocket.
(not ...my coat one.)

Instead of using one/ones after possessive determiners (my, your, her, etc.) we prefer mine, yours, hers, etc. However, a possessive determiner + one/ones is often heard in informal speech:

- I’d really like a watch like yours. (or ...like your one in informal speech)

We usually use ones to refer to things rather than people:

- We need two people to help. We could ask those men over there. (not ... ask those ones...)

However, ones is more likely to be used in comparative sentences to refer to groups of people:

- Older students seem to work harder than younger ones. (or ...than younger students.)

Notice also that we use ones to refer to people in the little ones (= small children), (your) loved ones (= usually close family), (one of) the lucky ones.

C

We can leave out one/ones –

★ after which:

- When we buy medicines, we have no way of knowing which (ones) contain sugar.

★ after superlatives:

- Look at that pumpkin! It’s the biggest (one) I’ve seen this year.

★ after this, that, these, and those:

- The last test I did was quite easy, but some parts of this (one) are really difficult.

- Help yourself to grapes. These (ones) are the sweetest, but those (ones) taste best.

(Note that some people think ‘those/these ones’ is incorrect, particularly in formal English.)

★ after either, neither, another, each, the first/second/last, (etc.):

- Karl pointed to the paintings and said I could take either (one). (or ...either of them.)

- She cleared away the cups, washed each (one) thoroughly, and put them on the shelf.

D

We don’t leave out one/ones –

★ after the, the only, the main, and every:

- When you cook clams you shouldn’t eat the ones that don’t open.

- After I got the glasses home, I found that every one was broken.

★ after adjectives:

- My shoes were so uncomfortable that I had to go out today and buy some new ones.

However, after colour adjectives we can often leave out one/ones in answers:

- ‘Have you decided which jumper to buy?’ ‘Yes, I think I’ll take the blue (one).’

and we don’t include ones when we use adjectives in place of nouns to refer to groups of people, as in the affluent, the disadvantaged, the elderly, the homeless, the low-paid, the poor, the privileged, the rich, the wealthy, the young, etc. (But when these are ordinary adjectives, we can use ones, e.g. These are the privileged ones; the other children aren’t so lucky.)

61.1 If necessary, correct these sentences. If they are already correct, write ✓. (A)

- 1 Chris brought in the wood and put ones on the fire.
- 2 Normally I don't like wearing a scarf, but it was so cold I put one on.
- 3 'We've run out of potatoes.' 'I'll get ones when I go to the shops.'

- 8 Most of the trees in our garden are less than 10 years old but ones are much older than that.

61.2 If appropriate, replace the underlined words or phrases with one or ones. If it is not possible or is unlikely, write No after the sentence. (A & B)

- 10 On one channel was a war film and on the other was a horror film, so I turned the TV off.
- 11 There are lots of gloves here. Are these your gloves?

61.3 If the sentence is correct without the underlined one/ones, put brackets around it (as in 1). If it is not correct without one/ones, write ✓(as in 2). (C & D)

- 1 The children had eaten all the pizza and were still hungry so I had to make them another (one).
- 2 I drove around the houses, looking for the ones with 'For Sale' notices outside. ✓

- 14 He's just bought a new bike and has offered to give me his old one.

So and not as substitutes for clauses, etc.

A

We can use so instead of repeating an adjective, adverb, or a whole clause:

- The workers were angry and they had every right to be so. (= angry)
- John took the work seriously and Petra perhaps even more so. (= took the work seriously)
- Bob's giving us a lift. At least I presume so. (= that he's giving us a lift)

B

We often use so instead of a clause after verbs concerned with thinking, such as be afraid (expressing regret), appear/seem (after 'it'), assume, believe, expect, guess, hope, imagine, presume, suppose, suspect, think; and also after say and after tell (with an indirect object):

- 'Is Tony going back to Scotland to see his parents this summer?' 'I've no idea, but I would imagine so. He goes most years.'
- I found it ridiculous, and said so./...and told them so. (= that I found it ridiculous)

Notice that we don't use so after certain other verbs, including accept, admit, agree, be certain, doubt, hear, know, promise, suggest, be sure:

- Liz will organise the party. She promised (that) she would. (not She promised so.)
- 'Will Ken know how to mend it?' 'I doubt it./ I doubt (that) he will.' (not I doubt so.)

In informal English, particularly in an argument, we can use 'I know so'.

C

In negative sentences, we use not or not...so:

- Is the Socialist Party offering anything new in its statement? It would appear not.
- They want to buy the house, although they didn't say so directly.

We can use either not or not...so with appear, seem, suppose:

- 'I don't suppose there'll be any seats left.' 'No, I don't suppose so.' (or ...I suppose not.)

We prefer not...so with believe, expect, imagine, think. With these verbs, not is rather formal:

- 'Will we need to show our passports at the border?' 'I don't think so.' (rather than I think not.)

We use not with be afraid (expressing regret), assume, guess (in the phrase 'I guess...', = 'I think...'), hope, presume, suspect:

- 'You'd better do it yourself. Brian won't help.' 'No, I guess not.' (not No, I don't guess so)

Compare the use of not (to) and not...so with say:

- 'Do we have to do all ten questions?' 'The teacher said not.' (= the teacher said that we didn't have to) or 'The teacher said not to.' (= the teacher said that we shouldn't)
- 'Do we have to do all ten questions?' 'The teacher didn't say so.' (= the teacher didn't say that we should do all ten, but perhaps we should)

We can use so in a short answer, instead of a short answer with 'Yes, ...', when we want to say that we can see that something is true, now that we have been told, particularly if we are surprised that it is true. In answers like this we use so + pronoun + auxiliary verb (be, can, etc.):

- 'Jack and Martha are here.' 'So they are.' (or Yes, they are.) (= I can see that, too, now)

However, to indicate that we already know something we use 'Yes, ...', not 'So..'. Compare:

- 'Your bike's been moved.' 'So it has./Yes, it has. I wonder who did it.' (= I didn't know before you told me) and
- 'Your bike's been moved.' 'Yes, it has. Philip borrowed it this morning.' (= I knew before you told me; not So it has.)

E

We can use so in a similar way in short answers with verbs such as appear (after 'it'), believe, gather, hear, say, seem, tell (e.g. So she tells me.), understand. However, with these verbs, the pattern implies 'I knew before you told me':

- 'The factory is going to close.' 'So I understand.' (= I've heard that news, too)
- 'I found that lecture really boring.' 'So I gather.' (= I knew that) I saw you sleeping.'

62.1 Complete the sentences with so, as in 1. If it is not possible, complete the sentences with an appropriate that-clause, as in 2. (B)

- 1 'Is Don ill again?' 'Well, he hasn't come to work, so I assume ...'?
- 2 'Will we need to pay to get in?' 'I doubt ...'?
- 3 'Will you be able to come over this weekend?' 'I hope ...'?
- 4 'Can you give me a lift to work?' 'I suppose ...'?
- 5 'Is this one by Van Gogh, too?' 'I think ...'?
- 6 'Apparently Carol's getting married again.' 'Yes, I hear ...'?
- 7 'The weather's awful, so we'll need to take a taxi.' 'I guess ...'?
- 8 'Will the decorator be finished this week?' 'He says ...'?
- 9 'You will remember to pick me up at 1.00, won't you?' 'I promise ...'?
- 10 'I hope I'll be able to get a ticket.' 'I'm sure ...'?

62.2 Complete the answers using the verb in brackets with not, or not (n't)...so. If two answers are possible, give them both. (B & C)

- 1 'Do you know where the post office is?' 'I'm afraid not...' (be afraid)
- 2 'Karl's drawing is wonderful, but he's certainly no artist. He must have had some help.' 'When I asked him he ...' (say)
- 3 'With the children being ill I haven't had time to do much housework.' 'No, I ...' (suspect)
- 4 'Did I leave my handbag in your car yesterday?' 'I ...' (think)
- 5 'Will Alex be staying with us for the whole summer?' 'I ...' (expect)
- 6 'I'm sure the bank has charged me too much. Will they refund the money?' 'I ...' (suspect)
- 7 'Didn't Alice hear you?' 'It ...' (appear)
- 8 'The test results were terrible. Do you think the students understood the questions?' 'I ...' (assume)
- 9 'What did you think of Amanda's work?' 'Well, I thought it was pretty awful, although I ...' (say)

62.3 Complete these conversations with an appropriate short answer beginning Yes, Give an alternative answer with So... if possible. (D)

- 1 'That horse is walking with a limp.' 'Yes, it is.... (or So it is...) Perhaps we should tell the owner.'
- 2 'The children from next door are taking the apples from our trees.' '..... I said they could come round and get them.'
- 3 'The cassette player's gone again.' '..... Dr Adams has probably borrowed it.'
- 4 'I told you I'd be late for work today.' '....., I agree. But you didn't say how late – it's nearly 2.00.'

62.4 Choose any appropriate short answer beginning So... to respond to the comments below, saying that you already knew what is being said. Use the verbs in E opposite.

- 1 'My car won't start again.' So I hear....
- 2 'Eva's not very well.'
- 3 'The class has been cancelled again.'
- 4 'I see income tax is going up.'
- 5 'Bob's moving to Berlin.'

Do so; such

Do so

A

We use do so (or does so, did so, doing so, etc.) instead of repeating a verb phrase (a verb and what follows it to complete its meaning) when it is clear from the context what we are talking about:

- She won the competition in 1997 and seems likely to do so (= win the competition) again this year.
- Dr Lawson said, ‘Sit down.’ Katia did so (= sat down), and started to talk about her problems.
- The climbers will try again today to reach the summit of the mountain. Their chances of doing so (= reaching the summit of the mountain) are better than they were last week. (In very formal English we can also use so doing.)
- When he was asked to check the figures, he claimed that he had already done so.
(= checked the figures)

Do so is most often used in formal spoken and written English. In informal English we can use do it or do that instead:

- Mrs Bakewell waved as she walked past. She does so/it/that every morning.
- Ricardo told me to put in a new battery. I did so/it/that, but the radio still doesn’t work.

We can also use do alone rather than do so in less formal English, especially after modals or perfect tenses (see also B):

- ‘Will this programme work on your computer?’ ‘It should do.’
- I told you that I’d finish the work by today, and I have done. (‘have’ is stressed here)

B

We can use do so instead of verbs that describe actions, but we avoid do so with verbs that describe states and habitual actions. Compare:

- 65% of the members voted for Ken Brown this time, whereas 84% did so last year.
- Kenyon confessed to the murder, although he only did so after a number of witnesses had identified him as the killer.
- I gave her the medicine, and I take full responsibility for doing so. and
- Stefan doesn’t like Porter’s films but Bridget does.
- He earned a lot more than I did.
- I don’t have time to go swimming every day, but I usually do.

C

Such

We can use such + (a/an) + noun to refer back to something mentioned before, with the meaning ‘of this/that kind’. We use such + noun when the noun is uncountable or plural, and such + a/an + noun when the noun is countable and singular. Such is used in this way mainly in formal speech and writing:

- The students refer to teachers by their first names and will often criticise them for badly prepared lessons. Such behaviour is unacceptable in most schools. (more informally Behaviour like this...)
- When asked about rumours that the company is preparing to lose more than 200 jobs, a spokeswoman said: ‘I know of no such plans.’ (more informally ...no plans of this kind.)
- They needed someone who was both an excellent administrator and manager. Such a person was not easy to find. (more informally A person like this...)
- We allow both men and women to have time off work to bring up children. We were the first department to introduce such a scheme. (more informally ...a scheme like this.)

- 3.1 Make the two sentences into one, joining them with either and or but as appropriate. In the second part of the sentence use a form of do followed by so instead of repeating the verb + object/ complement. (A)

1 Johnson never won an Olympic medal. He twice came close to winning an Olympic medal.
Johnson never won an Olympic medal, but twice came close to doing so.

2 She was asked to teach more classes. She was happy to teach more classes.

3 My French hosts gave me snails to eat. I ate them very reluctantly.

4 The company wanted to build a new dam on the site. They were prevented from building the dam by local opposition.

5 All EU countries agreed to implement the new regulations on recycling plastic. So far only Finland and Austria have implemented the new regulations.

6 The water freezes in the cracks in rocks. As it freezes, it expands.

- 3.2 Complete these sentences with a form of do followed by so only if possible. (B)

1 If you have not already handed in the form, then please without delay.

2 Tom drives much faster than you

3 He jumped down from the window, but in twisted his ankle.

4 I know that many people don't enjoy Felipe's films, but I

5 Anyone crossing the railway at their own risk.

6 I thought Pete was joking when he said these apples smell like oranges. But they !

7 When we play tennis Kathy usually wins, and she gets upset if I

8 She pointed to the old box, her hand shaking as she

- 3.3 Complete the sentences with such or such a/an followed by one of these words. Use a singular or plural form of the word as appropriate. (C) claims destruction device project research tactics

1 Manufacturers often claim that their washing machines have built-in computers, but is there really a computer in such a device ?

2 After Professor Jones spoke about his work on climate change, he called on the government to put more money into

3 Television is sometimes said to harm children's social development, yet the evidence for is often lacking.

4 The new power station would undoubtedly create new jobs, but has the environmental impact of been considered fully?

5 The earthquake demolished nearly all the houses in the town. The country has rarely seen before.

6 United played very defensively in the second half, but were criticised by the team's supporters.

- 3.4 Rewrite the sentences in 63.3 to make them less formal, as in 1. (C)

1 ...but is there really a computer in a device like this? (or ...like that?)

A

To avoid repeating words from a previous clause or sentence we use an auxiliary verb (be, have, can, will, would, etc.) instead of a whole verb group (e.g. ‘has finished’) or instead of a verb and what follows it (e.g. ‘like to go to Paris’):

- She says she’s finished, but I don’t think she has. (instead of ...has finished.)
- ‘Would any of you like to go to Paris?’ ‘I would.’ (instead of I would like to go to Paris.)

If there is more than one auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, we leave out all the auxiliary verbs except the first instead of repeating the main verb. Alternatively, we can use two (or more) auxiliary verbs:

- Alex hadn’t been invited to the meal, although his wife had. (or ...had been.)
- ‘They could have been delayed by the snow.’ ‘Yes, they could.’ (or ...could have (been).)

B

If there is no auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, or if the auxiliary is a form of do, we can use a form of do instead of repeating the main verb. We use do when the main verb is a present simple form and did when it is a past simple form:

- Monica plays golf on Saturdays, and I do too. (instead of ...and I play golf on Saturdays too.; ...and so do I is also possible)
- ‘I didn’t steal the money.’ ‘No-one thinks that you did.’ (instead of ...thinks that you stole it.; No-one thinks so is also possible.)

If be is the main verb in the previous clause or sentence, we repeat a form of the verb be:

- ‘The children are noisy again.’ ‘They always are.’

If have or have got is the main verb in the previous clause or sentence, we can usually use a form of either do or have:

- ‘Do you think I have a chance of winning?’ ‘Yes, I think you have.’ (or ...you do.; Yes, I think so is also possible.)
- Even if he hasn’t got a map himself, he may know someone who has. (or ...who does.)

However, if we use have + noun in the previous clause or sentence to talk about actions (have a shower, have a shave, have a good time, etc.) we prefer do:

- I wasn’t expecting to have a good time at the party, but I did.

Notice that sometimes we can use either do, be or have with a similar meaning (see also C):

- I asked Suzie to tidy her room, and she has/did. (‘has’ replaces ‘has tidied her room’; ‘did’ replaces ‘tidied her room’.)

C

If we use have as an auxiliary verb, we can often follow it with done instead of repeating the main verb. This happens particularly in spoken English:

- ‘She’s never made a mistake before.’ ‘Well, she has (done) this time.’

However, this is usually not possible when the verb being substituted is intransitive:

- ‘They’ve already gone.’ ‘I don’t think Bob has.’ (not ...Bob has done.)

Similarly, after a modal auxiliary verb (can, could, may, might, must, ought to, shall, should, will, would) we can use do, particularly in spoken English:

- ‘Will you be seeing Tony today?’ ‘I might (do).’

Sometimes we can use be instead of do with a similar meaning (see also D):

- ‘Will you be seeing Tony today?’ ‘I might (do/be).’ (‘do’ replaces ‘see Tony today’; ‘be’ replaces ‘be seeing Tony today’.)

D

If we use be as an auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, we can use be after a modal:

- ‘Is Ella staying for lunch?’ ‘Yes, I think she will (be).’ (or ...she will do.)

However, if be is used as a main verb in the previous clause or sentence, or as an auxiliary verb within a passive, we can usually leave out be after a modal in informal contexts only. Compare:

- ‘John’s late again.’ ‘I thought he might (be).’ and

- It has been found that the comet is made entirely of gas, as it was predicted it would be.

- 64.1 By omitting parts of the sections in italics, you can leave short answers. Indicate which parts you would leave out. Give all answers if more than one is possible. (A)
- 1 'Have you ever played squash before?' 'Yes, I have played squash before.'
 - 2 'I suppose we should have booked tickets in advance.' 'Yes, we should have booked tickets in advance.'
 - 3 'Do you think you'll be staying in New Zealand permanently?' 'Yes, we might be staying in New Zealand permanently.'
 - 4 'All the parking places will probably have been taken by now.' 'Yes, I'm sure they will have been taken by now.'

 - 8 'Can you see Joe anywhere?' 'No, I can't see him anywhere.'
 - 9 'Did you see that cyclist go through the red light? He couldn't have been looking.' 'No, he couldn't have been looking.'

- 64.2 Complete the sentences with an appropriate form of do, be or have. If more than one answer is possible, give them both. Put brackets around the word you have written if it can be left out, and write (done) after a form of have to show in which sentences this might be added. (B & C)

- 1 As a child I always enjoyed watching cartoons on TV, and I still

- 9 'Have you got a copy of Great Expectations?' 'Yes, I think I ?'
- 10 'I've got a hundred pounds with me. Will that be enough to pay for the meal?' 'It should ,'

- 64.3 Complete the sentences with might, should, will or would as appropriate, giving alternatives where possible. If necessary, write be after the modal, or (be) if it is possible to either include it or leave it out. (D)

- 1 It's not snowing at the moment, but they say it will/ might (be) later.
- 2 'My photograph was awarded first prize.' 'I thought it ?'

- 6 Bill says he's very sorry – as he
- 7 The book is a bestseller, as we hoped it
- 8 Chris was cleaning the house when I got home, as I hoped he

Leaving out to-infinitives

A

We can sometimes use to instead of a clause beginning with a to-infinitive when it is clear from the context what we are talking about:

- I wanted to come with you, but I won't be able to. (instead of ...to come with you.)
- 'I can't lend you any more money.' 'I'm not asking you to.' (instead of ...to lend me any more money.)
- It might have been better if Rosa had asked for my help, but she chose not to. (instead of ...chose not to ask for my help.)

However, when we use the verb be in the previous sentence or clause the to-infinitive form of be is repeated in the next clause or sentence:

- Simon was frightened – or maybe he just pretended to be. (not ...just pretended to.)
- The report is very critical and is clearly intended to be. (not ...clearly intended to.)

B

After most nouns and adjectives that can be followed by a to-infinitive clause, we can leave out the to-infinitive clause or use to:

- I'm not going to write another book – at least I don't have any plans (to). (or ...plans to write another book.)
 - 'Could you and Tom help me move house?' 'Well, I'm willing (to), and I'll ask Tom.'
- Other nouns and adjectives like this include chance, idea, opportunity, promise, suggestion; afraid, delighted, determined.

We can also leave out a to-infinitive or use to with verbs such as agree, ask, begin, forget, promise, refuse, start, try:

- Robert will collect us by 10 o'clock. He promised (to).
- 'You were supposed to buy some sugar.' 'Sorry, I forgot (to)'

After verbs which must have a complement (i.e. a phrase which completes the meaning of the verb) we can't leave out to:

- I admit that I took her watch, but I didn't mean to.
- 'Please suggest changes to the plans if you want.' 'I intend to'
- Have you thought about getting vaccinated against cholera before going there? I'd certainly advise you to.

Other verbs like this include afford, be able, choose, deserve, expect, fail, hate, hope, love, need, prefer.

C

After want and would like in if-clauses and wh-clauses we can often leave out a to-infinitive or use to:

- You're welcome to dance if you'd like (to).
- Call me Fred if you want (to).
- You can do whatever you would like (to).
- Come and see us when you want (to).

In other clauses (not if- and wh-clauses) we include to:

- I was planning to see you tomorrow, and I would still like to.
- They offered to clean your car because they really want to, not because they hope to be paid.

In if-clauses and wh-clauses we usually leave out to after like. Compare:

- You can have one if you like. and You can have one if you'd like (to).
- Leave whenever you like. and Leave whenever you'd like (to).

However, we include to with negative forms of want, would like, and like, including in if-clauses and wh-clauses:

- 'Shall we go and visit Julio?' 'I don't really want to'
- I should have phoned Jo last night, but it was so late when I got home I didn't like to.
- 'He won't mind you asking him for a loan.' 'Oh, no, I wouldn't like to'

- 65.1 Complete the sentences with one of the following words and then either to or to be. Use the same word in each sentence in the pair. Use to in one sentence and to be in the other. (A)

- b 'Shall I bring a calculator to the exam?' 'No, you don't They'll be provided.'

- 5 a Some people thought that Katie was lazy, but she studied much harder than she

- b Tom was working hard at the computer – or at least he

Position of adjectives

- A Many adjectives can be used either before the noun they describe, or following linking verbs such as appear, be, become, feel, get, and seem (see Unit 21). Compare:
- The high price surprised him. and The price seemed high.
- B Some adjectives are seldom or never used before the noun they describe. These include –
- ☆ some adjectives formed by adding a prefix ‘a-’, often to a noun or verb: afraid, alike, alive, alone, ashamed, asleep, awake, aware:
 - The horse was alone in the field. (but not The alone horse...)
 - Some of these adjectives with an ‘a-’ prefix have related adjectives that can be used either before a noun or after a linking verb. Compare:
 - The animal was alive. and A living animal. (or A live animal./ The animal was living.)
 - Other pairs like this include afraid – frightened, alike – similar, alone – lone, asleep – sleeping.
 - ☆ some adjectives used to describe health and feelings: content, fine, glad, ill (but note ‘ill health’), sorry, (un)sure, upset (but ‘an upset stomach’), (un)well (but ‘He’s not a well man’):
 - My son felt unwell. (but not My unwell son...)
- These adjectives are sometimes used between an adverb and noun e.g. ‘a terminally ill patient’
- C Emphasising adjectives are used to emphasise your feelings about something. Compare:
- I felt a fool. and I felt a complete fool. (for emphasis)
- Some emphasising adjectives (such as complete, and also absolute, entire, mere, sheer, total, utter) are seldom or never used after a linking verb:
- It was a total failure. (but not usually ‘The failure was total.’)
- Classifying adjectives* are used to say that something is of a particular type. For example, we can talk about ‘democratic decisions’, where ‘democratic’ distinguishes them from other types of decision. Other classifying adjectives include atomic, chemical, cubic, digital, environmental, medical, phonetic; annual, general, occasional, northern (etc.), maximum, minimum, underlying. Classifying adjectives are seldom or never used after a linking verb:
- a nuclear explosion (but not usually ‘The explosion was nuclear’, unless we particularly want to emphasise a contrast with other kinds of explosion)
- Qualitative adjectives* are used to give the quality that a thing or person has. We use them either directly before a noun or after a linking verb. Compare:
- a beautiful sunset and The sunset was beautiful.
- Note that some classifying adjectives can also be used with different meanings as qualitative adjectives and placed after a linking verb. Compare:
- The country’s economic reforms. and The process isn’t economic. (= not profitable)
- Other adjectives like this include academic, conscious, educational, (il)legal, scientific.
- D Many adjectives can be used immediately after a noun, at the beginning of a reduced relative clause (see Unit 69B). For example –
- ☆ adjectives before a to-infinitive, or a prepositional phrase as part of the adjective phrase:
 - It was a speech calculated to appeal to the unions.
 - He is a manager capable of taking difficult decisions.
 - ☆ some -ible and -able adjectives such as available, imaginable, possible, suitable. However, we use these adjectives immediately after a noun only when the noun follows the or when the noun is made definite by what follows in a relative clause:
 - This was the most difficult decision imaginable.
 - It is a treatment suitable for all children with asthma.
 - ☆ the adjectives concerned, involved, opposite, present, proper, responsible. These words have different meanings when they are used before a noun and immediately after it. Compare:
 - All the people present (= who were there) approved of the decision. and
 - I was asked for my present address. (= my address now)

66.1 Suggest corrections to these sentences, or write ✓ if they are already correct. (B)

- 8 The two children were of an alike age.
- 9 We were unsure which way to go.
- 10 The sorry girls apologised to their teacher for their behaviour.

66.2 Choose one pair of words to complete each pair of sentences. In some sentences, you can use either adjective in the pair, in which case write them both; in others you can use only one of them. (C)

Gradable and non-gradable adjectives (1)

A

If an adjective is gradable it can be used with adverbs such as very or extremely to say that a thing or person has more or less of a particular quality. Here are some examples of adjectives used as gradable in their most common meanings:

Grading
adverbsa bit, dreadfully, extremely, hugely, immensely, intensely, rather, reasonably, slightly, very angry, big, busy, clever, common, deep, fast, friendly,

happy, important, low, popular,
quiet, rich, strong, weak, youngGradable adjectives

- She was extremely rich.
- The people there are reasonably friendly.

Non-gradable adjectives are not used with adverbs such as very or extremely because we don't usually imagine degrees of the quality referred to. With non-gradable adjectives we can use adverbs which emphasise their extreme or absolute nature, such as absolutely, completely, etc. Many classifying adjectives (see Unit 66) are usually non-gradable. Adverbs such as almost, exclusively, etc., which indicate the extent of the quality, are commonly used with classifying adjectives. Here are some examples of adjectives used as non-gradable in their most common meanings:

Non-
grading
adverbsabsolutely, completely, entirely, perfectly, practically, simply,
totally, utterly, virtually; almost, exclusively, fully, largely,
mainly, nearly, primarily

awful, excellent, huge, impossible, superb, terrible,
unique, unknown, whole;
domestic, environmental (see Unit 66C)Non-gradable adjectives

- She gave us a completely impossible problem to solve.
- It was absolutely superb.

Gradable adjectives are sometimes used with non-gradable adverbs such as absolutely and totally, and non-gradable adjectives are sometimes used with grading adverbs such as extremely, rather and very, particularly when we want to give special emphasis or when we are being humorous (see also Unit 68):

- What you're asking isn't just difficult – it's extremely impossible! (grading adverb + non-gradable adjective)
- You've won a hundred pounds? Wow, you're virtually rich! (non-grading adverb + gradable adjective)

Note that not all the adverbs can go with all the adjectives given in each of the tables above. For example, we can say 'absolutely huge', but we wouldn't usually say 'completely huge' unless it was for particular emphasis or for humour.

B

The adverbs fairly (= to quite a large degree, but usually less than 'very'), really (= 'very (much)') and pretty (= similar to 'fairly'; used in informal contexts) are commonly used with both gradable and non-gradable adjectives:

- | | |
|---|---|
| <input type="checkbox"/> She's fairly popular at school. | <input type="checkbox"/> It was a fairly awful film. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> I'm really busy at the moment. | <input type="checkbox"/> The flooding was really terrible. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> It's a pretty important exam. | <input type="checkbox"/> The bill was pretty huge. |

However, notice that we don't generally use fairly (or very) with gradable adjectives such as essential, invaluable, perfect, superb, tremendous and wonderful which indicate that something is very good or necessary:

- Some experience is really/pretty essential for the job. (not ...fairly essential...)
- The weather that day was really/pretty perfect. (not ...fairly perfect.)

- 67.1 Write very in the spaces before gradable adjectives. (There are 5 of these.) Before the non-gradable adjectives write the following adverbs. Try to use a different one each time. (A) absolutely almost completely exclusively largely mainly practically

- 1 The bridge is now complete.
- 2 He acted in a/an professional way.
- 3 The material is cotton.
- 4 The food was excellent.
- 5 Her explanation was clear.
- 6 Their actions were illegal.
- 7 The new restaurant is popular.
- 8 I was in a/an permanent state of suspense.
- 9 I thought she was attractive.
- 10 Until last year the club was male.
- 11 Small black cars are not visible.
- 12 The railway is underground.

- 67.2 Use an adverb + adjective in your response, as in 1. (A) How would you feel if...

- 1 a friend said s/he had just won a million pounds? I'd be absolutely delighted.
- 2 your best friend told you s/he was emigrating to Australia?
- 3 someone broke a window in your house or flat?
- 4 a complete stranger told you that you were very beautiful/handsome?
- 5 you lost some airline tickets you had just bought?

- 67.3 Make corrections to the italicised parts of this text where necessary. (A)

Dear Alan

I'm writing this letter from my new flat in Stratford. It's in an (1) absolutely old building which was (2) totally renovated last year. Fortunately, I didn't have to do much decorating when I moved in. As you know, I'm (3) hugely useless at DIY so I was (4) absolutely happy about that. The building is (5) reasonably unique in this part of Stratford, as most others around are (6) rather modern, and the view across the river from my sitting room is (7) simply superb. The flat's (8) simply small, but (9) completely comfortable for me.

My neighbours are (10) very friendly and usually (11) fully quiet. The only problem is that the woman upstairs plays the trumpet and I find it (12) a bit impossible to read when she's playing. I get (13) slightly angry about this, but she doesn't play for long each time, so it's not an (14) extremely terrible problem.

I know that the weather has been (15) dreadfully awful recently, so it's been difficult to for you to get here, but you must come over one evening. There's an (16) absolutely marvellous restaurant nearby that we could go to.

Hope all is well,
Eva

- 67.4 Cross out any incorrect or unlikely alternatives. (B)

- 1 Her advice was fairly/ really invaluable.
- 2 Our neighbours are really/ fairly friendly.
- 3 I thought his performance as Hamlet was fairly/ really tremendous.
- 4 The children kept pretty/ very quiet during the concert.
- 5 The view from the window was very/ pretty wonderful.
- 6 Their co-operation is pretty/ very essential if we want the project to go ahead.
- 7 The weather was really/ fairly perfect for a long walk.
- 8 In this photograph she looked really/ very young.
- 9 The workmanship in the furniture was pretty/ very superb.
- 10 The disease is fairly/ pretty common in this part of the country.

Gradable and non-gradable adjectives (2)

A

Some adjectives have both gradable and non-gradable senses.

(i) Some adjectives have different senses when they are gradable and non-gradable. Compare:

- Smith is a very common name. (= frequently found; gradable) and
- We have a lot of common interests. (= shared; non-gradable; not very)
- The house is very old. (= existed many years; gradable) and
- I met my old politics professor the other day. (= former; non-gradable; not very)
- Sue's shoes are very clean. (= not dirty; gradable) and
- He left the town because he wanted to make a clean break with the past. (= starting again in different circumstances; non-gradable; not very)

Other adjectives like this include civil, clean, critical, electric (= 'exciting' when gradable), empty, false, late, odd, original, particular, straight.

(ii) Some adjectives have similar meanings when they are gradable and non-gradable. However, when they are gradable we talk about the quality that a person or thing has (i.e. they are qualitative adjectives and therefore can be used with an adverb), and when they are non-gradable we talk about the category or type they belong to (i.e. they are classifying adjectives). Compare:

- I don't know where he came from, but he sounded slightly foreign. (= not from this country; gradable) and
- She is now advising on the government's foreign policy. (= concerning other countries; non-gradable)
- They had a very public argument. (= seen/heard by a lot of people; gradable) and
- He was forced to resign by public pressure. (= from many people in the community; non-gradable)
- She had a rather wild look in her eyes. (= uncontrolled or frightened; gradable) and
- Even if it is raised by humans, a lion will always be a wild animal. (= not tame; non-gradable)

Other adjectives like this include academic, adult, average, diplomatic, genuine, guilty, human, individual, innocent, mobile, private, professional, scientific, technical, true.

(iii) When nationality adjectives are non-gradable we mean that a person or thing comes from a particular country; when they are gradable we mean that they have supposed characteristics of that country. Compare:

- There's a shop around the corner that sells Italian bread. and
- Giovanni has lived in Britain for 20 years, but he's still very Italian.

B

In spoken English in particular, we can use good and..., lovely and..., and nice and... followed by another gradable adjective in order to emphasise the second adjective. Possible patterns include: good and ready and more colloquially good and proper/relaxed/strong (but not usually 'good and beautiful/rich/tall'); lovely and cosy/dry/sunny/warm (but not usually 'lovely and decent/empty short'); nice and bright/clean/cold/comfortable/early/fresh/quiet/simple/soft/tidy/warm (but not usually 'nice and interesting/handsome/exciting'):

- If you're all feeling good and relaxed after the break, let's get on with the meeting.
- It's lovely and warm in here. Freezing outside, though.
- 'Shall we get some strawberries?' 'Yes, they look nice and fresh.'

We can also link comparative adjectives (see Unit 72) with and to talk about an increasing degree of the quality described in the adjective. We use more and more + adjective in a similar way:

- As she got more and more excited, her voice got higher and higher and louder and louder.
- The taxi driver just drove faster and faster and faster until I told him to stop, and I got out.

- 68.1 Choose from these adjectives to complete the sentences. Use each of the adjectives twice, once with a gradable sense and once with a non-gradable sense. With a gradable sense, write very before the adjective. It may help to use a dictionary for this exercise. (Ai) critical empty false late original straight

- 1 The novel was praised by the judges for its very original use of language.
- 2 I wasn't frightened by the manager's warning that I would be dismissed if I came late again. It was just a/an threat that she had used before.

- 11 The path to the summit of the hill was and steep.
- 12 Many of the people I met were quite sincere, but some seemed, so that I could never be sure if they meant what they said.

- 68.2 Complete the sentences with these adverb + adjective phrases. Use the same adjective in each pair of sentences, but include the adverb in only one. The first pair is done for you. (Aii)

Participle adjectives and compound adjectives

A

Some -ing forms (present participles) and -ed forms (past participles) of verbs can be used as adjectives. Most of these participle adjectives can be used before the noun they describe or following linking verbs (see Unit 21):

- The hotel had a welcoming atmosphere.
- I found this broken plate in the kitchen cupboard.
- The students' tests results were pleasing.
- My mother seemed delighted with the present.

B

We can use many participle adjectives immediately after nouns when they identify or define the noun. This use is similar to defining relative clauses (see GR: J1–J2) and they are often called 'reduced relatives':

- I counted the number of people waiting. (or ...people who were waiting.)
- We had to pay for the rooms used. (or ...the rooms that were used.)

Some of these are rarely used before the noun:

- None of the candidates applying was accepted. (but not ...the applying candidates...)
- My watch was among the things taken. (but not ...the taken things.)

Participle adjectives like this include caused, found, included, provided.

Others can be used before or immediately after nouns. For example, we can say:

- Rub the area infected with this cream. or Rub the infected area with this cream.
- The crowd watching grew restless. or The watching crowd grew restless.

Participle adjectives like this include affected, alleged, allocated, broken, chosen, identified, interested, remaining, resulting, stolen.

C

In formal English, that and those can be used as pronouns before a participle adjective:

- The office temperature is lower than that required by law. (= the temperature which is required)
- The quality of the motors is lower than those manufactured elsewhere. (= the motors which are manufactured elsewhere)

Notice that those can mean 'people':

- Here is some advice for those (= people) preparing to go on holiday.

D

Many compound adjectives include a participle adjective. Common patterns are:

adverb + -ed participle

- They are well-behaved children.

adverb + -ing participle

- China's economic boom is generating a fast-growing market at home.

adjective + -ed participle

- She seems to live on ready-made frozen meals.

adjective + -ing participle

- He's the longest-serving employee in the company.

noun + -ed participle

- The public square was tree-lined.

noun + -ing participle

- I hope it will be a money-making enterprise.

-ed participle + particle

- Did it really happen, or was it a made-up story?

(from two-word verbs)

We can use some participle adjectives only in adjective compounds. For example, we can't say '...behaved children' or '...a making enterprise' as the sense is incomplete without the adverb or noun. Other compounds like this include London-based, Paris-born, brick-built, easy-going, peace-keeping, long-lasting, good-looking, home-made, hair-raising, far-reaching, well-resourced, sweet-smelling, strange-sounding, soft-spoken, sour-tasting, nerve-wracking.

Notice that many other compound adjectives do not include participle adjectives:

- The problem is short-term.
- It was just a small-scale project.

- 69.1 Replace the underlined parts of these sentences with a present or past participle adjective formed from one of the following verbs. Give alternative positions for the adjective if possible. (B)
- cause identify include interest provide remain result

- 1 I offered to pay for any damage that was the result. caused (not ...any caused damage.)
- 2 Steps are being taken by telephone engineers to solve the problems which have been noticed.
- 3 Visitors who want to find out more can buy a booklet with further information.
- 4 Please answer the questions on the sheet that has been given to you.
- 5 The holiday cost £1200, with flights which were part of the total.
- 6 Although he didn't want to appear on TV, the publicity that was the consequence was good for his business.
- 7 Just before serving the pasta, sprinkle over any cheese that is left over.

In which of the sentences can the participle adjective you have written be placed before the noun?

- 69.2 Complete the sentences with either that or those followed by an appropriate participle adjective. (C)

- 1 Her time for the 10,000 metres was four seconds faster than by the winner of last month's European Championship.
- 2 Vegetables from the east of the country are generally cheaper than in the west.

- 4 The top wind speed was even higher than in the great storm of 1987.
- 5 Levels of heart disease among people in rural areas are considerably lower than among in urban areas.

- 2 The school has all the things it needs, with sufficient books and computers. The school is , with sufficient books and computers.
- 3 I found that the whole experience made me tense and worried. I found the whole experience
- 4 The proposed changes will have a major influence on a large number of people. The proposed changes will be

- 69.4 Combine the following words to make compound adjectives to replace the underlined parts of these sentences. Make any other necessary changes. (D)

Adjective + to-infinitive, -ing, that-clause, wh-clause

A

When an adjective comes after a linking verb (e.g. appear, be, become, seen; see Unit 21) we can use a number of patterns after the adjective including a to-infinitive, -ing, that-clause, and wh-clause. (For It + linking verb + adjective, see B.)

| | adjective + | example adjectives used in this pattern |
|-----|--|--|
| i | to-infinitive <input type="checkbox"/> You're free to leave at any time you want. | (un)able, careful, crazy, curious, difficult, easy, foolish, free, good, hard, impossible, inclined, mad, nice, prepared, ready, stupid, welcome, willing |
| ii | -ing <input type="checkbox"/> He was busy doing his homework. | busy, crazy, foolish, mad, stupid; (after the verb feel) awful, awkward, bad, good, guilty, terrible |
| iii | that-clause <input type="checkbox"/> He became worried (that) she might leap out from behind a door. | afraid, alarmed, amazed, angry, annoyed, ashamed, astonished, aware, concerned, disappointed, glad, (un)happy, pleased, shocked, sorry, upset, worried; certain, confident, positive, sure |
| iv | wh-clause <input type="checkbox"/> I'm not certain (of/ about) why he wants to borrow the money | afraid, not aware/unaware, not certain/uncertain, doubtful, not sure/unsure, worried |
| v | to-infinitive or that-clause <input type="checkbox"/> She was afraid to say anything. <input type="checkbox"/> I was afraid that I would be late. | the adjectives in iii above, except aware, confident and positive |
| vi | to-infinitive or -ing <input type="checkbox"/> He'd be stupid to leave now. <input type="checkbox"/> He'd be stupid giving up the job. | crazy, foolish, mad, stupid |
| vii | -ing or that-clause <input type="checkbox"/> She felt awful leaving him with all the clearing up. <input type="checkbox"/> She felt awful that she wasn't able to help. | (after the verb feel) awful, awkward, bad, good, guilty, terrible |

It + linking verb + adjective

We can sometimes use it + linking verb + adjective + to-infinitive as an alternative to subject + linking verb + adjective + to-infinitive (see also Units 96 and 97). Compare:

She is easy to understand. and It is easy to understand her.

The fireworks were amazing to watch. and It was amazing to watch the fireworks.

Notice that in informal speech we can use an -ing form instead of a to-infinitive:

It is easy understanding her. It was amazing watching the fireworks.

Other adjectives that can be used in this pattern include annoying, awkward, easy, good, interesting, lovely, simple, terrific, wonderful. Notice that we can use a similar pattern with adjective + wh- or that-clause (see Unit 96A):

It is not clear why he did it. It was odd that she left so suddenly.

After certain adjectives we often include of + subject between the adjective and a to-infinitive:

It was rude (of them) to criticise her. (or They were rude to criticise her.)

Other adjectives which often take of + subject in this pattern include brave, kind, mean, thoughtful, unprofessional, unreasonable.

When we talk about how somebody reacts to a situation we can use it + make with an adjective and to-infinitive, -ing or that-clause:

It made me angry (to discover) that so much money was wasted. (or It made me angry discovering that...; or I was angry to discover that...)

Other adjectives used in this way include ashamed, furious, glad, miserable, nervous, sad, tired, uncomfortable.

- 70.1 Choose an appropriate verb to complete these sentences. Use a to-infinitive or -ing form, giving alternatives where possible. (A)

On the bus on the way back to the hotel I got talking to a local woman and (5) was concerned learning that it got very cold in the hills at night. Adjectives and adverbs

A

Some adverbs of manner (saying how something is done) are formed from an adjective + -ly: sudden → suddenly, happy → happily, etc. When an adjective already ends in -ly (e.g. cowardly, elderly, friendly, kindly, lively, lonely, lovely) we don't add -ly to it to make an adverb. Instead we can use a prepositional phrase with fashion, manner, or way:

- He smiled at me in a friendly way.
- She waved her hands around in a lively fashion.

Most participle adjectives ending in -ed (see Unit 69) don't have an adverb form and so we use a prepositional phrase instead:

- They rose to greet me in a subdued manner. (not ...subduedly.)
- He faced the court in a dignified fashion. (not ...dignifiedly.) or we use a preposition and a related noun if there is one:

- She looked at me in amazement. (not ...amazedly.)
- He was overwhelmed with confusion. (not ...confusedly.)

However, some do have an adverb form with -ly. Compare:

- The storm was unexpected. and
- The weather turned unexpectedly stormy.

Other adverbs like this include agitatedly, allegedly, deservedly, determinedly, disappointedly, excitedly, hurriedly, pointedly, repeatedly, reportedly, reputedly, supposedly, worriedly.

B

Some adverbs have two forms, one ending in -ly and the other not. We can sometimes use either of the two forms of the adverb without changing the meaning, although the form ending in -ly is grammatically correct and more usual in a formal style:

- She ran quick/quickly towards the door. ('quick' is less formal) and must be used if the adverb comes immediately before the verb:

- She quickly ran towards the door. (not She quick ran...)

Other words like this include cheap(ly), clean(ly), clear(ly), fine(ly), loud(ly), slow(ly), thin(ly).

C

In other cases there is a difference in the meaning of the adverb with and without -ly. Compare:

- She gave her time free. (= for no money) and She gave her time freely. (= willingly)
- I arrived late for the concert. (= not on time) and I haven't seen John lately. (= recently)

Here are some other pairs of adverbs that can have different meanings. Compare:

|--|---|
| <input type="checkbox"/> He wandered deep into the forest and got lost. (= a long way) | <input type="checkbox"/> He felt deeply hurt by his criticisms. (= very) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 'You don't have to change trains.' 'You can go direct.' (= without stopping) | <input type="checkbox"/> I'll be with you directly. (= very soon) <input type="checkbox"/> He saw Susan directly ahead. (= straight) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> It sounded awful – one of the choir members was singing flat. | <input type="checkbox"/> This time I flatly refused to lend him any money. (= definitely; completely) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> He kicked the ball high over the goal. | <input type="checkbox"/> Everyone thinks highly of her teaching. (= they think her teaching is very good) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> 'Is Bob here yet?' 'He's just arrived.' <input type="checkbox"/> She looks just like her mother. | <input type="checkbox"/> You can be justly proud of your musical achievements. (= rightly; justifiably) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Which of these cheeses do you like most? | <input type="checkbox"/> Her novels are now mostly out of print. (= most of them) <input type="checkbox"/> We mostly go on holiday in France. (= usually) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> They cut short their holiday when John fell ill. (= went home early) | <input type="checkbox"/> The speaker will be arriving shortly (= soon). Please take your seats. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> The door was wide open so I just went straight in. (= completely) | <input type="checkbox"/> You won't have any problems getting the book. It's widely available. (= in many places) |

- 71.1 Replace the underlined parts of these sentences using the participles below. If possible, use a -ly form. If it is not possible, use either a prepositional phrase or a preposition and a related noun.

(A)

| | | | | |
|-----------|-------------|-----------|------------|--------------|
| agitated | anticipated | despaired | determined | disappointed |
| organised | relaxed | repeated | reputed | satisfied |

Adjectives and adverbs: comparative and superlative forms

Comparatives: -er vs more/less...than

A

We usually add -er to one-syllable adjectives and adverbs to make their comparative form. However, we use more + adjective –

- ☆ with one-syllable past participle adjectives (see Unit 69) such as bored, creased, pleased, worn:
 - After I'd ironed my shirt it looked more creased than before. (not ...creaseder...)
- ☆ with fun, real, right and wrong:
 - I expected the film to be rather dull, but I couldn't have been more wrong. (not ...wronger.)
- ☆ when we are comparing two qualities:
 - 'Don't you think Carl was brave to go bungee jumping?' 'Personally, I thought he was more mad than brave.'
 - Although the paint was called 'Sky blue', I thought it was more green than blue.

We can also use '...he wasn't so much brave as *mad' and '...it was blue rather than *green'.

We can sometimes use more as an alternative to the -er form to emphasise the comparison:

- You might think it's dark here but it's more dark in the cellar. (or ...darker...)

Other adjectives used like this include clear, cold, fair, rough, soft, true.

B

Some adjectives with two syllables are most commonly used with more/less, particularly participle adjectives (e.g. worried, boring); adjectives ending in -ful and -less (e.g. careful, careless); afraid, alert, alike, alone, ashamed, aware; and some other adjectives, including active, cautious, certain, complex, direct, eager, exact, formal, frequent, modern, special, recent. Most two-syllable adjectives ending -y, -ow, -er and -ure can take either an -er or the more + adjective form, although the -er form is more frequently used.

Some adjectives (such as complete, equal, favourite, ideal, perfect, unique) have a comparative or superlative meaning so they are not often used with -er/-est or more/less/most/least.

However, we can use comparative or superlative forms for special emphasis or for a particular communicative purpose:

- The weather today was good, but less perfect than yesterday.

Superlatives

C

We usually use the, a possessive form (with -s), or a possessive pronoun before a superlative adjective or adverb. In informal contexts we sometimes leave out the before an -est or most + adjective superlative after a linking verb, particularly when the superlative is at the end of a sentence:

- 'Why did you go by bus?' 'It was (the) cheapest.' Which was (the) most expensive?

However, we can't leave out the when we go on to say what group of things is being compared:

- 'Why did you buy these oranges?' 'They were the cheapest ones I could find.' (not They were cheapest ones...)

When most + adjective/adverb is used without the, most means something like 'very':

- Did you see how she looked at you? It was most peculiar. (= very peculiar)
- I checked the form most carefully (= very carefully) but didn't notice the mistake.

D

After a superlative we use of + a plural noun phrase to name the objects being compared:

- John's the oldest of my three brothers.

Notice that we can put the of-phrase at the beginning to emphasise it:

- Of my three brothers, John's the oldest.

When we give the location or context within which the comparison is made we usually use in + a singular noun phrase:

- It was the tallest tree in the forest. (not ...the tallest tree of the forest.)

- 72.1 Underline the correct or more likely alternative. If both are possible, notice the difference between them. (A)

- 1 It was almost as if the wolf was more scared/ scareder of us than we were of it.
- 2 The river was more deep/ deeper than I expected so I decided to turn back.

Comparative phrases and clauses

A

We use as + adjective/adverb + as to say that something or someone is like something or someone else, or that one situation is like another:

- Was the film as funny as his last one? I came round as quickly as I could.

Negative forms of sentences like this can use either not as or not so. In formal speech and writing it is more common to use less + adjective + than:

- The gap between the sides is not as/so wide as it was. (or ...is less wide than it was.)

B

If we put a singular countable noun between an adjective and the second as, we use a/an in front of the noun:

- Despite his disability, he tried to lead as normal a life as possible. (not ...as normal life as...)
- She was as patient a teacher as anyone could have had. (not ...as patient teacher as...)

The negative form of sentences like this can use either not as or sometimes not such:

- It's not as quiet a place (or ...not such a quiet place ...) as it used to be.

Notice that we use not as + adjective + a/an + noun but not such a/an + adjective + noun.

We can use how, so and too followed by an adjective in a similar way:

- How significant a role did he play in your life?
- It's not quite so straightforward a problem as it might at first seem.
- 'Conspiracy' is perhaps too strong a word. How big a piece do you want?

C

We also use as much/many as or as little/few as to say that a quantity or amount is larger or smaller than expected. Many and few are preferred before numbers; much and little are preferred with amounts (e.g. $5, 20%) and distances (e.g. 3 metres):

- There are a small number of people involved, possibly as few as twenty.
- Prices have increased by as much as 300 per cent.

We can use not + adjective/adverb + enough + to-infinitive to mean that there isn't as much as is necessary to do something:

- I'm not tall enough to reach. He didn't speak loudly enough to be heard.

We can use sufficiently before adjectives to express a similar meaning to enough. Sufficiently is often preferred in more formal contexts:

- She didn't play sufficiently well to qualify. (or ...well enough to qualify.)

E

We can use too + adjective/adverb + to-infinitive to mean 'more than necessary, possible, etc.' to do something:

- They arrived too late to get seats. It moved too fast to see it clearly.

If we need to mention the things or people involved in the action, we do this with for....:

- The suitcase was too small (for him) to get all his clothes in.

In rather formal English we can use too + adjective + a/an + noun:

- I hope you haven't had too tiring a day. (not ...a too tiring day.)

(In a less formal style we might say 'I hope your day hasn't been too tiring.')

F

We can use so + adjective/adverb + that-clause to say that something existed or happened to such a degree that a specified result occurred (see also Unit 81):

- It's so simple that even I can do it. He came in so quietly that I didn't hear him.

Less often we use so + adjective/adverb + as + to-infinitive with a similar meaning. Compare:

- The difference was so small that it wasn't worth arguing about. and
- The difference was so small as to not be worth arguing about. (= Because the difference was so small, it wasn't worth arguing about)

We can use go so/as far as + to-infinitive to talk about actions that are surprising or extreme:

- One furious woman went so/as far as to throw tomatoes at the minister.

- 73.1 Complete these sentences with as...as or not as/such...as. Sometimes two answers are possible. Use the words in brackets and add any other necessary words. (B)

INTERVIEWER: (1) How serious injury is it? Is it (2) so serious as has been claimed in the newspapers? Some people are saying Alan Green will never play international football again.

MANAGER: Well, it's certainly (3) enough bad to keep him out of football for at least 6 months. He's obviously (4) not so fit as he used to be and even he would admit that he's (5) not such good player as he was in his 20s. But I wouldn't (6) go so far to say that he'll never play for the national team again. I know him (7) sufficiently well enough to say that he will consider his future carefully before making any major decisions.

INTERVIEWER: Well, we all wish him (8) as speedy recovery as possible...

Position of adverbs (1)

A

There are three main positions for adverbs which modify a verb: end, front and mid position.

★ In end position, the adverb is placed after the verb – either immediately after it or later in the clause:

- They played quietly all day. He tried to leave quietly. He sat in the corner quietly.

★ In front position the adverb is placed before the subject:

- Finally he could stand the noise no longer.* Sometimes I feel like going home.

★ In mid position the adverb is placed between the subject and verb, immediately after be as a main verb, or after the first auxiliary verb:

- | | |
|--|---|
| <input type="checkbox"/> He usually plays better than this. | <input type="checkbox"/> She is usually here by 10.00. |
| <input type="checkbox"/> They would usually come by car. | |

Many adverbs can go in any of these positions, depending on context or style. For example:

- | | |
|---|---|
| <input type="checkbox"/> He turned round slowly . (end) | <input type="checkbox"/> Slowly he turned round. (front) |
| <input type="checkbox"/> He slowly turned round . (mid) | |

End position

B

In end position, we usually put an adverb after an object if there is one rather than immediately after the verb:

- We considered the problem briefly. (not We considered briefly the problem.)

However, if an object is very long other positions are possible:

- We considered briefly the long-term solution to the problem. (or We briefly considered...)

C

We avoid putting an adverb between a main verb and a following -ing form or to-infinitive:

- He began running quickly. or He quickly began running. (not He began quickly running.)
- She tried to leave quietly. or She quietly tried to leave. (not She tried quietly to leave.)

The position of the adverb can change the meaning of the sentence (see Unit 75A). Compare:

- I recall telling him clearly that he had won. (= I told him clearly; 'clearly' modifies 'telling him') and
- I clearly recall telling him that he had won. (= I clearly recall it; 'clearly' modifies 'recall').

'I recall clearly telling him that he had won' is also possible, but is ambiguous; it can have either of the two meanings given above. In speech, the meaning intended is usually signalled by intonation.

D

When there is more than one adverbial (see Glossary) in end position, the usual order in written English is adverbial of manner (= saying how something is done), place, and then time:

- In the accident she was thrown violently forwards. (= manner + place)
- We arrived here on Saturday. (= place + time)

For special emphasis we can move an adverbial to the end:

- In the accident she was thrown forwards, violently.

If one adverbial is much longer than another then it is usually placed last:

- They left at 3.00 with a great deal of noise. (= time + manner)

An adverb usually comes before a prepositional phrase when these have the same function (i.e. when they both describe manner, or place, or time):

- She went downstairs to the cellar. (= place + place)

E

End position is usual for many adverbials of place, definite frequency, and definite time (including adverbial prepositional phrases):

- They live upstairs. (not They upstairs live.) She goes weekly. (not She weekly goes.)
- Have you heard the good news? Jane had a baby in May. (not Jane in May had a baby.)

However, adverbs of indefinite time usually go in mid position (see Unit 75).

Notice that in journalism, other adverbs of time are often used in mid position, where we would normally place them in end (or front) position:

- The government yesterday announced an increase in education spending.

- 74.1 Write the adverb in brackets in the sentence in an appropriate position. In some cases both positions are possible. (C)

- 1 I expect Sue to win the race (easily)
- 2 He regretted missing the concert (greatly)
- 3 I hated playing the piano , although my parents thought I loved it. (secretly)
- 4 He started to walk across the bridge over the gorge. (calmly)

- 7 I don't remember putting it down (simply)
- 8 We look forward to hearing from you (soon)
- 9 They tried to ignore me (deliberately)
- 10 I don't pretend to understand the instructions (completely)

- 74.2 Complete the sentences. Put the words and phrases in brackets in the most likely order for written English. (B & D)

- 1 He hid Nancy's present in the wardrobe (in the wardrobe/ present)
- 2 She waited (nervously/ until her name was called)

- 11 If you leave now, you should be (by nine o'clock/ at home)
- 12 They enjoyed (at the party/ themselves/ immensely)

- 74.3 If necessary, improve these sentences by putting the italicised word or phrase in a more appropriate position. If no improvement is needed, write ✓. (B-E)

- 1 I try to visit every week my parents. I try to visit my parents every week or Every week I try to visit my parents

Position of adverbs (2)

Front position

A

Most types of adverb commonly go in front position in a clause (see Unit 74A). In particular –

- ☆ connecting adverbs (e.g. as a result, similarly) which make immediately clear the logical relation to the previous sentence:
 - The value of the yen has fallen. As a result, Japan faces a crisis.
- ☆ time and place adverbs (e.g. tomorrow, nearby) which give more information about a previous reference to a time or place, or show a contrast:
 - The last few days have been hot. Tomorrow the weather will be much cooler.
- ☆ comment and viewpoint adverbs (e.g. presumably, financially) which highlight the speaker's attitude to what they are about to say (see Unit 78):
 - She has just heard that her sister is ill. Presumably, she will want to go home.

However, other positions are possible for these adverbs.

Some words can be used both as comment adverbs or adverbs of manner. As comment adverbs they usually go in front position (but can go in other positions) and relate to the whole of the clause; as adverbs of manner they usually go in end position and modify the verb. Compare:

- Naturally, I'll do all I can to help. and □ The gas occurs naturally in this area.

Other adverbs like this include clearly, curiously, frankly, honestly, oddly, plainly, seriously.

Note that for special emphasis or focus, adverbs that usually go in mid position (see B) and end position (see also Units 74 and 76) can sometimes be put in front position:

- In May, Jane had a baby. □ Regularly, Kim works on several paintings at once.

Mid position

B

The following types of adverb usually go in mid position (see Unit 74A) –

- ☆ degree adverbs (e.g. almost, hardly, nearly, quite, rather, scarcely):
 - The street lighting was so bad that we almost missed the turning.
although some (e.g. completely, enormously, entirely, greatly, slightly) can go in end position:
□ I greatly admire your work. (or I admire your work greatly.)

Notice, however, that some degree adverbs are not usually used in mid position with some verbs. For example, enormously is not usually used in mid position with develop, differ, go up or vary; greatly is not normally used in mid position with care or suffer.

- ☆ adverbs which indicate the order of events, such as first, last and next. These can also go in end position, but if there is a phrase giving the time of an event they usually go before this:

- I first met her in 1987. (or I met her first in 1987.)

We don't usually put these in front position, except when we use them to list actions (when we usually follow them with a comma in writing; see also Unit 76B):

- Next, add three teaspoons of sugar.

- ☆ adverbs of frequency which say in an indefinite way how often something happens, including hardly ever, often, rarely, regularly, seldom (see also Unit 76B); and also the frequency adverbs always and never:

- We hardly ever see Derek nowadays, he's so busy at the office.

Notice, however, that adverbial phrases of indefinite frequency (e.g. as a rule, on many occasions, from time to time, every so often) usually go in front or end position:

- As a rule, I go every six months. (or every six months, as a rule; not 'I as a rule go...')

C

We rarely put long adverbials (including clauses (see Units 58 and 59), and prepositional and noun phrases) in mid position. Usually they go in end position or front position for emphasis:

- She phoned home, anxious for news. (or Anxious for news, she phoned home.)
- He picked up the vase with great care. (or With great care he picked up the vase.)
- I'd seen Jack the day before. (or The day before I'd seen Jack.)

- 75.1 Use one of these adverbs in each pair of sentences. In one, add the adverb in front position (as a comment adverb); in the other, add the adverb in end position (as an adverb of manner). (A)

- 6 [1] I [2] meet [3] Emma at school. (often)

Adverbs of place, direction, indefinite frequency, and time

A

Adverbs of place and direction (or adverbials, particularly prepositional phrases) usually go in end position, but we can put them in front position to emphasise the location. The effect may also be to highlight what comes at the end (e.g. 'a body' in the example below). This order is found mainly in formal descriptive writing and reports. Compare:

- The money was eventually found under the floorboards. (= end) and
- The police searched the house. Under the floorboards they found a body. (= front)

If we put an adverb of place in front position we put the subject after the verb be (see also Unit 99A):

- Next to the bookshelf was a fireplace. (or less formally Next to the bookshelf there was a fireplace; not Next to the bookshelf a fireplace was.)

Note that this doesn't apply when the subject is a pronoun. For example, we can't say 'Next to the bookshelf was it.'

We can also put the subject after the verb with intransitive verbs (except with a pronoun subject) used to indicate being in a position or movement to a position, including hang, lie, live, sit, stand; come, fly, go, march, roll, run, swim, walk:

- Beyond the houses lay open fields. (but compare Beyond the houses they lay.)
- Through the town marched the band. (but compare Through the town it marched.)

Note that '...open fields lay', '...the band marched' (etc.) might be used in a literary style.

However, we don't usually put the subject after the verb when we talk about actions: if one of these intransitive verbs is followed by an adverb of manner; with other intransitive verbs; or with transitive verbs:

- Through the waves the boy swam powerfully. (rather than ...swam the boy powerfully.)
- Outside the church the choir sang. (rather than ...sang the choir.)
- In the garden John built a play house for the children. (not In the garden built John...)

B

When we put certain adverbs of time in front position the subject must come after an auxiliary verb or a main verb be (see also Unit 100):

- At no time would he admit that his team played badly. (not At no time he would admit...)
- Not once was she at home when I phoned. (not Not once she was...)

If the main verb is not be and there is no auxiliary, we use do, although inversion is not necessary in this case:

- Only later did she realise how much damage had been caused. (or Only later she realised...)

Adverbs like this include negative time adverbials such as at no time, hardly ever, not once, only later, rarely, and seldom. Notice also that we can put first, next, now and then in front position with the verb come to introduce a new event, when the subject follows the verb. But if a comma (or an intonation break in speech) is used after first (etc.) the verb follows the subject. Compare:

- At first there was silence. Then came a voice that I knew. (not Then a voice came...) and
- At first there was silence. Then, a voice came that I knew.

C

Adverbs of time which indicate a definite point or period in time or a definite frequency, usually go in end position, or front position for emphasis, but not in mid position. Note that when these adverbs are in front position there is no inversion of subject and verb:

- I went to Paris yesterday. (or Yesterday I went to Paris.)
- We meet for lunch once a week. (or Once a week we meet for lunch.)

Note that the adverbs daily, hourly, monthly, weekly, annually, quarterly (= four times a year), etc. only go in end position:

- The train leaves hourly. (not Hourly the train leaves; not The train hourly leaves.)
- I pay my subscription annually. (not Annually I pay...; not I annually pay...)

76.1 Rewrite the sentences with the underlined adverbs of place or direction at the front of the clause. If possible, invert the order of subject and verb. (A)

76.2 If possible, rewrite the underlined parts of these sentences with the time adverbial in front position. Where you can, invert the order of subject and verb, and make any other necessary changes. (B & C)

Degree adverbs and focus adverbs

A

Degree adverbs can be used before adjectives, verbs, or other adverbs to give information about the extent or level of something:

- They're extremely happy. I really hate coffee. He almost always arrived late.

Some degree adverbs, such as almost, largely, really and virtually, are usually used before the main verb, and others, such as altogether, enormously, somewhat, and tremendously, are usually used after the main verb. Degree adverbs are rarely used in front position (see Unit 75B).

Focus adverbs draw attention to the most important part of what we are talking about. Some (e.g. especially, even, mainly, mostly, particularly, specifically) make what we say more specific:

- There is likely to be snow today, particularly in the north.
- and others (e.g. alone, just, only, simply, solely) limit what we say to one thing or person:
- Many people offered to help me invest the money, but I only trusted Peter.

B

Much and very much

In affirmative sentences in formal contexts, much can be used as a degree adverb before the verbs admire, appreciate, enjoy, prefer and regret to emphasise how we feel about things:

- I much enjoyed having you stay with us. Their music is much admired.

Much is used in this way particularly after I and we and (with admire and appreciate) in passives. Note that we don't usually use this pattern in questions (e.g. not 'Did you much enjoy...?').

We can use very much in a similar way before these verbs and also before agree, doubt, fear, hope, like and want. Notice, however, that we don't use much before this last group of verbs. Compare:

- I much prefer seeing films at the cinema than on television. (or I very much prefer...) and
- We very much agree with the decision. (or We agree very much...; but not ...much agree...)

We can also use much or very much before a past participle which is part of a passive:

- The new by-pass was (very) much needed.

We don't use much but can use very much before past participle adjectives (see Unit 69A):

- She was (very) interested in the news. (or ... very much interested...; but not much interested...) and we don't use either much or very much before present participle adjectives:

- The hotel was (very) welcoming. (but not The hotel was (very) much welcoming.)

In negative sentences in informal contexts we can use (very) much before verbs such as appreciate, enjoy, like, and look forward to to emphasise a negative feeling about something:

- I didn't (very) much enjoy the film.

C

Very and too

Before an adjective or another adverb we use very when we mean 'to a high degree', and too when we mean 'more than enough' or 'more than is wanted or needed'. Compare:

- The weather was very hot in Majorca. Perfect for swimming. (not...too hot...) and
- It's too hot to stay in this room – let's find somewhere cooler. (not ...very hot...)

In negative sentences in informal spoken English we can use not too to mean 'not very':

- I'm not too bothered about who wins. (or I'm not very bothered...)

D

Even, only and alone

Even and only usually go in mid position (see Unit 75), but if they refer to the subject they usually come before it. Compare:

- My mother has only brought some food. (= She hasn't brought anything else) and
- Only my mother has brought some food. (= My mother and nobody else)
- Sue can even speak French. (= in addition to everything else she can do) and
- Even Sue can speak French. (= you might not expect her to) (rather than Sue even...)

When alone means that only one thing or person is involved, it comes after a noun:

- You alone should decide what is right for you.

Comment adverbs and viewpoint adverbs

A

We use some adverbs to make a comment on what we are saying.

| some comment adverbs... | example |
|---|--|
| indicate how likely we think something is | apparently, certainly, clearly, definitely, obviously, presumably, probably, undoubtedly |
| indicate our attitude to or opinion of what is said | astonishingly, frankly, generally, honestly, interestingly, luckily, naturally, sadly, seriously, surprisingly, unbelievably |
| show our judgement of someone's actions | bravely, carelessly, foolishly, generously, kindly, rightly, stupidly, wisely, wrongly |

Comment adverbs often apply to the whole sentence and are most frequently used in front position (see Unit 75A), although they can also be used at the end of the sentence and in other positions. At the beginning and end of sentences we usually separate them from the rest of the sentence by a comma in writing or by intonation in speech:

- Presumably, he didn't hear me when I called.
- The book was based on his experience in China, apparently.
- Jackson believes that child development can be slowed down by poor nutrition. This is undoubtedly the case.

Comment adverbs which show judgement usually follow the subject, although they can be put in front position for emphasis:

- He kindly offered to take me to the station. (or Kindly, he offered... to emphasise 'Kindly')

If comment adverbs apply to only part of the sentence they can be used in other positions.

Compare:

- Astonishingly, she did well in the exam. (= I was surprised that she did well)
- She did astonishingly well in the exam. (= she did very well)
- You've had a major operation. Obviously, it will be very painful for a while. (= I expect you to know this already)
- When he stood up it was obviously very painful. (= the pain was clear to see)

B

Some adverbs are used to make clear what viewpoint we are speaking from; that is, identifying what features of something are being talked about:

- Financially, the accident has been a disaster for the owners of the tunnel.
- The brothers may be alike physically, but they have very different personalities.

Other examples include biologically, environmentally, financially, ideologically, industrially, logically, medically, morally, outwardly, politically, technically, visually.

A number of phrases are used in a similar way. For example:

| | | |
|--------------------------------|----------------------------------|----------------------|
| politically speaking | in political terms | in terms of politics |
| from a political point of view | as far as politics are concerned | |

- Politically/In political terms, this summer is a crucial time for the government.
- Financially/From a financial point of view, it is a good investment.

Some adverbs or phrases are used to say whose viewpoint we are expressing:

- The head of National North Bank is to receive, according to newspaper reports, a 50% salary increase.
- In my view, the Foreign Minister should resign immediately.

Other examples include to my/his/her (etc.) knowledge, from my/his/her (etc.) perspective, personally, in my/his/her (etc.) opinion.

- 78.1 Choose a comment adverb to replace the underlined part. Consider possible positions in the sentence for the adverb. (A)

| | | |

| (i) | environmentally | financially |
| | industrially | medically |

Adverbial clauses of time

A

As, when and while

We can often use as, when or while to mean ‘during the time that’, to talk about something that happens when something else takes place:

- As/When/While Dave was eating, the doorbell rang.

We use when (not as or while) to introduce a clause which talks about –

- ☆ an event that takes place at the same time as some longer event (in the main clause):
 - They were playing in the garden when they heard a scream.
- ☆ the circumstances in which the event in the main clause happens:
 - When they are fully grown these snakes can be over two metres long.

We also use when to mean ‘every time’:

- I still feel tired when I wake up in the morning.

and we prefer when to talk about past periods of our lives:

- His mother called him Robbie when he was a baby.

We prefer when to emphasise that one event happens immediately after another, particularly if one causes the other:

- You'll see my house on the right when you cross the bridge.
- When the lights went out, I lit some candles.

In the first sentence, ‘as’ or ‘while’ would suggest ‘during the time that’ and the continuous would be more likely (...as/while you are crossing...). In the second sentence ‘as’ or ‘while’ would be very unlikely because lights usually go out instantaneously.

We prefer as to say that when one thing changes, another thing changes at the same time:

- As the cheese matures, its flavour improves. (rather than When the cheese...)

We can also use ‘While...’, particularly with a continuous tense: ‘While the cheese is maturing...’.

We prefer while or as (rather than when) to talk about two longer actions that go on at the same time, although while is more common than as in informal speech:

- I went shopping while Linda cleaned the house. (or ...as Linda cleaned...)

We use while or when (rather than as) to avoid ambiguity where ‘as’ could mean ‘because’:

- While you were playing golf, I went to the cinema. (As you were playing golf... could mean ‘Because you were playing golf...’)

B

Before, after and until

We use before or after to talk about an event happening earlier or later than another event:

- I put on my coat before I went out. The message arrived after I'd left.

We can often use either until or before when a situation continues to happen up to a time indicated in the adverbial clause:

- I had to wait six weeks until/before the parcel arrived.

We use until to talk about an action that continues to a particular time and then stops:

They sat on the beach until the sun sank below the horizon, and then they went home.
and when the adverbial clause describes the result of an action in the main clause:

- He cleaned his shoes until they shone. ('shining' is the result of ‘cleaning’.)

C

Hardly, no sooner, scarcely

When we say that one event happened immediately after another we can use sentences with hardly, no sooner, and scarcely (see also Unit 100). After hardly and scarcely the second clause begins with when or before; after no sooner it begins with than or when:

- The concert had hardly begun before all the lights went out.

- I had no sooner lit the barbecue than/when it started to rain.

We often use a past perfect in the clause with hardly, no sooner or scarcely and a past simple in the other.

79.1 Choose as, when or while, whichever is correct or more likely, to complete these sentences. If there is more than one possible answer, write them both and notice any differences in meaning. (A)

- 7 He was almost unknown outside his specialised field he was awarded the Nobel Prize.
- 8 He would work in his laboratory for days at a time he had gathered the results he needed.

Giving reasons: as, because, etc.; for and with

A

We can begin a clause with as, because, seeing that, seeing as, or since to give a reason for a particular situation:

- As it was getting late*, I decided I should go home.
- We must be near the beach, because I can hear the waves.
- Since he was going to be living in Sweden for some time, he thought he should read something about the country.
- We could go and visit Sue, seeing that we have to drive past her house anyway.

Notice that –

- ★ it is also common and acceptable for because to begin a sentence, as in:
 - Because everything looked different, I had no idea where to go.
- ★ to give reasons in spoken English, we most often use because. So is also commonly used to express a similar meaning (see also Unit 81). Compare:
 - Because my mother's arrived, I won't be able to meet you. ('because' introduces the reason) and
 - My mother's arrived, so I won't be able to meet you. ('so' introduces the result.)
- ★ when it means 'because', since is rather formal. It is uncommon in conversation, but is frequently used in this way in academic writing:
 - I had to go outside because I was feeling awful. ('since' is unlikely in an informal context)
 - The results of this analysis can be easily compared to future observations since satellite coverage will remain continuous. (more likely than 'because' in this formal context.)
- ★ seeing that is used in informal English. Some people also use seeing as in informal speech:
 - Ken just had to apologise, seeing that/as he knew he'd made a mistake.

B

In formal or literary written English we can also introduce reasons with for, in that, or, less commonly, inasmuch as. For is a formal alternative to 'because'; in that and inasmuch as introduce clauses which clarify what has been said by adding detail:

- The film is unusual in that it features only four actors. (or In that..., the film is...)
- Clara and I have quite an easy life, inasmuch as neither of us has to work too hard but we earn quite a lot of money. (or Inasmuch as..., Clara and I...)
- We must begin planning now, for the future may bring unexpected changes. (not For the future..., we must... – where 'for' means 'because').

C

The prepositions because of, due to, and owing to can also be used before a noun or noun phrase to give a reason for something:

- We were delayed because of an accident.
- She was unable to run owing to/due to a leg injury. (= because of a leg injury.)
- We have less money to spend owing to/due to budget cuts. (= because of budget cuts.)

Notice that we don't use because alone before a noun or noun phrase:

- We were delayed because there was an accident. (not ...because an accident.)

In current English we usually avoid owing to directly after a form of be:

- The company's success is due to the new director. (not ...is owing to...)

However, owing to is used after be + a degree adverb such as entirely, largely, mainly, partly:

- The low election turnout was partly due to/owing to the bad weather.

We can often use either it was due to...that or it was owing to...that:

- It was owing to his encouragement that she applied for the job. (or It was due to...that)

D

We can use for and with followed by a noun phrase to give a reason. For has a similar meaning to 'as a result of' and is common in most styles of English (compare B above):

- She was looking all the better for her stay in hospital.

With has a similar meaning to 'as a result of there being':

- With so many people ill, I've decided to cancel the meeting.

80.3 Rewrite these sentences using for or with instead of because (of). Give alternatives where possible. (D)

1 I got a job as a street sweeper because my money was running out.

With my money running out, I got a job as a street sweeper... or
I got a job as a street sweeper, with my money running out.

2 I couldn't hear what Sue was saying because of the noise.

3 Jane went to stay with her aunt because her father was in hospital.

4 I felt a lot fitter because of all the exercise I was doing.

5 Because the train drivers are on strike tomorrow, I don't think I'll go to London after all.

AIn order/so as + to-infinitive

To talk about the purpose of an action we can use in order/so as + to-infinitive:

- He took the course in order to get a better job.
- Trees are being planted by the roadside so as to reduce traffic noise.

In spoken English in particular it is much more common simply to use a to-infinitive without 'in order' or 'so as' to express the same meaning:

- He took the course to get a better job.

We rarely use just 'not + to-infinitive', but instead use so as not to or in order not to:

- He kept the speech vague in order not to commit himself to one side or the other. (not ...vague not to commit himself...)
- The land was bought quickly so as not to delay the building work. (not ...quickly not to delay...)

However, in contrastive sentences we can use not + to-infinitive, but + to-infinitive as in:

- I came to see you not (in order/so as) to complain, but (in order/so as) to apologise.

Notice that we can put in order/so as before the to-infinitives in sentences like this.

BIn order that and so that

We also use in order that and so that to talk about a purpose. Compare:

- She stayed at work late in order/so as to complete the report. and
- She stayed at work late in order that/so that she could complete the report. (not ...in order that/so that to complete the report.)

So that is more common than in order that, and is used in less formal situations. Note that informally we can leave out that after so, but we always include it after in order.

A present tense verb in the main clause is usually followed by a present tense verb (or a modal with present or future reference – can, will, etc.) in the clause beginning in order that/so that. A past tense verb in the main clause is usually followed by a past tense verb (or a modal with past reference – could, would, etc.) in the clause beginning in order that/so that. Modal verbs are very often used after in order that/so that:

- Regular checks are made in order that safety standards are maintained.
- Advice is given in order that students can choose the best course.
- Did you give up your job so that you could take care of your mother?
- I hid the presents so that Jackie wouldn't find them.

CSuch that and in such a way that; such...that

In formal contexts, such as academic writing, we can use such that to introduce a result:

- The model was designed such that the value of x could be calculated. (= 'in a way that has the result that...'; or ...in order that...; or ...so that...)

Less formally we can also use in such a way that or in such a way as + to-infinitive with a similar meaning:

- The advertisement is printed in such a way that two very different pictures can be seen depending on how you look at it.
- In fact, the tax cuts have been designed in such a way as to leave out the very people it is supposed to help.

We can also use such + noun phrase + that to introduce a result:

- It is such a popular play that the performance was sold out after the first day.
(For so + adjective/adverb + that, see Unit 73.)

- 81.1 Combine the two sentences in the most appropriate way using in order (not) + to-infinitive or so as (not) + to-infinitive. (A)

- 1 I had to borrow money from the bank.
- 2 He packed his suitcase with the books at the bottom.
- 3 Bus fares in the city are being cut.
- 4 We crept quietly towards the deer.
- 5 I walked around the outside of the field.
- 6 We put up a fence.
- 7 She looked down at the book in front
- 8 The roadworks were carried out at night. of her.

1 + d I had to borrow money from the bank in order to set up the business. (or so as to set up...)

- e They didn't want to disrupt traffic too much.
- f We didn't want to frighten them away.
- g She wanted to avoid his gaze.
- h He didn't want to crush his clothes.

- 81.2 Look again at the sentences you wrote in 81.1. Is it also possible to use only a to-infinitive, without in order or so as? Write ✓ or ✗. (A)

1 I had to borrow money from the bank to set up the business. ✓

- 81.3 Choose one of these items to complete each sentence. Decide which of the underlined parts of the item is correct. (B) it will/ would let enough light in it won't/ wouldn't take up a lot of computer memory mosquitoes can't/ couldn't get in nobody will/ would know it was there

- 3 There were screens on all the windows so that
- 4 The software is designed so that
- 5 We went up to the top floor so that
- 6 The camera aperture needs to be wide on dull days so that

- 81.4 Rewrite each sentence less formally in two ways; one using in such a way that and the other using in such a way as to. (C)

- 1 The factory demolition was planned such that any risk to the public was avoided.

The factory demolition was planned in such a way that any risk to the public was avoided. / The factory demolition was planned in such a way as to avoid any risk to the public.

- 2 The meeting room is designed such that everyone's voice can be heard without the use of microphones.

- 3 The documents are written such that they are easily comprehensible.

- 4 If the dial is rotated such that the number 1 is at the top, the valve opens.

Contrasts: although and though; even though/if; while, whilst, and whereas

A

Although and though

We use although or (less formally) though to say that there is a surprising contrast between what happened in the main clause and what happened in the adverbial clause:

- Although/Though Reid failed to score himself, he helped Jones to score two goals.

With a similar meaning, we can use despite the fact that/in spite of the fact that (e.g. 'Despite the fact that/In spite of the fact that Reid failed to score himself...') or despite/in spite of + -ing (e.g. 'Despite/In spite of Reid failing to score himself...').

Notice that we can use though, but not although, at the end of a clause:

- I eat most dairy products. I'm not keen on yogurt, though.

We can give special emphasis to an adjective by putting it before though in the pattern adjective + though + noun/pronoun + verb (usually a linking verb such as appear, be, become, feel, look, seem, sound, prove, etc.). As can be used instead of though, but notice that you can't use although. Compare:

- Hot though (or as) the night air was, they slept soundly. and
- Although/Though the night air was hot, they slept soundly.

B

Even though and even if

We can use even though (but not 'even although') to mean 'despite the fact that' and even if to mean 'whether or not'. Compare:

| | | |
|---|--|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Even though Tom doesn't speak Spanish, I think he should still visit Madrid. | = Despite the fact that he doesn't speak Spanish | i.e. the speaker knows that Tom doesn't speak Spanish |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Even if Tom doesn't speak Spanish, I think he should still visit Madrid. | = Whether or not he speaks Spanish | i.e. the speaker doesn't know definitely whether Tom speaks Spanish or not |

C

While, whilst and whereas

In formal contexts we can use while or whilst with a meaning similar to 'although' to introduce something that qualifies what is said in the main clause or something that may seem to conflict with it. In this case, the while/whilst clause comes before or within the main clause, but not after it:

- While/Whilst there is no evidence that Peter cheated, we were all astonished that he passed the exam. (not We were all astonished that he passed the exam, while...)
- The diesel model of the car, while/whilst more expensive, is better value for money.

Note that whilst is a rather literary word and some people avoid using it.

We can use while or whereas (or less often whilst) to say that something contrasts with something in the main clause. The while/whereas clause may come before or after the main clause:

- Dave gets lots of homework from school, while/whereas Sue gets very little.
- While/Whereas I always felt I would pass the exam, I never thought I would get an A grade.

We don't use whereas where what is said in the subordinate clause makes what is said in the main clause unexpected:

- Although/While Sophie's father is from Spain, she doesn't speak Spanish. (not Whereas...)

D

We can use -ing and past participle (-ed) clauses after although, though, while and whilst, and also clauses with the subject and verb left out (see Unit 59D):

- (Al)though not huge, the garden needs constant attention. (= (Al)though it is not huge...)
- While welcoming the government's new funding for the health service, doctors are still unhappy about working conditions. (= While they welcome...)
- Some writers, whilst convinced that Hemingson supported the rebels, have questioned how involved he was in the fighting. (= whilst they are convinced...)

82.1 Match the sentence halves and give special emphasis to the adjective by moving it to the front of the sentence, as in 1. Use either though or as. (A)

- 1 it may seem amazing
- 2 she was frightened
- 3 food became scarce
- 4 the climbers were experienced
- 5 the instructions first appeared confusing
- 6 it looked disgusting
- 7 she felt confident
- 8 their new products have proved successful

- a they were very useful when I looked at them in detail
- b she forced herself to pick up the snake
- c they had never faced such severe conditions before
- d the company is still in financial difficulties
- e they always found enough to share with me
- f she knew the examination would not be easy
- g ~~my brother John has won the lottery~~
- h it was actually quite tasty

1 + g ... Amazing though it may seem, my brother John has just won the lottery... (or ... Amazing as it may seem...)

82.2 Expand the notes and rewrite the sentences using In spite of + -ing in 1–3 and In spite of his/her + noun in 4–6. (A)

- 1 Although she has to cope with three small children, ... (taking – part-time MBA course)
In spite of having to cope with three small children, she is taking a part-time MBA course.
- 2 Although he was much younger than the others, ... (was – most outstanding footballer – team)
- 3 Although he ate a big lunch, ... (had – three-course meal – evening)
- 4 Although she was frightened, ... (allowed – huge spider – placed in her hands)
- 5 Although she is obviously intelligent, ... (finds – it difficult – express – ideas in writing)
- 6 Although she was ill, ... (went – walking holiday – Nepal)

Now rewrite the sentences you have written beginning Despite the fact that...

1 Despite the fact that she has to cope with three small children, she is taking a part-time MBA course.

82.3 Underline the correct phrase. (B)

- 1 The driver stopped to let on more passengers even though/ even if the bus was already full.
- 2 I wouldn't tell you where Gail lives even though/ even if I knew.
- 3 Even though/ Even if I only play one match for my country, I'll be happy.
- 4 Even though/ Even if he had just put a cigarette out, Lawrence lit another one.
- 5 He plays for Wales even though/ even if he was born in Scotland.
- 6 You won't see all the animals in the zoo even though/ even if you stay for the whole day.
- 7 Even though/ Even if I'm quite old, I still miss my parents.
- 8 I still couldn't afford to go to Paris, even though/ even if I took the cheapest route.

82.4 Match the sentence halves and join them with While or Whereas at the beginning of the sentence. In which of the sentences you write can the clause beginning while or whereas come after the main clause? (C)

- 1 Paula is blonde
- 2 horse riding is an expensive pastime
- 3 a decade ago we used to get a lot of blackbirds in our garden
- 4 the true number of unemployed is over a million
- 5 the temperature is below freezing

- a more and more people are taking it up
- b the government says it is under 500,000
- c ~~all her sisters have dark hair~~
- d it actually feels quite warm when the sun is out
- e we rarely see them today

1 + c While/ Whereas Paula is blonde, all her sisters have dark hair. or All her sisters have dark hair, whereas/while Paula is blonde.

If (1)

Real conditionals

A

In real conditionals (see GR note above M9) we usually use a present tense verb in the if-clause to talk about the future:

- If you leave now, you'll be able to catch the 5 o'clock train. (or If you're leaving now...)
- However, in conversation we can use be going to instead of a present tense verb:
- If I'm going to catch the train, I'll have to leave now.
 - We'll need more chairs if we're going to invite so many people to the performance.

When we make offers, and give instructions or advice we can use an imperative in the main clause:

- Take another sandwich if you're hungry.
- If you have a mobile phone, check that it is turned off.

B

We can use if-clauses with a present tense verb to introduce certain conditions under which something is true:

- The video pauses if you press this button.
- If age-related changes are taken into account, the conclusion remains the same.
(Here 'if' has a meaning similar to 'when'.)

C

We can talk about possible future events with a present perfect verb in the if-clause and a future form (will, present continuous, or be going to) in the main clause. Sometimes present perfect or present simple can be used with a similar meaning:

- I'll lend you War and Peace if I've finished it before you go on holiday. (or ...if I finish...)
- If you haven't paid the bill by Friday, we're taking the carpets back. (or If you don't pay...)

However, to focus on the future consequences of a past event, we use the present perfect. Compare:

- If I've failed my maths exam again, I'm going to give up the course. (suggests I have already taken the exam; I don't know the result) and
- If I fail my maths exam again, I'm going to give up the course. (I may or may not have taken the exam)

Unreal conditionals

D

In unreal conditionals (see GR note above M9) we can use if...were + to-infinitive rather than if + past simple to talk about imaginary future situations, particularly to suggest it is unlikely that the situation in the if-clause will happen (see also Unit 14):

- If the technology were to become available, we would be able to expand the business.
- However, notice that we don't usually use this pattern with verbs such as belong, doubt, enjoy, know, like, remember, and understand when they describe a state:
- If I knew they were honest, I'd gladly lend them the money. (not If I were to know...)

We sometimes use this pattern to make a suggestion sound more polite:

- Would it be too early for you if we were to meet at 5.30?

E

We use if it was not for + noun phrase (or more formally if it were not for + noun phrase) to say that one situation is dependent on another situation or on a person (see also Unit 85A).

When we talk about the past we can also use if it had not been for + noun phrase:

- If it wasn't/weren't for Vivian, the conference wouldn't be going ahead.
- If it wasn't/weren't for the fact that Chloe would be offended, I wouldn't go to the party.
- If it hadn't been for Dad, I wouldn't have gone to college. (or If it wasn't/weren't for...)

In formal language we can also use Were it not for... and Had it not been for... (see Unit 84B):

- Were it not for Vivian... Had it not been for Dad...

We can use but for + noun with a similar meaning, particularly in formal contexts:

- The village school would have been closed years ago but for the determination of teachers and parents to keep it open. (= ...if it hadn't been for the determination...)

83.1 Suggest completions for these sentences. Add either an imperative (1–3) or an if-clause (4–6). (A)

1 There have been a lot of thefts from cars in the city centre. If you leave your car there...

make sure it's locked... or don't leave any valuables in it.

2 If you have any more problems with the computer, ...

3 If you see John today, ...

4 ...keep well away from them.

5 ...don't hesitate to get in touch with me again.

6 ...get off at the stop near the library.

83.2 Complete the sentences using one of the following pairs of verbs. Use the present simple or present perfect in the if-clause, and give alternatives. Notice any possible differences in meaning when these tenses are used. (C) not fill in – need not help – go leave – meet not arrive – give study – know break – have to 1 If you have studied/study Macbeth, you'll know the scene with the witches.

2 If you home before I get there, I'll you at the airport.

3 If you the window, you'll pay for it.

4 If the taxi by 10 o'clock, I'll you a lift to the station.

5 If you in an application form, you will to do so before you can be considered for the job.

6 If the antibiotics by the end of the week, I'll to the hospital.

83.3 Choose from these verbs to complete the sentences, using each verb once only. If possible, use the pattern were + to-infinitive. If this is not possible, use the past simple form of the verb. (D) belong close doubt hold switch understand

1 If they an election now, the Democrats would undoubtedly win.

2 If I his honesty, I wouldn't employ him.

3 If all cars to liquefied petroleum gas, air pollution levels would fall dramatically.

4 I'd sell the house immediately if it to me.

5 If I Chinese, I'd do the translation myself.

6 There would be no cinema in the town if the Odeon

83.4 Write new sentences with similar meanings. Begin with the word(s) given. (E)

1 It's only because he's a professor that anybody pays any attention to him. If it wasn't for the fact that he is a professor, nobody would pay any attention to him.

2 His happiness would have been complete except for his anxiety over Bridget. If it were...

3 The weather was terrible. Otherwise, we would have gone walking this weekend. If it had...

4 The strike would probably still be going on if the government hadn't intervened. Were it...

5 The fight could have got out of hand if the police hadn't arrived. Had it...

6 Everything was quiet except for the sound of birds singing. But for...

7 There would have been far more wars in the last 50 years without the United Nations. If it was...

8 We would have been here two hours ago except for the roadworks on the motorway. If it had...

9 Paul comes from a wealthy family. Otherwise he could not have gone to the USA to study. Were it...

If (2)

A

In spoken English we often use if-clauses without a main clause. In particular, we use them in polite requests, instructions, etc.:

- If I might just say a few words. (= I want to speak) I think it's important to...
- If we could get back to the subject of homework. Why haven't you done any for the last week? (= Let's go back to talking about homework) and to qualify what someone else has said. In this case if is usually stressed:

- A: Bill won't be happy if he finds out you've taken his bike. B: If he finds out. (= s/he doesn't necessarily agree that Bill will find out, or s/he will make sure that he does)

B

When the first verb in a conditional if-clause is should, were, or had we can leave out if and put the verb at the start of the clause (see Units 99 and 100 for more on inversion). We do this particularly in formal or literary English, and only in hypothetical conditionals (a type of unreal conditional which answers the question 'What would happen if...?'):

- Should any of this cost you anything, send me the bill. (= If any of this should cost...)
- It would be embarrassing, were she to find out the truth. (= ...if she were to find out..)
- Had they not rushed Jo to hospital, he would have died. (= If they hadn't rushed Jo...)

C

We don't usually use if...will in conditional clauses. However, we can use if...will –

★ when we talk about a result of something in the main clause. Compare:

- Open a window if it will help you to sleep. (or ...if it helps you to sleep; 'Helping you to sleep' is the result of opening the window) and
- I will be angry if it turns out that you are wrong. (not ...if it will turn out...; 'Turning out that you are wrong' is not the result of being angry)

★ in requests or with the meaning 'if you are willing to' (or if...would to be more polite):

- If you will/would take your seats, ladies and gentlemen, we can begin the meeting.

★ in real conditionals when we want to show that we disapprove of something. In this case, will is stressed in speech (see also Unit 16B):

- A: I'm tired. B: Well, if you will go to bed so late, I'm not surprised.

Notice that we can use if...won't when we talk about a refusal to do something:

- There's no point in trying to teach the class if they won't pay attention.

D

In a real conditional sentence (see GR note above M9), we use if...happen to, if...should, or if...should happen to to talk about something which may be possible, but is not very likely. If...happen to is most common in spoken English:

- If you happen to be in our area, drop in and see us. (or If you should (happen to) be...)

Notice that we don't usually use this pattern in unreal conditionals talking about states or events in the if-clause which the speaker perceives as highly unlikely or impossible:

- If the North Sea froze in winter, you could walk from London to Oslo. (but probably not If the North Sea happened to freeze/should (happen to) freeze in winter...)

E

In comparison clauses we can use as if followed by a noun phrase, -ing clause, past participle (-ed) clause, or to-infinitive to introduce a comparison with a situation described in the main clause. We do this to give an explanation or to say that something appears to be the case but is not:

- Richard walked in as if nothing had happened.
- His hands made a circular motion, as if steering a bus through a sharp bend.
- After scoring, Fowler fell to the floor as if hit by a bullet.
- As if to convince herself that Rob was really there, she gently touched his cheek.

Notice that we can use as though instead of as if, and in informal speech some people use like with the same meaning:

- The crowd reacted as though they were watching a boxing match. (or ...as if...)
- He walked into the room like nothing had happened. (or ...as if...)

- 84.1 Write a new sentence with a similar meaning to the sentence given. Begin with the word(s) given. (B)

- 1 Consult your doctor again if the symptoms remain 72 hours after starting the course of medicine. Should the symptoms remain 72 hours after starting the course of medicine, consult your doctor again.

- 5 We shall have to reduce the number of staff employed if the financial performance of the company doesn't improve in the near future. Should...
- 6 I might have considered taking the job if the salary had been higher. Had...

- 84.2 Are the underlined parts of the sentences correct? Correct the ones that are wrong. (C)

- 2 You're welcome to borrow my old bike, if you think it will be of any use to you.
- 3 If he won't resign, the Prime Minister should sack him.
- 4 If the disease will be untreated, it can lead to brain damage.
- 5 If you'll tell me where the vacuum cleaner is, I'll clean the house.
- 6 If you'll complain about me, I'll get into trouble with my teacher.
- 7 If it'll save money, I'm willing to go by public transport.

- 84.3 If possible, rewrite the underlined parts of these sentences with happen to. If it is unlikely, write X after the sentence. (D)

- 1 If I see Karen when I'm in Rome, I'll send her your regards.
- 2 If a UFO landed in the centre of London, there would be mass panic.
- 3 The plan for a new airport to be built outside London is bad news if you live nearby.
- 4 If I was the President of the United States, I would order its nuclear weapons to be destroyed.
- 5 If you are in the south of Spain next week, there is a good chance of seeing a total eclipse of the sun.

- 84.4 Complete the sentences in any appropriate way, or use the notes for ideas. (E)

(agree – everything Julie said) (I – say – shocking) (it – reverse – wall)
 (try – imagine – contained) (overcome – great weariness)

- 1 My father raised his eyebrows as if I had said something shocking.
- 2 He folded his arms on the table and laid his head on them, as if...
- 3 She stared hard at the parcel as if...
- 4 He nodded his head slowly as if...
- 5 The back of the car looked as if...

If I were you...; imagine he were to win

A

In unreal conditional sentences (see GR note above M9) we can use were after any subject in the if-clause, including singular first and third person subjects (e.g. I/she/he/it). This use of were is sometimes called the past subjunctive, and is generally preferred only in formal contexts. Note that although the verb has a past form, reference is to the imagined present or future:

- If your mother were here, I'm sure she wouldn't let you eat all those chocolates.
- We would not be able to provide after-school sports if it were not for dedicated teachers like Mr Morgan.

Was can be used instead of were with the same meaning ('If your mother was here...', etc.).

However, we prefer were rather than was when we give advice with If I were you...:

- If I were you, I'd take it back to the shop. It's got a hole in it. (rather than If I was you...)

B

Were is used in this way in other patterns when we talk about imaginary situations –

(i) when we use were + subject + to-infinitive or were + subject as a more formal alternative to if + subject + was/were (see also Unit 84B):

- Were the election to be held today, the Liberals would win easily. (or If the election was/were held today...)
- Were I not in my 70s and rather unfit, I might consider taking up squash. (or If I wasn't/weren't in my 70s and rather unfit...)

(ii) after wish:

- I enjoy my job enormously, but I wish it were closer to home. (or ...I wish it was...)
- Of course I'm pleased that James has been given the award. I only wish he weren't so boastful about it. (or ...I only wish he wasn't...)

(iii) after if only when we express our regret that a situation isn't different:

- 'If your job is so bad, why don't you leave?' 'If only it were that simple.' (or If only it was/wasn't...)
- I'd really like to do accounting. If only I weren't so poor at maths. (or If only I wasn't...)

(iv) after would ('d) rather and would ('d) sooner when we talk about preferences:

- I feel embarrassed about what happened and would rather the event were forgotten. (or ...was forgotten.)
- 'I've arranged a meeting for the end of July.' 'I'd sooner it were earlier, if possible. (or ...it was earlier.)

(v) in sentences or clauses beginning with suppose, supposing and imagine:

- Suppose I were to lower the price by £100. Would you consider buying the car then? (or Suppose I was to lower...)
- I know it looks rather dirty now, but imagine the house were (to be) repainted. It would look a lot more attractive. (or ...imagine the house was (to be) repainted.)

And in comparisons we can use were –

(vi) after as if and as though (see Unit 84E) and even if:

- I remember stepping off the boat in New York as if it were yesterday.
- Despite losing the election, she continues to act as though she were prime minister.
- It would be too late to start work on the building this year even if it were possible to find the money for it.

C

We can use the phrase as it were to show that we realise that something we have said may not precisely express what we mean. We often do this to be humorous or to sound less definite:

- To dismantle the machine you begin by holding it by its ears, as it were, these handles at the sides, and pulling the front towards you.
- Becky runs the office and Sue is her apprentice, as it were. (= Sue is not really her apprentice, but is learning from Becky as an apprentice might do)

- 1 You could see tiredness descending upon her as her eyes began to close.
2 The virus hides behind healthy cells to prevent it being attacked.
3 After his long serious illness, Frank returned from the grave to play an important part in the performance.

If...not and unless; if and whether; etc.If...not and unless*A

Unless is used in conditional sentences with the meaning ‘except if’:

- You can’t travel on this train unless you have a reservation.

With unless we use present tenses when we talk about the future:

- Unless it rains, I’ll pick you up at 6.00. (not Unless it will rain...)

B

In real conditional sentences, we can often use either unless or if...not with a similar meaning:

- Unless the theatre is able to raise £100,000, it will have to close. (or If the theatre isn’t able to...; implies ‘it will have to close only if it can’t raise the money’)

However, we use if...not but not unless –

★ when we say in the main clause that an event or action in the if-clause is unexpected:

- I’ll be amazed if Christie doesn’t win.

★ usually in questions:

- If you don’t pass the test, what will you do?

★ when the ‘only if’ implication does not apply:

- If it wasn’t the best performance of Hamlet I’ve seen, it was certainly the strangest.

We usually use if...not rather than unless in unreal conditional sentences:

- If I weren’t so tired, I’d give you a hand.

However, unless can be used in unreal conditional sentences when the main clause is negative:

- She wouldn’t have gone to university unless her parents had insisted.

We use unless but not if...not –

★ when we introduce an afterthought:

- We can leave now – unless you’d rather wait for Jack, of course.

★ when a relative clause refers back to a positive phrase:

- We can walk to the cinema unless it’s raining, in which case we’ll get a taxi.

If and whetherC

We can use if or whether to say that two possibilities have been talked or thought about, or to say that people are not sure about something:

- They couldn’t decide if/whether it was worth re-sitting the exam.

- Do you know if/whether Ben’s at home?

Whether can usually be followed immediately by or not. Compare:

- I didn’t know if Tom was coming or not. (not ...if or not Tom was coming.) and

- I didn’t know whether or not Tom was coming. (or ...whether Tom was coming or not...)

D

We use whether rather than if –

★ after a preposition (although if is sometimes used informally) and before a to-infinitive:

- We argued about whether butter or margarine was better for you. (informally ...if...)
- I couldn’t decide whether to buy apples or bananas.

★ in the pattern noun/adjective + as to whether to mean ‘about’ or ‘concerning’:

- There was some disagreement as to whether he was eligible to play for France.

Other nouns and adjectives used in this pattern include conflict, confusion, debate, discussion, doubt, question, speculation, uncertainty; concerned, indifferent, uncertain, undecided, unsure.

and we prefer whether rather than if –

★ after the verbs advise, choose, consider, depend on, discuss, talk about, and think about:

- You should consider whether the car you are interested in is good value.

★ in a clause acting as a subject or complement:

- Whether the minister will quit over the issue remains to be seen.

- The first issue is whether he knew he was committing a crime.

| 6 You are only entitled to state benefit... | f ...if you have been unemployed for six months. |

Connecting ideas in a sentence and between sentences

A

Some words and phrases (sentence connectors) are used to connect one sentence with a previous sentence or sentences. Often (but not always) these go at the beginning of the sentence:

- There was no heating in the building. As a result, the workers had to be sent home. (or The workers had to be sent home as a result.)

Other words and phrases (conjunctions) are used to connect clauses within a single sentence:

- While I was waiting, I read a magazine.
- I'll be wearing a red jumper so that you can see me easily.

We can't use a comma to connect ideas joined by a sentence connector. However, these words and phrases can be used to connect two clauses in one sentence if the clauses are joined with and, but, or, so, or a semi-colon (;), colon (:), or dash (-):

- The building was extremely well constructed and, as a result, difficult to demolish.
- You could fly via Singapore; however, this isn't the only way.

| type of connection | example sentence connectors | example conjunctions |
|--|---|---|
| comparing, contrasting, and indicating that a situation (in the main clause) is unexpected | after all, all the same, alternatively, anyway, by contrast, even so, however (but see D), in any case, in contrast, instead, nevertheless, on the contrary, on the other hand | although, even though, though, whereas, while, yet |
| reasons and results | as a consequence, as a result, consequently, for one thing, so; hence, in consequence, therefore, thus (the last four are rather formal) | as, because, for, in that, since, insofar as, so, so that |
| adding information | above all, after all, also, besides, furthermore, in addition, likewise, moreover, similarly, what's more; as well, too (the last two are not used at the beginning of a sentence) | |
| condition | if not, if so, otherwise | as long as, assuming (that), if, on condition that, provided (that), so long as, supposing (that), unless |
| time: one event at the same time as another | at that time, at the same time, meanwhile | as, when, whenever, while |
| time: one event before or after another | after, after that, afterwards, before, before that, earlier, later, previously, soon, subsequently, then | after, as soon as, before, since, until |

Note that after, before and so can be both connectors and conjunctions.

B

Even though is a conjunction used to say that a fact doesn't make the rest of the sentence untrue (see also Unit 82B). It connects ideas within a sentence:

- Even though it was midday, I put on the light.

Even so is a sentence connector used to introduce a fact that is surprising in the context of what was just said. It connects ideas between sentences:

- It was midday. Even so, I put on the light.

C

However is often used as a sentence connector, but it can also be used – ★ as an adverb when it is followed by an adjective, adverb, or much/many:

- We just don't have the money to do the work, however necessary you think it is.

★ as a conjunction when it means 'in whatever way':

- However she held the mirror, she couldn't see the back of her neck.

- 87.1 Choose items from (i) and from (ii) to complete these sentences in an appropriate way. Note the punctuation at the ends of the sentences and phrases already given. (A & B)

| (i) | (ii) | | |

- 3, it is important to spend some time apart.
- 4 Professor Malcolm is always happy to spend time with his students,

Prepositions of position and movement

A

Across, over

We can use across or over to talk about a position on the other side of, or moving to the other side of a road, bridge, border, river, etc.:

- Mike lives in the house across/over the road from ours.
- The truck came towards them across/over the bridge.
- Once she was across/over the border, she knew she would be safe.

We use over rather than across when we talk about reaching the other side of something that is high, or higher than it is wide. Compare:

- He jumped over the fence into the garden. and He jumped across the stream.

When we are talking about something we think of as a flat surface, or an area such as a country or sea, we prefer across rather than over:

- He suddenly saw Sue across the room. The figures moved rapidly across the screen.
- The programme was broadcast across Australia.

We prefer all over rather than all across to mean ‘to or in many different parts of an area’. However, we commonly use across, or right across for emphasis:

- The disease has now spread all over the world. (or ... (right) across the world.)

B

Along, through

When we talk about following a line of some kind (a road, a river, etc.), we use along:

- They walked along the footpath until they came to a small bridge.

We use through to emphasise that we are talking about movement in a three dimensional space, with things all around, rather than a two dimensional space, a flat surface or area:

- He pushed his way through the crowd of people to get to her.

Through often suggests movement from one side or end of the space to the other. Compare:

- She walked through the forest to get to her grandmother’s house. and
- She spent a lot of her free time walking in the forest.

Above, over; below, under; beneath, underneath; throughout

We can use either above or over when we say that one thing is at a higher level than another:

- Above/Over the door was a sign saying, ‘Mind your head’.

However, we prefer above, when one thing is not directly over the other. Compare:

- They lived in a village in the mountains above the lake. (not directly over) and
- The bird hovered just a few metres above/over the lake. (directly over)

We use over, not above, when something covers something else and touches it:

- She put a quilt over the bed.

and usually when we are talking about horizontal movement at a higher level than something:

- I saw the helicopter fly out over the water, near the fishing boat.

Below is the opposite of above; under is the opposite of over. The differences in the uses of below and under are similar to those between above and over (see above):

- It’s hard to believe that there is a railway line below/under the building. (at a lower level)
- Her head was below the level of the table so nobody noticed her. (not directly under)
- She hid the presents under a blanket. (the blanket covers and touches the presents)
- Esther ran under the bridge. (horizontal movement at a lower level)

We can use underneath as an alternative to under as a preposition of place. Beneath is sometimes used as a more formal alternative to under or below.

We can use throughout to emphasise that something is in every part of a place (see also Unit 90A):

- The flower is found throughout the island. The same laws apply throughout Europe.

- 88.1 Complete the sentences with across or over, whichever is correct or more likely. If both are possible, write across/over. (A)

| a in addition to | b successfully completed |

| e cruel or unfair | f with some people's disapproval |
| g extreme behaviour; indicating disapproval | |

Between and among

A

As prepositions of place we use between with two or more people or things that we see as individual or separate, and we use among when we see the people or things as part of a group or mass. Among is only used with three or more people or things:

- She held the diamond between her thumb and forefinger.
- Zimbabwe is situated between Zambia to the north, Mozambique to the east, Botswana to the west, and South Africa to the south.
- He stood among all his friends in the room and felt very happy.
- She eventually found her passport among the clothes in the drawer.

Note that amongst is sometimes used instead of among, but in more literary contexts.

B

Between and among are not only used as prepositions of place. For example, we can use either to talk about something divided or shared between people:

- The money is to be divided between/among the towns in the area.
- The prize will be shared between/among the first six finishers in the race.

We also use between –

- ★ to talk about comparisons and relationships (e.g. with the words association, balance, comparison, connection, contrast, correlation, difference, distinction, link, relationship):

 - There should be a better balance on the committee between the various ethnic groups.
 - They are wrong to claim that there is a link between unemployment and crime.

- ★ to say that people or things share an amount of something:

 - Between them, Ray and Ingrid must earn about £100,000 a year.
 - Last year the three companies built 30,000 houses between them.

We also use among –

- ★ when we mean ‘existing or happening in a particular group’:

 - Their music is still very popular among young teenagers.

- ★ when we mean ‘included in a particular group’:

 - They are among the best hockey players in the world.
 - Among the capital cities of South America, Quito is the second highest.

89.3 Kathy and her friend Jo recently travelled around Europe. Here is what Kathy wrote in a letter home from Rome. Fill in the gaps with between or among. (A & B)

Hello Mum and Dad!

Rome must be (1) the most fascinating cities in the world. Yesterday we visited, (2) other places, the Foro Romano - the centre of ancient Rome - and the Vatican. There is such an incredible contrast (3) the old parts of the city built up to 2000 years ago and the more recent parts. In the Vatican we climbed the long stairs to the top of St Peter's church. The view from the top must be (4) the most incredible over any city in the world. But (5) you and me, I'm a bit scared of heights and was glad to get back to ground level. Later we went to the Pantheon, an ancient Roman temple, which is (6) the Vatican and the Foro Romano. The Italian king Umberto I and the artist Raphael are (7) the people buried there. In the evening we had a bit of an argument (8) us over where we should eat - Jo wanted pizza, but I wanted to try some of the special local food. Eventually we found a place that did excellent pasta, (9) other things. The only problem then was choosing (10) the many different types!

Prepositions of time

During, in, over, throughout

A

We use during or in to talk about a period of time within which an event or activity occurs. The activity may continue for the whole of the period of time:

- I stayed at home during the summer. (or ...in the summer.)
 - The population of the city has actually fallen during the last decade. (or ...in the last...)
- or the event may happen at some time, or be repeated a number of times, in the period of time:
- We went to France during the summer. (or ...in the summer.)
 - He suffered a number of injuries during his career as a footballer. (or ...in his career...)

We use during, rather than in, to mean 'at some time in the period of' before nouns such as illness, holiday, meal, stay, treatment, and visit, when we refer to an event which lasts some time:

- The President made the speech during a visit to Madrid.

and also with the phrase the whole (of), emphasising duration of an entire period:

- No-one was allowed to leave the ship during the whole of its time in port.

We can use throughout to emphasise that something happens over the whole of a period of time:

- We had enough firewood to keep us warm throughout the winter. (or ...warm during/ through the winter.)

B

We can use over or during when we talk about something that goes on for a length of time within a period of time, either for some of that period or for the whole of it:

- Weather conditions have been improving over/ during the past few days.
- I fell, banged my head, and can't remember anything about what happened over/ during the next hour or so.

However, if we talk about a short event that happens within a period of time, we prefer during:

- She sneezed during* the performance. (= on one or a few occasions; not ...over the performance.)
- During a pause in the conversation, she left the room. (not Over a pause...)

Note that we can use throughout to mean that short events happen continuously within a period of time:

- She sneezed throughout* the performance.

C

Until, by, up to

There are a number of ways of saying when something that has continued for some time stops –

★ We use until to say that something continued or will continue to a particular time, and by to say that something happened or will happen either before a particular time or at that time at the latest. Compare:

- We have to be at home until 2.30. (We must not leave home before 2.30) and
- We have to be at home by 2.30. (We must arrive home either before or at 2.30)

Note that till can be used instead of until. It is particularly common in conversation, but rarely found in formal writing.

★ In informal contexts we can use up to or up till instead of until. We commonly use up to/till with now and with then:

- I've just bought a computer. I've always used a typewriter up to now. (or ...up till now...)
- The roadworks are likely to go on up to the end of May. (or ...up till the end...)

★ We can use until now to talk about a situation that will not continue beyond now:

- Supermarkets say that until now there has been little consumer interest in buying organic produce. (The situation has changed or is going to change)

Notice, however, that we don't use until now for a situation that will or may continue into the future. Instead we can use so far or, in formal contexts, to date:

- It was certainly the best match of the football season so far.
- When the contract is signed it will be the building company's biggest order to date.

- 90.1 In which of the sentences can the word in brackets replace during? Write ✓ if it can replace it and ✗ if it can't. (A & B)

- 3 He twisted his ankle during the match and had to retire injured. (over)

- 5 The meeting will be some time during January. (over)
- 6 She sang in a choir during her childhood. (throughout)
- 7 People no longer expect to be employed in the same place during the whole of their working lives. (in)
- 8 Do you think standards of numeracy have fallen during the last twenty years? (over)
- 9 This is one of the pieces we heard during the concert last night. (in)
- 10 Jean will have to sleep in the spare room during her stay with us. (in)

- 14 He had to put up with great pain during his treatment for a heart condition. (in)
- 15 My stomach ache got steadily worse during the evening. (over)

Talking about exceptions

A

We use except or except for to introduce the only thing or person that a statement does not include:

- The price of the holiday includes all meals except (for) lunch.
- Everyone seemed to have been invited except (for) Mrs Woodford and me.
- I had no money to give him except (for) the few coins in my pocket.

We use except, not except for, with to-infinitives, and that-clauses:

- I rarely need to go into the city centre except to do some shopping.
- They look just like the real thing, except that they're made of plastic.

We usually use except before prepositions, bare infinitives, and that-clauses including where the word that is left out (see Unit 53). However, informally except for is sometimes also used, although this is grammatically incorrect:

- There is likely to be rain everywhere today except in Wales.
- There is nothing more the doctor can do except keep an eye on him.
- They look just like the real thing, except (that) they're made of plastic.

We can use except for, but not except, with the meaning 'but for' (see C below).

B

We use except (for) to mean that something is not included in a particular statement, but we use besides to mean 'as well as' or 'in addition to'. Compare:

- I don't enjoy watching any sports except (for) cricket. (= I enjoy only cricket) and
- Besides cricket, I enjoy watching football and basketball. (= I enjoy three sports)
- I haven't read anything by her, except (for) one of her short stories. and
- Besides her novels and poems, she published a number of short stories.

Apart from can be used with the same meanings as both except (for) and besides:

- I don't enjoy watching any sports apart from cricket. (= except for)
- Apart from cricket, I enjoy watching football and basketball. (= besides; as well as)

C

We can use but with a similar meaning to except (for), particularly after negative words such as no, nobody, and nothing:

- Immediately after the operation he could see nothing but/except (for)/apart from vague shadows.
- There was no way out but/except/apart from upwards, towards the light.

But for has a different meaning from except for. We use but for to say what would or might have happened if the thing introduced by but for had not happened:

- The country would now be self-sufficient in food but for the drought last year. (= if there hadn't been the drought...)
- But for the leg injury he suffered last year, he would probably have been picked for the national team by now. (= if he hadn't injured his leg...)

However, some people use except for in the same way as but for, particularly in informal spoken English:

- I'd have got there on time except for the taxi being late. (or ...but for the taxi being late.)
- Except for the problems with my computer, I would have got the book finished weeks ago. (or But for the problems with my computer...)

D

We can use excepted, apart or aside after mentioning a person or thing to say that they are not included in a statement that we make:

- It has been, 1984 excepted/apart/aside, the hottest July for the last 100 years.
- Tom had difficulties with question two. This excepted/apart/aside, he did very well in the exam.

91.1 Complete the sentences with except or except for. Indicate where both are possible. (A)

Prepositions after nouns

A

Many nouns are followed by the same prepositions as their related adjective or verb. Compare:

- Are you satisfied with the way that the business is being run? and
- The shareholders have expressed satisfaction with the way the business is being run.

A few nouns are followed by different prepositions. Compare:

- They became fond of each other at school. and
- Their fondness for each other grew and many years later they married.

Other nouns like this and their corresponding adjective or verb are proud of/pride in, ashamed of/shame about/at.

Some nouns take a preposition where their related verb does not. Compare:

- They're going to ban smoking in restaurants. and
- I would support a ban on smoking in restaurants.

Other nouns like this include admiration for, amazement at, discussion about/on, improvement in, influence on, interview with, lack of. Note that many other nouns are commonly followed by of-phrases which indicate possession, a property, or classify the noun by describing what it relates to. Compare:

- He described the conductor as moving his arms like a windmill. and
- His description of the conductor was very funny.

B

Some nouns can be followed by of + -ing but not usually a to-infinitive:

- He's got into the habit of biting his nails when he's nervous.

Other nouns like this include cost, effect, fear, likelihood, possibility, probability, problem, prospect, risk, sign.

Some nouns can be followed by a to-infinitive but not usually of + -ing:

- His unhappy childhood explains his reluctance to talk about his parents.

Other nouns like this include ability, attempt, concern, decision, desire, determination, failure, inability, permission, proposal, reason, refusal, (un)willingness. Note that many of these nouns can also be used with other prepositions + ing (e.g. attempt at -ing, reason for -ing, etc.).

C

Some nouns can sometimes be followed either by of + -ing or a to-infinitive with a similar meaning, usually after the:

- Do staff have the opportunity of taking unpaid leave? (or ...the opportunity to take...)
- The aim of providing clean drinking water has been achieved. (or The aim to provide...)

Other nouns like this include ambition, idea, option, plan.

However, some nouns, such as chance, sense and way, have more than one meaning and are followed either by of + -ing or a to-infinitive depending on which meaning is used. Compare:

- What's the chance of throwing five heads when you throw a coin five times?
(= likelihood; not ...chance to throw...) and
- Will you get the chance to visit Miki in Japan? (= opportunity; not ...of visiting...)
- He didn't have the sense to move away from the puddle of water as the bus went past.

- I've got a way of cooking rice perfectly every time. (= method; or ...way to cook...) and
- She has a really funny way of speaking. (= manner; not ...way to speak)

Notice also that of + -ing usually follows no/every/the sole/the slightest/(not) any/with the + intention, but that we can use either of + -ing or a to-infinitive in most other cases. Compare:

- I have no intention of lending Dan any more money. (not ...no intention to lend...) and
- He announced his intention to stand in the election. (or ...intention of standing...)

Two- and three-word verbs: word order

A

The meaning of some verbs commonly used with a particular preposition or adverb (or particle) is often different from the meaning of their separate parts. We can call these two-word verbs:

- The company's debts were mounting up. (= increasing)
- I'll quickly go over the main points of the report again. (= summarise)
- She had to let her dress out because she'd put on weight. (= make it larger)

Other three-word verbs are commonly used with an adverb + preposition.

- Do you think he's really likely to go through with his threat? (= do it)
- The team has failed to live up to earlier expectations. (= achieve what was expected)

These two- and three-word verbs are sometimes also called phrasal verbs.

B

Many two-word verbs are usually intransitive (see Glossary):

- He grew up on a farm.
 - When she came to she found herself in hospital.
- Other verbs like this include crop up, fall through, get up, move off, shop around, splash out.

However, some two-word verbs can be used transitively or intransitively with the same meaning (e.g. answer back, call back, clear away, cover up, help out, take over, tidy away, wash up):

- I'll call back later.
- I'll call you back when I get home.

and other two-word verbs can be used transitively or intransitively with a different meaning (e.g. break in, cut out, hold out, look out, look up, pick up, split up, turn in, wind up):

- The engine cut out and the car stopped.
- I cut the picture out of the magazine

C

With many transitive two-word verbs, the object can come before or after the verb:

- I want to try out the local food. (or ...try the local food out.)

However, if the object is a pronoun it must come between the verb and the adverb:

I won't be able to go to the party. You'll have to count me out. (not ...count out me.) and we prefer to put the object after the adverb when the object is long. Compare:

- I had to clean the kitchen up. (or ...clean up the kitchen.) and

- I had to clean up the mess in the kitchen. (rather than ...clean the mess in the kitchen up.)

Other verbs like this include bring about, drink up, gather up, get down, leave out, make up, mess up, shoot down, sort out, throw away, try out, use up.

D

With some transitive two-word verbs, the object comes between the verb and the adverb:

- I just couldn't tell the twins apart. (not ...tell apart the twins)

Other verbs like this include catch out, hear out, order about, pull to, push to, shut up, stand up.

E

With some transitive two-word verbs, the object follows the preposition:

- She takes after her mother.

Other verbs like this include account for, act on, approve of, call on, check into, flick through, look after, provide for, result from, run into, take against.

F

With most three-word verbs, the object goes after the preposition:

- The government is to cut back on spending on the armed forces.
- He really looks up to his older brother.

Other verbs like this include come in for, come up against, look down on, put up with.

However, a few three-word verbs usually have the object immediately after the verb. A second noun or noun phrase goes after the preposition:

- She tried to talk me out of the plan. (= persuaded me not to do it)

Other verbs like this include do out of, help on with, let in on, put down as, put up to, take up on

94.1 If possible or necessary, add an appropriate noun or pronoun in the space. (B)

- 1 The same problem kept cropping up, even though I thought I'd fixed it.
- 2 I'm not sure how you spell it. I'll look up in the dictionary.
- 3 I'm busy at the moment, but I can help out this evening.
- 4 If you tidy away, I'll do the cleaning.
- 5 The deal fell through because we couldn't agree a price.

94.2 Show where the word or phrase in brackets should go in each sentence with a ✓. If it is possible to put it in more than one place, mark these two possibilities. (C)

- 1 The house is really untidy, but I haven't got time to sort out now.
(it)
- 2 We've introduced a training scheme to bring about (some improvement)
- 3 The strike by airline pilots messed up (the holiday I'd spent months planning)

- 5 I used up to buy the car. (all my savings)
- 6 'I must get my shoes repaired again.' 'But they're so old – why don't you just throw away ? (them)

94.3 Choose a two-word verb from (i) and a noun phrase from (ii) to complete each sentence. If two word orders are possible, give them both. (C & D)

| (i) | (ii) |
|----------------------|-------------------------------|
| get down push-to- | leave out hear out |
| make up shut up | the general ideas her name |

- 1 It's freezing in here. Can you push the window to?
- 2 When she filled the form in she , so they sent it back to her.
- 3 The alarm started when I opened the car door, and now I can't
- 4 There were so many desserts on the menu, I couldn't
- 5 I , but the lecturer spoke so quickly I couldn't follow the details.
- 6 I know you suspect me of cheating, but you've got to give me a chance to explain myself. At least before making up your mind.

94.4 If necessary, correct the word order or give a more likely word order in these sentences. If they are already correct, write ✓. (D, E & F)

- 1 He was always ordering about everyone, getting them to do his work for him.
- 2 It is assumed that parents will provide their children for until they are 18.
- 3 She wouldn't let in me on the secret, however hard I tried to persuade her.

- 7 The government has come in for a lot of criticism over its decision to increase spending on arms.
- 8 My parents didn't approve of our engagement.
- 9 I had always looked Mr Brooks up to, so I was shocked to discover what he had done.

There is, there was, etc.

A

When we introduce a new person or thing into what we are saying – to say that this person or thing exists, happens, or is to be found in a particular place – we can use a sentence beginning There + be. In these cases, there is not stressed:

- There was a loud bang from upstairs. (not A loud bang was from upstairs.)
- There's nothing to eat. (not Nothing is to eat.)

We invert this pattern in questions to ask about the existence etc. of people and things:

- Is there anybody in here?

We can also use there with auxiliary and modal verbs with be (e.g. has been, can be):

- There must be some way of contacting her.

with verbs and to be (e.g. used to be, is supposed to be, tends to be, appears to be, seems to be):

- There appears to be a major disagreement between the two presidents.

and some other verbs that indicate existence (e.g. arise, emerge, exist, remain):

- During the 1990s there arose a demand for organic food.

Because we use there in this way to introduce topics, the noun after there + be often has an indefinite or non-specific meaning. So we often use a/an, zero article, any(one) (+ noun), or some(thing), no(body), etc. rather than the, this, my, your (+ noun), or a name, which give the noun a more definite or specific meaning. Compare:

- There's nobody here. There was something strange about her. and
- The cat was in the kitchen. (more usual than There was the cat in the kitchen.; but compare There was a cat in the kitchen.)
- Sam is waiting for me outside. (more usual than There is Sam waiting for me outside.)

When we use there + be + the, this is often done to show a change of topic. Choosing the, that, etc. + noun indicates that we think the topic is already known to the listener or reader:

- ...And then there is the question of who is going to pay.

B

If the noun after be is singular or uncountable, the verb is singular; if the noun is plural, the verb is plural:

- There is a very good reason for my decision.
- There were too many people trying to get into the football stadium.

However, in informal speech we sometimes use there's before a plural noun:

- 'Anything to eat?' 'Well, there's some apples on the table.'

If the noun phrase consists of two or more nouns in a list, we use a singular verb if the first noun is singular or uncountable, and a plural verb if the first noun is plural:

- When I opened the fridge there was only a bottle of milk, some eggs, and butter.
- When I opened the fridge there were only some eggs, a bottle of milk, and butter.

C

There + be is also used with nouns followed by a that-, wh-, to-infinitive or -ing clause:

- Is there a chance (that) Kim could arrive this afternoon?
- There is no reason (why) I can't see you tomorrow.
- There is a small stream which/that runs at the bottom of the garden.
- There was an attempt to resolve the dispute at the factory.
- There was a taxi waiting outside the hotel.

We don't usually leave out a relative pronoun when it is a subject of the following finite verb (e.g. There is a small stream which/that runs...) except in very informal speech (e.g. There was a man (who) phoned about half eleven.), but we can leave out a relative pronoun when it is the object of the following finite verb (e.g. There is a small stream (that) the children play in.).

D

In formal English we can use a clause with there being to introduce a reason for something:

- There being no evidence against him, he was released. (= Because there was no evidence...)
- There being no reports of adverse reactions, the drug is to be sold more widely.

95.1 Rewrite these sentences using there only if the answer is likely. Consider why some answers are not likely. (A)

- 1 Coffee was spilt on the table. There was coffee spilt on the table.
- 2 Your dinner is in the oven.
- 3 Is something bothering you?
- 4 A barrier was across the road.
- 5 The doctor is free to see you now.
- 6 My son is at university.
- 7 No petrol was available anywhere in the city.
- 8 Can anyone help me?
- 9 You can follow some general rules.

95.2 The sentences in this exercise are all taken from written English. Which is correct or more likely in the space – is or are? (B)

- 1 There two pubs and a church on the village green.
- 2 There other possible locations for the car park, but the area near the station is preferred.
- 3 There no direct rail link between the cities.
- 4 There further rain and strong winds forecast for the next three days.
- 5 There chocolate bars, crisps, and a bottle of lemonade in the bag if you get hungry.
- 6 There substantial evidence to suggest that the Robinsons lied to the police.
- 7 There no easy answers to the problem of global warming.
- 8 There a shower, television, and two single beds in each room.

95.3 Match the sentence halves. Join them with an appropriate relative pronoun (that, which, or who). Write the relative pronoun in brackets if it can be left out. (C & Unit 53)

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1 There were a lot of people at the party | a an election will be held next month. |
| 2 There's a cake in the kitchen | b are harder working than Julie. |

| 6 There are still some old houses in the village | f remember the First World War. |
| 7 There was absolutely nothing | g don't have electricity. |
| 8 There are few people in the company | h Thomas would get the job. |
- 1 + e There were a lot of people at the party who/that hadn't been invited.

95.4 Write new sentences with similar meanings beginning There being.... (D)

- 1 As there was no food in the house, they went to a local restaurant.
There being no food in the house, they went to a local restaurant.

- 2 There was no further business, so the meeting closed at 12.30.

- 3 The patients were sent home because there was no doctor available.

-
- 4 Because the facilities were inadequate at the hotel, the conference was relocated to a nearby university.

It... (1)

A

We can use an introductory it at the beginning of a sentence –

- ☆ to place long or grammatically complex sentence elements at the end (the usual place for them in English). Compare:
 - To drive without a licence* is illegal. and It is illegal to drive without a licence.
- ☆ to focus attention on a sentence element by placing this element at the end (the usual place for new or important information in English). Compare:
 - That she wasn't hurt* is a miracle. and It's a miracle that she wasn't hurt.

Introductory it is commonly used when the subject is a to-infinitive or that-clause (as in the examples above), and also when the subject is a wh- or -ing clause (see also Unit 25):

- It is clear why Don decided to leave Spain. It is useless asking Sue to help.

B

We often use introductory it with be + adjective/noun (as in the examples above), but other patterns with an introductory it are possible. Here are some common examples –

☆ it + verb + to-infinitive clause

- 'I've got a terrible headache.' It helps to lie down.

- If you want someone to help you, it doesn't do to annoy them just before you ask. ('(not do' = (not) advisable, acceptable or enough)

Other verbs used in this pattern are hurt and pay (= give an advantage or benefit).

☆ it + verb + object + to-infinitive clause

- It shocked him to see her looking so ill. It annoys me to hear James swear like that.

- It costs a fortune to go to the opera. It means a lot to get a place at university.

Most of the verbs used in this pattern are to do with feelings, and include:

amaze, annoy, astonish, concern, frighten, hurt, scare, shock, surprise, upset, worry.

After these verbs the object usually refers to a person.

We can also use it + take + object + to-infinitive clause when we say what is or was needed in a particular activity; for example, the time, resources or characteristics needed. Compare:

- It took (them) a week to mend our roof. and To mend our roof took (them) a week.

- It takes a lot of effort to play the flute. and To play the flute takes a lot of effort.

☆ it + verb + that-clause

- It seems that she has lost her memory. (not That she has lost her memory seems.)

- During the trial it emerged that Jacks had been convicted of burglary before. (not ...that Jacks had been convicted of burglary before emerged.)

Other verbs used in this pattern include appear, come about, follow, happen, transpire.

Note that alternatives with the that-clause in initial position are not possible.

☆ it + verb + object + that-clause

- It suddenly hit me that Jane wanted to borrow money. (less likely is ...that Jane wanted to borrow money suddenly hit me.)

- When Bond saw Vanya taking photographs of the plane, it dawned on him that she was a spy. (less likely is...that she was a spy dawned on him.)

The object usually refers to a person. Other verbs used in this pattern include those in the box above and also strike (= occur to) and turn out.

C

We don't usually use an it... pattern as an alternative to a noun as subject:

- Their success was unexpected. (not It was unexpected their success.)

However, in informal contexts, particularly in speech, this is quite common in order to give special emphasis to the information immediately following it...:

- It tastes really good, this new ice cream.

and also to place a longer noun phrase at the end in order to focus attention on it:

- It's ridiculous, all the bureaucracy involved in running a school these days.

96.1 Rewrite these sentences beginning It.... Rewrite them only if the It... sentence would be appropriate in written English; otherwise write X and consider why an It... sentence would be inappropriate. (A & C)

- 1 That we continue to monitor the situation is important.
It is important that we continue to monitor the situation.
- 2 How he stared straight at me was unsettling.
- 3 Andrew's excellent exam result was surprising.
- 4 To be a qualified driver is an advantage in the job.
- 5 Her proposal is quite radical.
- 6 To put carpet on walls is highly unusual.
- 7 John's new car is a Ferrari.
- 8 Finding a good plumber is hard these days.

96.2 Complete the sentences using it... followed by a verb from (i) and an expanded form of the notes in (ii). Include an appropriate object where necessary. (B)

| (i) | (ii) |
|------------|-------------------------------------|
| appear- | astonish |
| not bother | concern |
| hurt | not do |
| pay | strike |
| upset | scare |
| | pedal/ bicycle |
| | see/ carrying knives |
| | criticise/ too much |
| | everyone/ see in |
| | he/ jealous |
| | seriously injured/ back |
| | plan your journey ahead |
| | hadn't even told/ when/ going away |
| | discover/ also/ successful novelist |
| | hear/ offended |

- 1 When Kate fell heavily and lay completely still,
it appeared that she had seriously injured her back.

- 8 Children need a lot of praise and...
- 9 The boys walked towards me in a threatening way, and...
- 10 You can save money by booking tickets in advance, so...

96.3 What personal or physical characteristics are needed to...? (Use It takes... in your answers.) (B)

- 1 play a musical instrument well
It takes a lot of determination to play a musical instrument well.
- 2 build your own house
- 3 make a speech in front of a group of strangers
- 4 explain the rules of cricket to someone who doesn't know the game

Now suggest completions for these sentences.

- 5 It takes bravery...
- 6 It takes a lot of organisation to...
- 7 It takes a great deal of time...

It... (2)

A

We can use a pattern with it... as the object of a verb where it refers forward to a clause. It can sometimes be followed directly by a that-, if- or when-clause after can't bear, hate, like, love, resent and can't stand, and by an if- or when-clause after dislike, enjoy, prefer and understand:

- I hate it that you can swim so well and I can't. (not I hate that you can swim...)
- We always enjoy it when they stay with us. (not We always enjoy when they...)

Some verbs, including accept, admit, deny, guarantee, and mention, can be followed by it and a that-clause, particularly in spoken English, or directly by a that-clause without it:

- You've just got to accept (it) that Jim's gone and won't be coming back.

Notice that many other verbs that can be followed by a that-clause or wh-clause are not used with it... in this way, including argue, discover, emphasise, notice, predict, remember:

- I can't remember when I last saw her. (not ...remember it when...)

B

With other verbs used to indicate how we see a particular event or situation, it is followed first by an adjective or noun phrase and then a that-clause, to-infinitive clause, or clause beginning when. Verbs commonly used in this way include believe, consider, feel, find (= discover something from experience), think:

- Officials have said they believe it unlikely that any lasting damage to the environment has been done. (or ...they believe it is unlikely that...; not ...they believe unlikely that...)
- I thought it a waste of money to throw away so much food. (or I thought it was a waste of money to...; not I thought a waste of money to throw away...)

When we use leave and owe (= have a responsibility to) with it... we can use to somebody + to-infinitive after it:

- Don't bother to arrange anything. Just leave it to me to sort out.
- She owed it to her parents to do well at college.

C

With the verbs accept, regard, see, take (= interpret something in a particular way), or view we use it + as + noun (or adjective) + clause:

- We see it as an insult to have received no reply to our letter.
- I take it as encouraging when students attend all my lectures.

D

It is/was no... vs There is/was no...

- There's no question of agreeing to his demands.

The sentences with It is/was no... have alternatives in which the that-, -ing or to-infinitive clause is placed at the front, but the sentences with There is/was no... do not. Compare:

- It's no secret that he wants a new job. (or That he wants a new job is no secret.) and
- There's no denying that he's a very good footballer. (but not That he's a very good footballer is no denying.)

Focusing: it-clauses and what-clauses

Focusing with it-clauses

A

We can use an it-clause with be to focus attention on the information that immediately follows it + (be). A sentence in which emphasis is given using this pattern is sometimes called a cleft sentence. The clause after the it-clause (usually a that-clause) contains information that is already known or considered to be less important:

- ‘Helen bought the car from Tom.’ ‘No, it was Tom that bought the car from Helen.’
- He already plays for the national side, and it was only last year that he turned professional.
- I don’t mind her criticising me, but it’s how she does it that I object to.
- It was to show her how much I cared for her that I bought her the necklace.

We sometimes use which or who instead of that; when and where can also be used, but usually only in informal English; and note that how or why can’t replace that:

- Karl was always there to help her, and it was to him that/who she now turned for support.
- ‘Carol’s seriously ill in hospital.’ ‘But it was only last Sunday when/that I was playing tennis with her.’
- It was in Bristol where/that the film was made.
- ‘Was it by cutting staff that he managed to save the firm?’ ‘No, it was by improving distribution that he made it profitable.’ (not ...how he made it profitable.)

Focusing with what-clauses

B

If we want to focus particular attention on certain information in a sentence, we sometimes use a what-clause followed by be. Sentences with this pattern are another form of cleft sentence. This pattern is particularly common in conversation. The information we want to focus attention on is outside the what-clause. Compare:

- We gave them some home-made cake. and
- What we gave them was some home-made cake.

We often do this if we want to introduce a new topic; to give a reason, instruction or explanation; or to correct something that has been said or done. In the following examples, the information in focus is in italics:

- What I’d like you to work on is exercise two on page 38.
- Tim arrived two hours late: what had happened was that his bicycle chain had broken.
- ‘We’ve only got this small bookcase – will that do?’ ‘No, what I was looking for was something much bigger and stronger.’

We can often put the what-clause either at the beginning or the end of the sentence:

- What upset me most was his rudeness. or His rudeness was what upset me most.

To focus attention on an action performed by someone, we use a sentence with what + subject + do + be + to-infinitive clause. We can’t use an it-clause to do this (see A):

- Dave lost his job and was short of money, so what he did was (to) sell his flat and move in with his brother. (not ...so it was (to) sell his flat that he did.)

Notice that the ‘to’ in the infinitive can be omitted.

C

The pattern in B is only usually used with what-clauses. Instead of placing other wh-clauses (beginning how, when, where, who, why) at the beginning of the sentence we prefer to use a noun which has a meaning related to the wh-word (e.g. reason rather than why; place rather than where) followed by a that- or wh-clause. Here are some examples:

- The only reason (why/that) I left the party early was that I was feeling unwell. (rather than Why I left the party early was...)
- The place (where/that) you should play football is the playground, not the classroom. (rather than Where you should play football is...)
- Somebody (who/that) I enjoy reading is Peter Carey. (not Who I enjoy reading is...)
- The time (when/that) I work best is early morning. (rather than When I work best is...)

- 98.1 Rewrite the sentences to focus attention on the underlined information. Start with it + be and use an appropriate wh-word or that. (A)
- 1 Mark's known for ages that his parents are coming to stay with us this weekend, but he only told me yesterday. Mark's known for ages that his parents are coming to stay with us this weekend, but... it was only yesterday that/when he told me.
 - 2 Caroline has been feeling a bit depressed for some time, so I booked a holiday in Amsterdam to cheer her up. Caroline has been feeling a bit depressed for some time, so...
 - 3 It's not that I don't want to have dinner with you tonight; I can't come because I've got so much work to do. It's not that I don't want to have dinner with you tonight; ...
 - 4 I had my wallet when I went into the sports hall, so I lost it somewhere in there. I had my wallet when I went into the sports hall, so...
 - 5 She doesn't find learning languages very easy, and she improved her Spanish only by studying very hard. She doesn't find learning languages very easy, and...
 - 6 I have had great help from my parents and two brothers in doing my research, and I dedicate this thesis to my family. I have had great help from my parents and two brothers in doing my research, and...
- 98.2 Give responses beginning No, what..., correcting what was said in the question, as in 1. Use the notes in brackets to help. (B)
- 1 'Did you say that Bernard was going to live in Austria?' (holiday/ Austria)
'No, what I said was that he was going on holiday to Austria.'
 - 2 'Do you hope to sell your Picasso paintings?' (be put into/ public art gallery)
.....
 - 3 'Did it annoy you that Clare came so late?' (not apologise)
.....
 - 4 'Did you mean to give Erica your bike?' (could borrow it/ until needed again)
.....
- Now give similar responses which focus on the action, as in 5.
- 5 'Did you watch the football on TV last night?' (get brother/ video it/ watch tonight)
'No, what I did was (to) get my brother to video it and I'll watch it tonight.'
 - 6 'This steak tastes delicious. Did you fry it?' (put oil and soy sauce on/ grill)
.....
 - 7 'Did you buy Sue the coat she wanted?' (give/ money towards it)
.....
 - 8 'Did you fly from Sydney to Brisbane.' (hire a car/ drive all the way)
.....
- 98.3 Write a sentence using one of the phrases in C opposite and the information in brackets. You need to put the information in the right order and add an appropriate form of be. (C)
- 1 'I suppose Paul got the job because of his qualifications.' (uncle owns company)
'Well, actually, I think... the reason why/that Paul got the job was that his uncle owns the company.'
 - 2 'Do you know anyone who could mend my computer?' (might be able/ help/ Saleh)
I don't know if he's free, but...
 - 3 'You grew up in this village, didn't you?' (between this village and next)
In fact...
 - 4 'In what period of your life do you think you were happiest?' (lived Australia)
I suppose...

Inversion (1)

A

In statements it is usual for the verb to follow the subject, but sometimes this word order is reversed. We can refer to this as inversion. There are two main types of inversion: when the verb comes before the subject (inversion is often optional), and when the auxiliary comes before the subject and the rest of the verb phrase follows the subject (inversion is usually necessary):

- Her father stood* in the doorway. → In the doorway stood her father. (or ... her father stood.)
- He had rarely seen* such a sunset. → Rarely had he seen such a sunset. (not Rarely he had seen...)

Inversion brings about fronting, the re-ordering of information in a sentence to give emphasis in a particular place. Often this causes an element to be postponed until later in the sentence, focusing attention on it.

B

In conversation we use Here comes + noun and There goes + noun, with inversion of verb and subject, to talk about things and people moving towards or away from the speaker:

- Here comes the bus. There goes Nigel Slater, the footballer.

Here comes... is also used to say that something is going to happen soon, and There goes... is used to talk about things (particularly money) being lost and to say that something (such as a phone or door bell) is ringing:

- Here comes lunch. My bike's been stolen! There goes £100!
- There goes the phone. Can you answer it?

We also put the verb before the subject when we use adverbs expressing direction of movement, such as along, away, back, down, in, off, out, up with verbs such as come, fly, go. This pattern is found particularly in narrative, to mark a change in events:

- The door opened and in came the doctor. (less formally ... and the doctor came in.)
- As soon as I let go of the string, up went the balloon, high into the sky. (less formally ...the balloon went up...)
- Just when I thought I'd have to walk home, along came Miguel and he gave me a lift. (less formally ... Miguel came along and gave me...)

For more on inversion after adverbs of place and direction, see Unit 76A.

C

We can use clauses with inversion instead of certain kinds of if-clause (see Unit 83). Compare:

- | | |
|---|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> It would be a serious setback, if the talks were to fail . <input type="checkbox"/> If you should need more information, please telephone our main office. <input type="checkbox"/> If Alex had asked , I would have been able to help. | <input type="checkbox"/> It would be a serious setback, were the talks to fail . <input type="checkbox"/> Should you need more information, please telephone our main office. <input type="checkbox"/> Had Alex asked , I would have been able to help. |
|---|--|

The sentences with inversion are rather more formal than those with 'if'. Notice that in negative clauses with inversion, we don't use contracted forms:

- Had the plane not been diverted, they would have arrived early. (not Hadn't the plane...)

D

In formal written language we commonly use inversion after as and than in comparisons:

- The cake was excellent, as was the coffee. (or ...as the coffee was.)
- I believed, as did my colleagues, that the plan would work. (or ...as my colleagues did...)
- Research shows that parents watch more television than do their children. (or ...than their children do.)

Notice that we don't invert subject and verb after as or than when the subject is a pronoun:

- We now know a lot more about the Universe than we did ten years ago. (not ...than did we ten years ago.)

99.1 Complete the sentences with an appropriate adverb and a form of either come or go. (B)

- 1 We'd just got to the top of the hill when down came the rain and we got thoroughly soaked.
- 2 Just when you've bought a computer that you think will last a lifetime, some new software that needs an even bigger hard disk.
- 3 Whenever I ask the class a question, their hands and they sit patiently until I choose one of them to answer.
- 4 I asked Dave to get three kilos of potatoes from the supermarket and he only bought one, so he to get some more.
- 5 After I'd been waiting for an hour, the door opened and the nurse, who said the dentist would be able to see me now.
- 6 We'd given up hope of getting the cat out of the tree, when a man with a ladder.
- 7 As soon as I'd given Jo some pocket money, she to buy sweets from the shop.

99.2 Match the most likely sentence halves and then make new sentences beginning Were...,

Should..., or Had... (C)

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 If McGrath had not resigned as party leader, ... | a it would cut the journey time from New York to Tokyo by 4 hours. |
| 2 If you do not wish to receive further information about our products, ... | b there are less expensive models in the range. |
| 3 If the plane were ever to be built, ... | c he would have been sacked. |
| 4 If United win again today, ... | d I would have no hesitation in accepting. |
| 5 If I were to be asked to take the job, ... | e he would be writing novels about the homeless in London. |
| 6 If a car had been coming in the other direction, ... | f it is unlikely that the country would have supported the government. |
| 7 If there had been a referendum on the issue, ... | g it will be their tenth consecutive victory. |
| 8 If you are not able to afford the Rombus 2000, ... | h put a tick in the box. |
| 9 If Charles Dickens were alive today,... | i I might have been seriously injured. |
- 1 + c Had McGrath not resigned as party leader, he would have been sacked.

99.3 Write new sentences using as or than + be or do. (D)

- 1 Compared with their counterparts 20 years ago, the highly educated now receive vastly higher salaries.
The highly educated now receive vastly higher salaries than did their counterparts 20 years ago.
- 2 I was opposed to the new road being built. Everyone else in the village was opposed to it, too.
I was opposed...

People in poorer countries...
- 5 Compared to 5 years ago, he is a much better teacher.
He is...
- 6 Don is a keen golfer. His wife is a keen golfer, too.
Don is...

Inversion (2)

Inversion after negative adverbials

In formal and literary language in particular, we use negative adverbials at the beginning of a clause. The subject and first auxiliary are inverted, and do is used with a simple tense verb after –

- ☆ the time adverbials never (before), rarely, seldom; barely/hardly/scarcely...when/before; no sooner...than:
 - Seldom do we have goods returned to us because they are faulty.
 - Hardly had everybody taken their seats when Dr Smith began his lecture.
- ☆ only + a time expression, as in only after, only later, only if, only once, only then, only when:
 - She bought a newspaper and some sweets at the shop on the corner. Only later did she realise that she'd been given the wrong change.
 - Only once did I go to the opera the whole time I was in Italy.
 - Only when she apologises will I speak to her again.
- ☆ only + other prepositional phrases beginning only by..., only in..., only with..., etc.:
 - Only by chance had Jameson discovered where the birds were nesting.
 - Mary had to work in the evenings and at weekends. Only in this way was she able to complete the report by the deadline.
- ☆ expressions such as at no time, in no way, on no account, under/in no circumstances:
 - At no time did they actually break the rules of the game.
 - Under no circumstances are passengers permitted to open the doors themselves.
- ☆ expressions with not..., such as not only, not until, not since, not for one moment and also not a + noun:
 - Not until August did the government order an inquiry into the accident.
 - Not a word had she written since the exam had started.
- ☆ little with a negative meaning:
 - Little do they know how lucky they are to live in such a wonderful house. (= 'they don't know' or 'they don't know sufficiently')
 - Little did I realise that one day Michael would become famous. (= 'I didn't realise' or 'I didn't realise sufficiently')

Notice that inversion can occur after a clause beginning only after/if/when or not until:

- Only when the famine gets worse will world governments begin to act.
- Not until the train pulled into Euston Station did Jim find that his coat had gone.

B

Inversion after so + adjective... that; such + be...that; neither.../nor...

We can use so + adjective at the beginning of a clause to give special emphasis to the adjective. When we do this, the subject and first auxiliary are inverted, and do is used with a simple tense verb. Compare:

- Her business was so successful that Marie was able to retire at the age of 50. and
- So successful was her business, that Marie was able to retire at the age of 50.
- The weather conditions became so dangerous that all mountain roads were closed. and
- So dangerous did weather conditions become, that all mountain roads were closed.

We can use such + be at the beginning of a clause to emphasise the extent or degree of something. Compare:

- Such is the popularity of the play that the theatre is likely to be full every night. and
- The play is so popular that the theatre is likely to be full every night.

We use inversion after neither and nor when these words begin a clause to introduce a negative addition to a previous negative clause or sentence:

- For some time after the explosion Jack couldn't hear, and neither could he see.
- The council never wanted the new supermarket to be built, nor did local residents.

Notice that we also use inversion in Neither/Nor do I, Neither/Nor does Kate (etc.) and in So do I, So does Becky (etc.)

100.1 Write new sentences with a similar meaning beginning with one of these words and phrases. (A) only if barely only with rarely at no time little

1 A new film has not often before produced such positive reviews.

Rarely has a new film produced such positive reviews.

2 The public was never in any danger.

3 He only felt entirely relaxed with close friends and family.

4 The match won't be cancelled unless the pitch is frozen.

5 I didn't know then that Carmen and I would be married one day.

6 He had only just entered the water when it became clear he couldn't swim.

Now do the same using these words and phrases. (A) only once only in on no account hardly not only not for one moment

7 You must not light the fire if you are alone in the house.

8 There was never any competitiveness between the three brothers.

9 I wasn't only wet through, I was freezing cold.

10 I had only ever climbed this high once before.

11 The audience had only just taken their seats when the conductor stepped on to the stage.

12 He has only been acknowledged to be a great author in the last few years.

100.2 Complete these sentences in any appropriate way. You can use the following words in your answers. (B) alike boring complicated dominance interest strength

1 Such is the interest in Dr Lowe's talk that it will be held in a bigger lecture theatre.

2 Such that few buildings were left standing in the town.

3 Such that he hasn't lost a match for over three years.

4 So that even their parents couldn't tell them apart.

5 So that it even took a computer three days to solve it.

6 So that most of the students went to sleep.

100.3 Correct any mistakes you find in this newspaper item. (Units 99 & 100)

TOWN EVACUATED AS FOREST FIRES APPROACH

The people of Sawston were evacuated yesterday as forest fires headed towards the town. Such the heat was of the oncoming inferno that trees more than 100 metres ahead began to smoulder. Only once in recent years, during 1994, a town of this size has had to be evacuated because of forest fires. A fleet of coaches and lorries arrived in the town in the early morning. Into these vehicles the sick and elderly climbed, before they headed off to safety across the river. Residents with cars left by mid morning, as all non-essential police officers did.

Hardly the evacuation had been completed when the wind changed direction and it became clear that the fire would leave Sawston untouched. Soon after that were heard complaints from some residents. "At no time the fires posed a real threat," said one local man. "I didn't want to leave my home, and nor most of my neighbours did." So upset some elderly residents are that they are threatening to complain to their MP. But Chief Fire Officer Jones replied, "Hadn't we taken this action, lives would have been put at risk. Only when the fires have moved well away from the town residents will be allowed to return to their homes."

Grammar review

A TENSES (→ Units 1–8)

Present continuous (→ Units 1, 2 & 8)

- A1 ‘Who are you phoning?’ ‘I’m trying to get through to Helen.’
We use the present continuous to talk about particular events or activities that have begun but have not ended at the time of speaking. The event or activity is in progress at the present time, but not necessarily at the moment of speaking.
- A2 She’s doing voluntary work with young children until she starts her university course.
We use the present continuous to suggest that an event or activity is or may be temporary.

(For the present continuous for the future, see B7 & Unit 10.)

Present simple (→ Units 1, 2 & 8)

- A3 Trees grow more quickly in summer than in winter.
We use the present simple with verbs describing states or situations that are always true or continue indefinitely.
- A4 This cake tastes wonderful. Where did you buy it?
We use the present simple with states or situations (thoughts, feelings) that exist at the present moment.
Verbs generally used to talk about states include *agree, appreciate, attract, *desire, *doubt, expect, hate, hope, like, love, *prefer, *regret (to do with emotions, attitudes, and preferences); anticipate, assume, *believe, consider, expect, feel, find, imagine, *know, realise, think, understand (mental states); ache, hear, *notice, see, *smell, sound, *taste (senses and perception); *belong to, *consist of, *constitute, *contain, cost, *differ from, have, look, *mean, measure, *own, *possess, *resemble, seem, weigh (‘being’, ‘having’*, etc.).
The verbs marked * are rarely used with continuous tenses (but can be if we mean actions rather than states).
- A5 Do you go to Turkey every year for your holidays?
We use the present simple to talk about habits or regular events or actions.

(For the present simple for the future, see B6 & Unit 10.)

Past simple (→ Units 3, 4, 5 & 8)

- A6 Kathy left a few minutes ago.
A7 Jim continued the course even though it was proving very difficult.
We use the past simple to refer to a completed action or event in the past or to talk about situations that existed over a period of time in the past, but not now. We can either say when something happened, using a time adverbial (e.g. a few minutes ago: A6), or assume that the listener or reader already knows when it happened or can understand this from the context (A7).
- A8 I saw my grandparents every week as a child.
We use the past simple to talk about repeated past actions.

(For the past simple in conditionals, see M12 & M13 and Unit 83.)

Present perfect (→ Units 3, 6 & 8)

- A9 We can’t have a meeting, because so few people have shown any interest.
A10 My ceiling has fallen in and the kitchen is flooded. Come quickly!
A11 We have belonged to the tennis club since we moved here.
A12 Lee has represented his country on many occasions, and hopes to go on to compete in the next Olympics.
We use the present perfect to talk about a past action, event or state, when there is some kind of connection between what happened in the past, and the present time.

Often we are interested in the way something that happened in the past affects or is relevant to the situation that exists now (A9). However, the connection with the present may also be that the action happened recently with a consequence for the present (A10), that it continues until the present time (A11), or that a repeated event in the past may (or may not) happen again (A12).

Past continuous (→ Units 4, 7 & 8)

- A13 When he realised I was looking at him, he turned away.

We use the past continuous to talk about a situation (...I was looking at him...) that started before a particular point in the past (...he turned away) and was still in progress at that point.

Past perfect (→ Units 5, 7 & 8)

- A14 When I went into the bathroom, I found that the bath had overflowed.

- A15 By 10 o'clock most people had gone home.

We use the past perfect to talk about a past event that took place before another past event (A14), or before or up to a particular time in the past (A15).

(For the past perfect in conditionals, see M14 & Unit 83.)

Present perfect continuous (→ Units 6 & 8)

- A16 Since the operation two months ago, Joe has been learning to walk again. He can already take one or two steps unaided.

- A17 Your eyes are red – have you been crying?

We use the present perfect continuous to talk about an activity in progress in the past for a period until now, which is still in progress (A16) or has recently finished (A17).

Past perfect continuous (→ Units 7 & 8)

- A18 When I saw the vase in the shop window, I knew it was exactly what I had been looking for.

We use the past perfect continuous to talk about a situation or activity that was in progress over a period up to a particular past point in time.

B

THE FUTURE (→ Units 9–14)

Will + infinitive (→ Unit 9)

- B1 It's late. I think I'll go to bed now.

- B2 I think you'll enjoy the film.

We use will when we state a decision made at the moment of speaking (B1) and when we say that we think something is likely to happen in the future (B2).

- B3 I'll make one of my special desserts for dinner, if you like.

- B4 I've asked her to join us this evening, but she won't.

We use will (or 'll) when we talk about willingness to do something in the future (e.g. in offers (B3), invitations, requests, and orders) and will not (or won't) when we talk about unwillingness to do something in the future (e.g. reluctance, refusal (B4)).

Be going to + infinitive (→ Unit 9)

- B5 'Has anybody offered to look after the children?' 'Jo's going to do it.'

We use be going to when we state a decision made some time before we report it. Going to is often preferred in informal spoken English (where it is often pronounced /gənə/) and will is preferred in more formal contexts.

Present simple for the future (→ Unit 10)

- B6 The next train to Newcastle leaves at 3.45. [station announcement]

We use the present simple to talk about future events that are part of some official arrangement such as a timetable or programme. A time expression is usually used with the present simple for the future (...at 3.45) unless the time referred to is already clear from the context.

Present continuous for the future (→ Unit 10)

- B7 We're having a party next Saturday. Can you come?

We use the present continuous to talk about future activities and events that are intended or have already been arranged. Usually a personal pronoun is used (We...) and a future time is mentioned (...next Saturday) or already understood.

Future continuous (→ Unit 11)

- B8 After the operation you won't be doing any sport for a while.

We use the future continuous to talk about an activity or event happening at a particular time or over a particular period in the future. We usually mention the future time (After the operation...).

C MODALS & SEMI-MODALS (→ Units 15–20)

The modal verbs are: will, would, can, could, may, might, shall, should, must. Modal verbs have meanings relating to ideas such as possibility, likelihood, prediction, necessity, permission and obligation. They do not have to-infinitive, -s, -ing or past participle forms. They are often followed by the bare infinitive of another verb (e.g. She might go) but can also be used on their own (e.g. Yes, I can). They cannot be followed directly by a to-infinitive, an -ing form, a past participle, or another modal verb. In questions they come before the subject (e.g. Could you help?) and before not in negatives (e.g. He won't (= will not) help). The semi-modals are: ought to, used to, need, dare, had better, have (got) to, be able to. These have meanings like modal verbs but not the same formal features: for example, some can be marked for tense (e.g. have/had (got) to); some have non-modal uses (e.g. She needs a rest).

Can, could and be able to (→ Unit 15)

- C1 A polyglot is someone who can speak several different languages.

- C2 Anita could speak three languages before she was six.

- C3 Martha couldn't swim until she was ten.

When we say that someone or something has or doesn't have the ability to do something, we use can('t) (for the present; C1) or could(n't) (for the past; C2, C3).

- C4 'Why isn't Tim here yet?' 'It could be because his mother's ill again.'

We use could, not can, to say there is a possibility of something happening or being true.

- C5 Despite yesterday's snowfalls, we were able to drive home in less than an hour.

We can use be able to instead of can or could to talk about ability. We prefer be able to when we talk about a specific achievement (particularly if it is difficult, requiring some effort; C5) rather than a general ability. Where there is a choice, in speech we generally prefer can or could rather than be able to.

- C6 After the trees have been cut back, we will be able to see more of the garden from the sitting room.

We use will be able to, not can, to say that something is possible in the future on condition that something is done first.

- C7 We can/are allowed to stay up late on Fridays and Saturdays because we don't have to go to school the next day.

We use can for the present or the future and could for the past to report permission.

We can also use be allowed to.

Will, would and used to (→ Unit 16)

- C8 Will/Won't you have another biscuit? ('Won't you...?' is a very polite and rather formal offer)

- C9 'John wants to borrow the car.' 'He will not.' (a firm refusal)

- C10 You will now put your pens down and pay attention. (a firm instruction)

We use will and will not (won't) to talk about (un)willingness (see B3–4) and also to make offers (C8), requests, refusals (C9), and to give instructions (C10).

- C11 You should apply for the job. You would have a good chance of getting it.
We can use would to make a prediction about an imaginary situation; that is, about something that may or may not happen (see also M13).
- C12 Would you like me to get you some water?
We can use Would you like... when we make an offer, but not 'Will you like...'. In requests, too, we can say I would like..., but not 'I will like...'. We can use should (with I or we) instead of would in requests like this, but this is formal.
- C13 We would/used to lend him money when he was unemployed.
- C14 I used to live in a flat in Paris.
- To talk about things that happened repeatedly in the past, but don't happen now, we can use would or used to + infinitive (C13). Used to is more common in informal English. We can use used to but not would to talk about permanent past states (C14). Notice how we normally make questions and negatives with use to in spoken English: 'Did your children use to sleep well when they were babies?'; 'I didn't use to like visiting the dentist when I was young.' Many people avoid using used to in questions and negatives without do ('Used you to...?', 'I usedn't to...?') and in question tags (..., usedn't you?) because it sounds very formal and old-fashioned.

may, might, can and could (→ Units 15 & 17)

- C15 If the drought goes on much longer, there may/might/could be water rationing before the end of the month.
- C16 Her parents may/might/could have influenced her decision to resign.
In affirmative sentences (that is, sentences which are not questions or negatives) we use may, might, or could with a similar meaning to say that there is a possibility of something happening or being true (C15). Can is not used in this way. We sometimes prefer could to show that we are giving an opinion about which we are unsure. We use may/might/could + have + past participle to say that it is possible that something happened in the past (C16).
- C17 'While we're in Leeds shall we go and see Mark?' 'But it's been nearly 20 years since we last saw him. He may not/might not remember us.'
- C18 I think I saw her go out, so she can't/couldn't be at home.
In negative sentences, including sentences with words like only, hardly, or never, we use may not or might not to say it is possible that something is not true (C17), and can't or couldn't to say that it is not possible that something is true (C18).
- C19 Coats may be left in the cloakroom.
May (not 'might') is used in formal contexts to say that something is allowed. May not is used to say that things are not allowed (e.g. Calculators may not be used in the examination.).

must and have (got) to (→ Unit 18)

- C20 That's really good news. I must tell Steve straight away.
- C21 'Can we meet on Thursday morning?' 'Sorry, no. I have to go to the dentist at 11.00.'
When we say that it is necessary to do something, we use must or have (got) to. Sometimes it doesn't matter which we use, although have got to is less formal than either must or have to and is particularly common in spoken English. However, we use must when we want to indicate that the speaker decides that something is necessary (C20) and we use have (got) to to suggest that someone else or some outside circumstances or authority makes something necessary (C21).
- C22 She was bruised quite badly in the accident. It must hurt a lot.
We normally use must, not have (got) to, when we conclude that something (has) happened or that something is true .
- C23 'I'm seeing Dr Evans next week.' 'That can't be right. He's on holiday then.'
When we give a negative conclusion we rarely use must not or have (got) to. Instead, we use can't (cannot) or couldn't.

- C24 When I went to school I had to learn Latin.
To say that something was necessary in the past we use had to, not must.
- need(n't), don't have to and mustn't (→ Units 18 & 19)
- C25 He didn't cook the meal himself so you needn't/don't have to eat it all. He won't be offended.
- C26 You mustn't put anything on the shelves until the glue has set hard.
We use needn't (or don't need to) or don't have to to say that something is not necessary (C25) and mustn't to say that something is not allowed (C26).
- C27 I didn't have to/didn't need to have an interview because I'd worked there before.
- C28 I needn't have cooked dinner. Just as it was ready, Chris and June phoned to say that they couldn't come to eat.
When we say that it was not necessary to do something in the past, and it wasn't done, we use didn't need to or didn't have to (C27). To show that we think something that was done was not in fact necessary we use need not (needn't) have (C28).

should, ought to and be supposed to (→ Unit 20)

- C29 You'll catch cold if you go out like that. I think you should/ought to take a hat.
- C30 I enjoyed her first novel, so the new one should/ought to be good.
We can often use should or ought to with little difference in meaning when we talk about obligation (e.g. in giving advice, making recommendations, or talking about a responsibility, (C29) and the probability of something happening or being true (C30).
- C31 The work was supposed to start/should have started/ought to have started last week.
- C32 Walking under a ladder is supposed to be unlucky.
(Be) supposed to can be used instead of should/ought to to express a less strong obligation than should (C31). It is also used to report what many people think is true, but should/ought to are not used in this way (C32).

D PASSIVES (→ Units 22–25)

Passive verb forms have one of the tenses of the verb to be and a past participle. Passive verb forms are summarised in Appendix 1. The choice between an active and passive sentence allows us to present the same information in two different orders. Compare:

|--|---|
| active <input type="checkbox"/> The storm damaged the roof. | passive <input type="checkbox"/> The roof was damaged. <input type="checkbox"/> The roof was damaged by the storm. |
| This sentence is about the storm , and says what it did. The subject (The storm) is the 'agent' and the object (the roof) is the 'done to'. | These sentences are about the roof and say what happened to it (in the first sentence) and what did it (in the second). The subject (The roof) is the 'done to'. If it is mentioned, the agent (the storm) goes in a prepositional phrase with by after the verb. |

- D1 The building survived the earthquake but then was destroyed by a fire.
Verbs which take an object (transitive verbs) can have a passive form (...was destroyed). Verbs which do not take an object (intransitive verbs) do not have passive forms (The child vanished..., but not 'The child was vanished...').
However, many verbs can be used at different times with and without objects – that is, they can be both transitive and intransitive. Compare: 'Are they meeting him at the airport?' (transitive) and 'Is he being met at the airport?' (passive); 'When shall we meet?' (intransitive; no passive possible)
- D2 I'm really disappointed. I didn't get picked/wasn't picked for the team again.
- D3 The house was owned by an elderly couple before I bought it.
In spoken language we often use get + past participle (...didn't get picked...) instead of a passive form (...wasn't picked...) to talk about actions or events that we see as negative (D2). Note, however, that we can also use it to talk about positive actions and events (e.g. Great news – I got picked for the team again!). We don't normally use get + past participle to describe states (D3).

E QUESTIONS (→ Units 26 & 27)

Question forms are summarised in Appendix 2.

- E1 What happened to your eye?

If we use what, which, who or whose as the subject, we don't use do in the question (E1). However, notice that we can sometimes use do when what, which, who or whose is the subject if we want to add emphasis, or to contrast with what has been said or implied. Do is stressed in spoken English: 'Come on, be honest – who did tell you?' Don't confuse whose with who's (short for either who is or who has), which are pronounced the same.

- E2 I've got orange juice or apple juice. Which would you prefer?

- E3 He just turned away when I asked him. What do you think he meant?

In these questions the wh-word is the object. We prefer which when we are asking about an identified group or range of things or people (E2), and we use what when the possible range of reference is open (E3). Sometimes, however, we can use either which or what with little difference in meaning (e.g. What/Which towns do we go through on the way?).

- E4 Haven't you finished your homework yet?

- E5 Why didn't she pay for the meal?

- E6 Who wouldn't like to own an expensive sports car?

We can use negative yes/no or wh-questions to make a suggestion, to persuade someone, to criticise, or to show that we are surprised, etc. We make a negative yes/no or wh-question with an auxiliary verb (have, did, would, etc.) + -n't (E4, E5, E6). We can also ask a negative question using a negative statement and a positive 'tag' at the end (e.g. We don't have to leave just yet, do we?). Negative questions can be used to sound polite when giving an opinion (e.g. Shouldn't we offer her a lift?).

F VERB COMPLEMENTATION: WHAT FOLLOWS VERBS (→ Units 28–31)

- F1 She described the attacker to the police.

- F2 They arrived at the restaurant an hour late.

- F3 He gave me a biscuit.

Some verbs (e.g. describe in F1) are followed by an object (...the attacker...). These are called transitive verbs. Other verbs that are usually transitive include arrest, avoid, do, enjoy, find, force, get, grab, hit, like, pull, report, shock, take, touch, want, warn. Some verbs (e.g. arrive in F2) are not usually followed by an object. These are called intransitive verbs. Other verbs that are usually intransitive include appear, come, fall, go, happen, matter, sleep, swim, wait. If a verb can't be followed by an object, it can't be made passive. Some verbs (e.g. give in F3) are commonly followed by two objects (me and a biscuit in F3). Other verbs that are commonly followed by two objects include lend, offer, pay, sell, tell, throw.

A good dictionary will list the meanings of verbs and for each meaning tell you whether each meaning is intransitive, transitive and, if transitive, whether it is followed by one or by two objects.

- F4–13 Many verbs can be followed by another verb in the form of a to-infinitive (e.g. refuse to eat), -ing (e.g. avoid working), bare infinitive (e.g. help carry). Note that when to comes after a verb it can be part of a to-infinitive (= to + the base form of a verb; e.g. He wants to go, She hopes to win) or it can be a preposition followed by a noun phrase (e.g. He went to the theatre) or by an -ing form (e.g. He admitted to having a gun). An -ing form often behaves like an object (e.g. I regret leaving).

Here is a summary of common patterns together with examples of verbs that are used in this pattern. Note that many verbs can be used in several different patterns, and that some of the verbs given can be used just with an object, and may also be used intransitively (e.g. He failed to stop, He failed the test, He failed).

|---|--|
| | F4 <input type="checkbox"/> They won't agree to pay for the damage. |
| Verb + to-infinitive | agree, aim, ask, decline, demand, fail, hesitate, hope, hurry, manage, offer, plan, prepare, refuse, want, wish |
| | F5 <input type="checkbox"/> Stevens admitted stealing the wallet. |
| Verb + -ing | admit, avoid, consider, delay, deny, detest, dread, envisage, feel like, finish, imagine, miss, recall, resent, risk, suggest |
| | F6 <input type="checkbox"/> Before we began eating/to eat my father thanked everyone for coming. |
| Verb + to-infinitive or -ing with little difference in meaning | begin, cease, continue, start |
| | F7 <input type="checkbox"/> She came hurrying up the path to bring us the news. F8 <input type="checkbox"/> How did you come to buy the car? |
| Verb + to-infinitive or -ing but with a difference in meaning | come, go on, mean, regret, remember, stop, try |
| | F9 <input type="checkbox"/> My parents wouldn't allow me to go to the party. |
| Verb + object + to-infinitive (= there must be an object) | allow, believe, cause, command, consider, enable, encourage, entitle, force, invite, order, persuade, show, teach, tell, warn |
| | F10 <input type="checkbox"/> I would hate (her) to give the job up. |
| Verb + (object) + to-infinitive (= there may be an object) | hate, help, like, love, need, prefer, want, wish, |
| | F11 <input type="checkbox"/> The police caught him driving without a licence. |
| Verb + object + -ing (= there must be an object) | catch, discover, feel, find, hear, leave, notice, observe, overhear, see, spot |
| | F12 <input type="checkbox"/> I can't stand (him) wearing a suit. |
| Verb + (object) + -ing (= there may be an object) | can't stand, detest, dislike, dread, envisage, hate, imagine, like, love, mind (in questions and negatives), miss, recall, regret, remember, resent, risk, start, stop |
| | F13 <input type="checkbox"/> She felt the mosquito bite/biting her. |
| Verb + object + bare infinitive or -ing, but there is sometimes a difference in meaning | feel, hear, notice, observe, overhear, see, watch |

G

REPORTING (→ Units 32-39)

When we report speech in a different context from the one in which it was originally produced, we sometimes need to make changes to the original words. Of course, differences between the original speech context and the one in which it is reported will influence whether changes are needed and what they should be. Here are some possible changes:

- G1 'Jim's arriving later today.' → She said that Jim was arriving later that day.
 G2 'I was sure I'd left it here.' → He said that he was sure he'd left it there/on the table.
 G3 'I grew these carrots myself.' → He told me that he had grown those carrots himself.

The tense we choose for a report is one that is appropriate at the time that we are reporting what was said or thought. This means that we sometimes use a different tense in the report from the one that was used in the original statement (G1 & G3) and change pronouns, references to time and place, and words such as this, that, and these (G1-G3).

- G4 Martha told me (that) she would be late for the meeting.
 G5 She said (that) she was feeling ill.
 G6 I said to John (that) he had to work harder.
 G7 She told me about her holiday in Finland.

Say and tell are the verbs most commonly used to report statements. We use an object after tell (...me..., G4), but not after say (G5). Notice, however, that we can use to + object after say (...to John..., G6), but not after tell, and that we can report what topic was talked about using tell + object + about (G7).

H

NOUNS (→ Units 40-43)

Countable and uncountable nouns

- H1 The equipment was faulty.

Nouns can be either countable or uncountable. Countable nouns are those which can have the word a/an before them or be used in the plural. Uncountable nouns are not used with a/an or in the plural. Some nouns in English are normally uncountable (like equipment), while in many other languages they are countable. For example: accommodation, advice, applause, assistance, baggage, camping, cash, chaos, chess, clothing, conduct, courage, cutlery, dancing, dirt, employment, equipment, evidence, fun, furniture, harm, health, homework, housing, housework, information, jewellery, leisure, litter, luck, luggage, machinery, money, mud, music, news, nonsense, parking, pay, permission, photography, poetry, pollution, produce, progress, publicity, research, rubbish, safety, scenery, shopping, sightseeing, sunshine, transport, underwear, violence, weather, work.

- H2 The company is/are doing a lot of business in South America.

Sometimes a noun is used uncountably when we are talking about the whole substance or idea (e.g. business), but countably when we are talking about units or different kinds (e.g. businesses). There are many nouns like this, including beer, coffee, water, fruit, toothpaste, washing powder, cake, chicken, land, paint, space, stone, abuse, (dis)agreement, business, difficulty, fear, improvement, language, life, pain, protest, responsibility, success, thought, war. Here are some examples: Three coffees and a lemonade, please. – Brazil is a major producer of coffee.; Most toothpastes contain colourings. – Don't forget to buy some toothpaste.; The chickens have escaped. – I don't eat chicken.; I have a fear of spiders – He was trembling with fear.

- H3 The use of recycled paper is saving thousands of trees from being cut down each year.

Some nouns (such as paper) usually have different meanings when they are used countably and uncountably. Other nouns like this include accommodation, competition, glass, grammar, iron, jam, lace, property, room, sight, speech, time, tin, work. Here are some examples: I just don't understand grammar. – I looked the answer up in a grammar (= a reference book); I got held up in a jam (= traffic jam). – This jam is really sweet. (Note that 'jams' can also be used to mean types of jam); She made a wonderful speech at the wedding. – His speech has been affected by the illness.

Compound nouns (→ Unit 43)

- H4 How much pocket money do you give to your children?
 H5 A new golf course/golf-course is being built outside the town.

A compound noun (such as pocket money) is an expression made up of more than one word, which functions as a noun in a sentence. For example, we can use a noun + noun combination to say what something is made of, where something is, when something happens, or what someone does: rice pudding, a glasshouse, the kitchen cupboard, hill fog, a night flight, a morning call, a language teacher, a window-cleaner. We sometimes make compounds from nouns which consist of more than two nouns: a milk chocolate bar, an air-traffic controller, a dinner-party conversation.

Some compound nouns are usually written as one word (e.g. a tablecloth), some as separate words (e.g. waste paper), and others with a hyphen (e.g. a word-processor). Some compound nouns can be written in more than one of these ways (e.g. a golf course or a golf-course; H5). A good dictionary will tell you how a particular compound noun is usually written.

- H6 She got some chewing gum stuck on her shoe.
 Some compound nouns consist of -ing + noun as in: chewing gum, a living room, drinking water, (a pack of) playing cards, a dressing gown, a turning-point, a working party. The -ing form usually says what purpose the following noun has. Other compound nouns consist of a noun + -ing: fly-fishing, film-making, sunbathing, risk-taking, life-saving. These compounds usually refer to actions or processes.

The possessive form of nouns

- H7 The girls' shoes were covered in mud, so I asked them to take them off before they got into Tom's car.
 To make the possessive form of nouns in writing – referring to people or groups of people (e.g. companies), other living things, places, times, etc. – we add 's ('apostrophe s') to singular nouns and to irregular plurals that don't end in -s (e.g. Tom's car; the college's administrators; the women's liberation movement) and add ' (an apostrophe) to regular plurals (e.g. the girls' shoes; the companies' difficulties). To make the possessive form of names ending in -s pronounced /z/ we can add either ' or 's (e.g. It's Tom Jones' (or Tom Jones's) new sports car).

- H8 That old car of Jo's is falling apart.
 H9 It belongs to a friend of his.

We can use the pattern noun + of + 's (H8)/ possessive pronoun (H9) to talk about something that someone owns or about a relationship. Notice that when we are talking about relationships between people we can also use a noun without 's (e.g. an uncle of Mark's (or an uncle of Mark)).

- H10 We're going to Linda's (house) for the evening.
 The noun following a possessive form can be left out when we talk about someone's house. We don't use 'shop' when we talk about, for example, the newsagent's/the chemist's or the newsagent/the chemist (but not 'the newsagent's shop'/'the chemist's shop') where the name of the shop includes the name of the person who works there (compare 'the sweet shop', but not 'the sweet's').
- H11 David's guitar playing has improved enormously.
 H12 The construction of the office block was opposed by protestors.
 Often we can use the possessive 's or ...of + noun... with very little difference in meaning. However, in general, we are more likely to use the possessive form of a noun when the noun refers to a particular person or group of people (H11); and when we are talking about time (e.g. next year's holiday prices, rather than the holiday prices of next year).

We are more likely to use the ...of + noun... form with an inanimate noun (H12); when we are talking about a process, or a change over time (e.g. the establishment of the committee, rather than the committee's establishment); and when the noun is a long noun phrase (e.g. She is the sister of someone I used to go to school with. rather than She is someone I used to go to school with's sister.).

I ARTICLES, DETERMINERS AND QUANTIFIERS (→ Units 44–52)

Determiners are words such as this, her, and your which determine or specify what a noun or noun phrase refers to. They come before the noun and at the front of the noun phrase. Quantifiers are words such as some, much, and few which identify the quantity of something. Some words can be both determiners and quantifiers (e.g. 'I sent out invitations to a few friends' [few = determiner] and 'A few of my friends came to the party' [few = quantifier]) while some are determiners only (e.g. 'This is my friend Andrew' [my = determiner]). Many determiners and quantifiers can be pronouns, taking the place of a noun phrase (e.g. I've invited all my friends and most are coming [most = pronoun]). Articles (a/an and the) are determiners. They also specify what the noun refers to and come at the beginning of the noun phrase. However, they cannot be quantifiers or pronouns.

The (→ Units 45–47)

- I1 Dorothy took a cake and some biscuits to the party, but only the biscuits were eaten.
- I2 Can you shut the door after you, please?
- I3 We had a good time on holiday. The beaches were all beautifully clean.
- I4 Give it to the man wearing the red coat.
- I5 Look at the moon. It's very bright tonight.

We use the with singular, plural or uncountable nouns when we expect the listener or reader to be able to identify the thing or person we are referring to in the following noun. It may be that the thing has already been mentioned (I1); that it is clear from the situation which person or thing we mean (I2); that it is in some other way understandable from the context which thing or person we mean (I3; 'the beaches' = 'the beaches we went to'); that the thing or person is identified in what is said after the noun (I4; 'wearing the red coat'); or that there is only one of a particular thing (I5 and also, for example, the Great Wall of China, the North Pole, the USA, the world).

A/an (→ Units 44–47)

- I6 Helen's just bought a house on Wilson Street.
- I7 Sydney is a beautiful city.

We use a/an with singular nouns when we don't expect the listener or reader to be able to identify the thing or person we are referring to in the following noun. We often use a/an to introduce a new specific person or thing (I6); or when the noun refers to a class of people or things generally – for example, when we describe someone or something or say what type of thing someone or something is (I7).

Zero article (→ Units 45–47)

- I8 [-] Water has got into my camera and damaged it.
- I9 There are [-] examples of the present continuous tense on page 32.

We use zero article [-] with uncountable and plural nouns when we talk generally about people or things rather than about specific people or things. We might talk about a whole class of things in a general way (I8) or about an indefinite number or amount (I9).

Some (→ Unit 48)

Some and any are used with plural and uncountable nouns, usually when we are talking about limited, but indefinite or unknown, numbers or quantities of things.

- I10 Peter gave me some advice.
- I11 Hasn't some information about the proposal been sent out already? I thought I read about it last week.

- I12 Shall I send you some details?

We generally use some: in affirmative sentences (sentences which are not negatives or questions) (I10); in questions where we expect agreement or the answer 'Yes' (I11); in offers and requests in order to sound positive, expecting the answer 'Yes' (I12). If it is used in this way some is pronounced with its weak form /səm/.

- I13 Some teachers never seem to get bored with being in the classroom.

We use some to talk about particular, but unspecified, people or things with the implication 'some, but not all'. If it is used in this way some is pronounced with its strong form /sʌm/.

- I14 I haven't been here for some years.

We use some (pronounced /sʌm/) when we mean quite a large amount of, or a large number of something. Notice that we can say 'some years, months, weeks, etc.' or just 'years, months, weeks, etc.' with a similar meaning.

Any (→ Unit 48)

- I15 We haven't got any butter left.

- I16 Do you have any better ideas?

- I17 Any student could have answered the question.

We generally use any: in sentences with a negative meaning (I15); in questions where we don't necessarily expect agreement or the answer 'Yes' (I16); when we mean 'all (of them), and it's not important which' (I17).

- I18 If you see any cherries in the shop, can you buy them?

- I19 Any questions should be sent to the manager.

We commonly use any: in 'if' clauses (I18; note that 'some' is possible, but would seem to expect that you will see cherries); when any means 'if there is/are' (I19; = If there are questions...).

Anyone, someone, etc.

- I20 Joseph lives somewhere in Denmark.

- I21 I've never seen anybody that tall before.

The rules for the use of the following words are generally the same as those given in I10–I19 for some and any: the pronouns someone/anyone, somebody/anybody, something/anything, (notice that somebody = someone, and anybody = anyone), and the adverbs somewhere/anywhere. For example, some- words are generally used in affirmative sentences (I20), and any- words are generally used in sentences with a negative meaning (I21).

Quantifiers with and without 'of': any (of), some (of), much (of), many (of), both (of), all (of) each (of), none (of), few (of), little (of) (→ Units 48–52)

- I22 Many of Bob's closest friends are women.

- I23 Some of my jewellery is missing.

We usually need to put of after quantifiers when there is a possessive form (I22), pronoun (I23) or determiner (I24) before a noun. Notice, however, that in informal contexts after both and all we can leave out of before the, these, those (and this or that with all; I25); my, your, her, his, etc.; and mine, yours, etc., but not before them, you, or us (I26) (or it with all). We don't use of after a quantifier immediately before a noun (I27/28).

No, none (of), neither (of), either (→ Unit 49)

- I29 There's no train until tomorrow.
 I30 No information was given about how the study was conducted.
 I31 She had no shoes on.
 I32 Have we got any more sugar? There's none in the kitchen.
 I33 'How many children have you got?' 'None'.
 We use the determiner no to mean 'not a' or 'not any' before a singular (I29), uncountable (I30), or plural noun (I31). Before the, my, this, etc. we use the quantifier none (of) to mean 'not any' (I32). If it is clear from the context what we mean, we can use the pronoun none (I33).
 I34 None of the furniture has arrived yet.
 When we use none of with an uncountable noun the verb must be singular. However, when we use none of with a plural noun the verb can be either singular or plural (e.g. None of the parcels have/has arrived yet), although the singular form is more grammatical.
 I35 Neither of his parents could drive.
 We use neither of instead of none of when we are talking about two people or things.
 I36 You could catch the 10.05 or the 10.32. Either train gets you there in good time.
 I37 Has either of them passed their driving test yet?
 When we use either as a determiner (I36), it is followed by a singular countable noun. If this is the subject of the sentence, it is followed by a singular verb. We use either of with plural nouns and pronouns (I37). Note that either can also be used as an adverbial as in 'We can either take the train or go by bus' and 'I had no wish to go, and Les didn't want to go either'.

Much (of), many (of), a lot of, lots (of) (→ Unit 50)

- I38 There isn't much traffic along the street where I live.
 I39 Will you be taking many suitcases on the trip?
 Much and many are used to talk about quantities and amounts. Much is used with uncountable nouns (I38) and many with plural nouns (I39). Before the, my, this, etc. we use much of/ many of. Much of can also be used with a singular countable noun to mean 'a large part of' (e.g. Much of the national park was destroyed in the fire.). We can use much and many without a noun if the meaning is clear (e.g. Can you get some sugar when you go shopping? There isn't much left.). Much and many are often used after as, how, so, and too (e.g. I'd say there were twice as many women at the meeting as men.).
 I40 She didn't show much interest in what I said.
 I41 John offered me a lot of money for the car.
 I42 Many of my relatives live around Wolverhampton.
 Much (of) and many (of) are used in negative sentences to emphasise that we are talking about small (or smaller than expected) quantities or amounts (I40) and in questions to ask about quantities or amounts (e.g. Have you got much homework to do?). In affirmative sentences we often use a lot of, lots of or plenty of rather than much (of) and many to talk about large amounts and quantities, particularly in conversation and informal writing (I41). However, many of is common in affirmative sentences in both formal and informal contexts (I42).

All (of) (→ Unit 51)

- I43 There is heating in all (of) the bedrooms in the house.
 We use all or all of when we are talking about the total number of things or people in a group, or the total amount of something. In informal contexts we can leave out of.
 I44 Everyone was waiting to hear the results.
 In modern English we don't use all without a noun to mean 'everyone' or 'everything'. However, all can mean 'everything' when it is followed by a relative clause (e.g. I don't agree with all that he said. (= everything that he said)). We can also use all without a noun to mean 'the only thing' (e.g. All she wants to do is help.).

Each/every (→ Unit 51)

- I45 Every newspaper had the same front page story.
 I46 Following the flood, every building in the area needs major repair work.
- We can use each and every with singular countable nouns (I45), and each of with plural nouns, to mean all things or people in a group of two or more (each (of)) or three or more (every). We use a singular verb (...needs...) after each (of) and every (I46). However, when each follows the noun or pronoun it refers to, the noun/pronoun and verb are plural (e.g. Every student is tested twice a year. They are each given a hundred questions to do.).

(A) few (of), less (of), (a) little (of) (→ Unit 52)

- I47 A few of the boys were very good footballers.
 I48 There is little evidence to support his claim.
- We use (a) few (of) with plural countable nouns (I47) and (a) little (of) with uncountable nouns (I48).
- I49 There's a lot less water in the lake than last year.
 I50 The holiday cost less than I thought it would.
- We use less (of) with uncountable nouns (I49) or in a general sense (I50).
- I51 I've got a few close friends that I meet regularly.
 I52 He has few close friends and often feels lonely.
- We often use a few and a little in a 'positive' way (I51); for example, to suggest that a small amount or quantity is enough, or to suggest that it is more than we would expect. We often use few and little in a 'negative' way (I52); for example, to suggest that the amount or quantity is not enough, or is surprisingly low. Compare 'A few of her songs were popular and she was very well known' (= 'positive') and 'Few of her songs were very popular and eventually she gave up her musical career' (= 'negative'). This use of few and little is often rather formal.

JRELATIVE CLAUSES AND OTHER TYPES OF CLAUSE (→ Units 53–59)

Relative clauses have a similar function to adjectives in that they give more information about someone or something referred to in a main clause. Participle clauses (-ing and -ed clauses) can be used like relative clauses, but can also have an adverbial function, giving information about time, cause, etc.

Relative clauses (→ Units 53–55)

- J1 Andrew stopped the police car that was driving past.
 J2 My mother, who is in her seventies, enjoys hill walking.

Defining relative clauses (e.g. ...that was driving past; J1) are used to specify which person or thing we mean, or which type of person or thing we mean. Notice that we don't put a comma between the noun and a defining relative clause.

Non-defining relative clauses (e.g. ..., who is in her seventies, ...; J2) are used to add extra information about a noun, but this information is not necessary to explain which person or thing we mean. We don't use them often in everyday speech, but we do use them frequently in written English. Notice that we often put a comma before and after a non-defining relative clause.

- J3 The house, which is to the north of the road, is owned by the council.
- After a relative clause, we don't repeat the subject with a pronoun; so, for example, we wouldn't say 'The house which is to the north of the road it is owned by the council'. However, this is sometimes found in informal speech; for example, 'A friend of mine who is a solicitor – she helped me.'

-ing clauses (= present participle clauses) (→ Units 58 & 59)

- J4 Glancing over his shoulder, he could see the dog chasing him.

- J5 Pushing her way through the crowds, she just managed to get on the bus as it pulled away.

- J6 ‘Wait a minute,’ said Frank, running through the door.

We can use an -ing clause to talk about something that takes place at the same time as (J4) or just before (J5) an action in the main clause. We often use an -ing clause in written narrative after quoted speech, when we want to say what someone was doing while they were talking (J6).

Note that the understood subject of -ing and -ed (see J8) clauses should be the same as the subject of the main clause. For example, in J4, ‘he’ is the unstated subject of ‘Glancing over his shoulder...’.

- J7 Knowing exactly what I wanted, I didn’t spend much time shopping.

-ing clauses can be used to talk about reasons and results. This sentence has a similar meaning to ‘Because I knew exactly what I wanted, I didn’t spend much time shopping’.

-ed clauses (= past participle clauses) (→ Units 58 & 59)

- J8 Annoyed by the boys’ behaviour, she complained to the head teacher.

We can use an -ed clause to talk about something that happened before an action in the main clause. Often the event in the -ed clause causes the event in the main clause.

K

PRONOUNS, SUBSTITUTION AND LEAVING OUT WORDS (→ Units 60–65)

Reflexive pronouns (→ Unit 60)

- K1 ‘What did you do to your hand?’ ‘I cut myself when I was chopping vegetables.’

When the subject and object of a sentence refer to the same person or thing, we use a reflexive pronoun as the object of a sentence rather than a personal pronoun. The singular forms of reflexive pronouns are myself, yourself, herself, himself, itself; the plural forms are ourselves, yourselves, themselves.

- K2 We phoned the plumber and he came himself.

- K3 My sister drew the picture herself.

- K4 I was given this book by the author herself.

We can use reflexive pronouns for emphasis: for example, after an intransitive verb (K2) to emphasise the subject; after a transitive verb (K3) to emphasise that something is done without help; or after a noun to emphasise that noun (K4).

each other/one another

- K5 They tried to avoid each other/one another at the party.

- K6 John and Carmen first met (each other/one another) when they were working in Spain.

Some verbs, such as avoid (K5), can be used to describe actions in which two or more people or things do the same thing to the other(s). We use each other or one another with these. Other verbs like this include attract, complement, face, help, and repel. After the verbs embrace, fight, kiss, marry and meet we can use each other or one another, but this may be omitted when the subject is plural or has the form ‘...and...’ (K6).

- K7 The scheme allows students from many countries to communicate with each other/with one another.

- K8 We looked at each other/one another and started to laugh.

With some verbs we have to use a preposition, often with, before each other/one another (K7). Verbs like this include agree, coincide, collaborate, communicate, compete, contrast, co-operate, disagree, joke, mix, quarrel, talk. Note that we can also use compete against, talk to, and look at before each other/one another (K8).

- K9 The two children each blamed the other for breaking the window.

For emphasis we can separate each and other. This sentence is more emphatic than ‘The two children blamed each other...’.

Substitution (→ Units 61–63)

- K10 I had a racing bike when I was young, and so did my brother.
- K11 ‘Amy loves ice cream.’ ‘So do I.’
- K12 ‘I didn’t think much of the restaurant.’ ‘Neither did I.’

We can use so + auxiliary verb + subject to say that a second person does the same things as the person already mentioned (K10 & K11). The corresponding negative form uses neither (K12), nor ('Nor did I'), or not...either ('I didn't either'). We often use this to avoid repetition (e.g. in K12 we use 'Neither did I' rather than 'I didn't think much of the restaurant either').

L ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS (→ Units 66–78)Gradable and non-gradable adjectives (→ Units 67–68)

- L1 They live in a very large house.
- L2 Our teacher gave us an absolutely impossible problem to solve.

Most adjectives describe qualities that can be measured or graded, and so can be used in comparative and superlative forms and with words such as 'very' or 'extremely'. These are referred to as gradable adjectives (for example, 'large' in L1). Some adjectives are not gradable because they refer to qualities that are completely present or completely absent. These non-gradable adjectives (such as 'impossible' in L2) are not usually used in comparative and superlative forms or with words such as 'very' or 'extremely'. They can often, however, be used with words such as 'absolutely' or 'completely'.

Order of adjectives

- L3 I drank some very good Brazilian coffee.

When we use more than one adjective before a noun, there is often a preferred (although not fixed) order for these adjectives depending on what type of adjective they are: opinion + size/physical quality/shape/age + colour + participle adjectives + origin + material + type + purpose + NOUN. Here are some examples showing the most likely order: an old plastic container (= age + material + noun); a hard red ball (= quality + colour + noun); a frightening Korean mask (= opinion + origin + noun); a round biscuit tin (= shape + purpose (for holding biscuits) + noun); a small broken plate (= size + participle adjective + noun); a useful digital alarm clock (= opinion + type + purpose + noun).

To help you to learn this order, it can be useful to remember that gradable adjectives (describing opinion, size, quality, shape, and age) usually precede ungradable adjectives (participle adjective and adjectives describing origin, material, type and purpose).

Easily confused adjectives

- L4 I was surprised to find that the film was quite frightening.

When we use the following adjectives to describe how a person feels about something or someone else, generally the -ed adjectives describe how the person feels (e.g. I was surprised...), and the -ing adjectives give an evaluation of the thing or other person (e.g. ...the film was quite frightening.): alarmed – alarming, amazed – amazing, bored – boring, excited – exciting, frightened – frightening, interested – interesting, pleased – pleasing, surprised – surprising, tired – tiring, worried – worrying.

Adjectives and adverbs: use (→ Unit 71)

- L5 The staff in the shop always speak politely to customers.
- L6 It was strangely quiet as we went into the room.

We use an adverb, not an adjective, to say how something happened or was done (L5) or to modify adjectives (L6).

Adjectives and adverbs: comparative and superlative forms (→ Unit 72)

- L7 The building was bigger than I'd expected.
 L8 It was the most ridiculous thing to say.

We usually add the ending -er to one-syllable adjectives and adverbs to make their comparative forms (L7) and -est to make their superlative forms. With three or more syllables we usually add more/less and most/least (L8). With two syllables we can usually use either.

Quite

- L9 I was quite satisfied with the result.
 L10 No, you're quite wrong!
 L11 The food here is quite superb.

Quite has two meanings: to a particular degree, but not 'very' (= 'fairly') (L9); and to a large degree, or 'very much' (= 'completely') (L10). When quite is used with non-gradable adjectives it means 'completely' (L11).

MADVERBIAL CLAUSES & CONJUNCTIONS (→ Units 79-87)

An adverbial clause is a type of subordinate clause, linked to a main clause. An adverbial clause adds extra information to the main clause about such things as time and conditions. Most adverbial clauses begin with a conjunction that indicates their link with the main clause. Example conjunctions are after, before, and until (time conjunctions); and if and unless (conditional conjunctions).

Tenses in adverbial and main clauses: general

- M1 Because I'm overweight, my doctor has put me on a diet.
 M2 I felt unwell when I got up this morning.

The verb in the adverbial clause is usually the same tense as the verb in the main clause. In M1 they are both present (present simple + present perfect), and in M2 they are both past (past simple + past simple).

Time clauses: tenses (→ Unit 79)

- M3 Have something to eat before you leave.
 To refer to the future after a time conjunction (...before...) we use present tenses.
 M4 As soon as you see have seen her, come and tell me.
 M5 She wrote to me after she spoke had spoken to Jim.

To talk about an action in the adverbial clause that is completed before another action described in the main clause, we can use either simple or perfect tenses (present as in M4 or past as in M5), but not will or will have + -ed (the future perfect).

- M6 When I saw Kim, I asked her over for dinner.
 If the actions in the main clause and the adverbial clause take place at the same time, we use simple, not perfect tenses.
 M7 While the children were swimming, their mother kept a watchful eye on them.
 M8 I read a book while I waited.

While is mainly used with continuous tenses (M7) and also with simple tenses (M8).

Conditional clauses (→ Units 83-86)Real and unreal conditionals (→ Units 83 & 84)

Some conditional clauses beginning with if suggest that a situation is real – that is, the situation is or was true, or may have been or may become true (e.g. If anyone phones, tell them I'll be back at 11.00; If you really want to learn Italian, you need to spend some time in Italy). Others suggest that a situation is unreal – that is, the situation is imaginary or untrue. (e.g. What would you do if you won the lottery?; If you had started out earlier, you wouldn't have been so late).

Compare: If I go to Berlin, I'll travel by train. (= real conditional) and If I went to Berlin, I'd travel by train. (= unreal conditional). In the first, the speaker is thinking of going to Berlin (it is a real future possibility), but in the second, the speaker is not thinking of doing so. The second might be giving someone advice.

Real conditionals: tenses (→ Units 83 & 84)

- M9 I'll give you a lift if it rains.
- M10 If you leave now, you'll be home in two hours.
- M11 If water freezes, it expands.
- M12 If I made the wrong decision then I apologise.

In real conditionals we use a present tense to talk about the future (M9), the present (M10) or unchanging relationships (M11), and past tenses to talk about the past (M12).

Unreal conditionals: tenses (→ Units 83 & 84)

- M13 If my grandfather was/were still alive, he would be a hundred today.
To talk about present or future situations in unreal conditionals, we use a past tense (either simple or continuous) in the if-clause and would + bare infinitive in the main clause. In unreal conditionals we don't use the past simple or past perfect in the main clause. In unreal conditionals, we can also use could/might (have) instead of would (have) (e.g. If my grandfather was/were still alive, he might have enjoyed looking after our garden; If I lived out of town, I could take up horse riding.). Notice that we sometimes use if...were instead of if...was (see Unit 85).
- M14 If I had known how difficult the job was, I wouldn't have taken it.
When we talk about something that might have happened in the past, but didn't, then we use if + past perfect and would have + past participle in the main clause. We can also use might/could have instead of would have in the main clause (e.g. They might have found a better hotel if they had driven a few more kilometres.).
- M15 If Bob wasn't so lazy, he would have passed the exam easily.
- M16 If the doctor had been called earlier, Mary would still be alive today.
In some unreal conditionals we use mixed tenses. That is, a past tense in the if-clause and would have + past participle in the main clause (M15), or a past perfect in the if-clause and would + infinitive in the main clause (M16). We can use these patterns to talk about possible consequences if situations were or had been different. We can also use might/could (have) in the main clause instead of would (have) (e.g. ...he could have passed the exam easily.; ...Mary might still be alive today.).
- M17 If I had a more reliable car, I'd drive to Spain rather than fly.
In unreal conditional sentences we don't normally use would in an if-clause (but see Unit 84).

Other types of adverbial clause give information about place (M18), contrast (M19 and Unit 82), cause or reason (M20 and Unit 80), purpose (M21 and Unit 81), and result (M22 and Unit 81):

- M18 Can you put it back where you found it, please?
- M19 My sister is blonde, whereas my brother has dark hair.
- M20 He wasn't allowed in because he was too young.
- M21 We got up early so that we could watch the sunrise.
- M22 He played so badly that he was easily beaten.

Glossary

active

In an active clause or active sentence, the grammatical subject is the person or thing that performs the action given in the verb (e.g. Geoff wrote the book). Compare PASSIVE.

adjective

We can't say 'It's very impossible'). Classifying adjectives say that something is of a particular type (e.g. atomic, initial). Emphasising adjectives stress how strongly we feel about something (e.g. complete nonsense). Qualitative adjectives say what qualities a person or thing has (e.g. big, rich). See also grading ADVERBS and non-grading ADVERBS.

adjective phrase

A group of words where the main word is an adjective (e.g. it's extremely important; it wasn't strong enough).

adverb

A word that describes or gives more information (when, how, where, etc.) about a verb (e.g. He ran quickly), adjective (e.g. an extremely expensive car), another adverb (e.g. She did it very easily), or phrase (e.g. They live just across the road.). Types of adverb include: adverbs of manner (e.g. slowly, violently) which we use to say how something is done; connecting adverbs (e.g. consequently, similarly); time adverbs (e.g. tomorrow, already); place adverbs (e.g. upstairs, outside); direction adverbs (e.g. backwards, through); comment adverbs (e.g. apparently, personally) which we use to make a comment on what we are saying; viewpoint adverbs (e.g. financially, politically) which we use to make clear from what point of view we are speaking; adverbs of indefinite frequency (e.g. always, never); degree adverbs (e.g. completely, quite) which give information about the extent or degree of something; focus adverbs (e.g. just, even) which we use to focus on a particular word or phrase. Grading adverbs (e.g. extremely, very) are used with gradable ADJECTIVES. Non-grading adverbs (e.g. completely, mainly) are used with non-gradable ADJECTIVES.

adverbial

A word or group of words that says when, how, where, etc. something happens. They may consist of an ADVERB (e.g. quietly), a PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE (e.g. through the door), a NOUN PHRASE (e.g. next week), or an ADVERBIAL CLAUSE (e.g. after she left).

adverbial clause

A type of subordinate CLAUSE that says when, how, where, etc. something happens (e.g. Before I went to school this morning, I did my homework).

A main clause can exist as a separate sentence, while a subordinate clause cannot (e.g. If I see Tony at work [= subordinate clause], I'll invite him over this evening [= main clause]). Types of clause include: since-clause (e.g. I haven't seen him since we left school); that-clause (e.g. She said that she was thirsty); wh-clause (e.g. I asked Sandra where she was going); it-clause (e.g. It's not surprising that you're feeling cold); what-clause (e.g. What I want to do is buy a better computer); if-clause (e.g. If you leave now, you'll be home by 10.00); whether-clause (e.g. You have to take the exam whether you want to or not); to-infinitive clause (e.g. To become a doctor takes years of study); present participle (-ing) clause (e.g. Feeling hungry, I went into the kitchen); past participle (-ed) clause (e.g. Built during the 1950s, the building is now in need of repair); being + past participle (-ed) clause (e.g. Being unemployed, Tom had a lot of time on his hands); having + past participle (-ed) clause (e.g. Having seen the doctor, I went straight home). See also CONDITIONAL CLAUSE, NON-FINITE CLAUSE, RELATIVE CLAUSE.

complement

A word or phrase that follows a LINKING VERB and describes the SUBJECT (e.g. Linda is a lawyer) or OBJECT (e.g. I found the food inedible). A complement may also be an ADVERBIAL or PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE which completes the meaning of a verb. Some verbs need a complement (e.g. The disease originated in Britain; 'The disease originated' would be incomplete).

conditional

A conditional clause usually starts with 'if', but other patterns are possible (e.g. Had it not rained, England would have won). A conditional sentence contains a conditional clause. A distinction can be made between real conditionals, which suggest that the situation is or was true, or may have been or may become true (e.g. If she makes a promise, she keeps it) and unreal conditionals, which suggest that the situation is imaginary or untrue (e.g. If you had asked me, I would have helped).

conjunction countable

A countable noun can be both singular and plural (e.g. cup/cups). An uncountable noun doesn't have a plural form (e.g. electricity, but not 'electricities').

declarative sentence

A declarative sentence is a statement. In a declarative sentence the subject is followed by the verb.

determiner

A word that goes in front of a noun to identify what the noun refers to (e.g. this, some, the, a/an, each, all, my). Possessive determiners (also called possessive adjectives) are words such as my, your and their.

imperative

An imperative clause uses the bare INFINITIVE form of a verb for such things as giving orders and making suggestions (e.g. Go to bed!).

infinitive

The form of a verb that usually goes after 'to'. The form can be either the to-infinitive (e.g. to sing, to eat) or the bare infinitive (e.g. sing, eat).

intransitive verb

inversion

Changing the usual word order so that the verb comes before the subject (e.g. Up went the balloon).

linking verb

A verb (e.g. be, become, appear) that connects a SUBJECT with its COMPLEMENT.

modal verbs

A group of verbs (can, could, dare, may, might, must, need, ought to, shall, should, will, would, used to) that give information about such things as possibility, necessity, and obligation. Semi-modal verbs (ought to, used to, need, dare, had better, have (got) to, be able to) have similar meanings to modal verbs.

non-affirmative

Referring to a lack of positive, affirmative meaning; for example, in most questions and negatives.

However, questions which expect a positive reply are affirmative. The terms 'non-assertive' and 'assertive' are sometimes used for 'non-affirmative' and 'affirmative'.

non-finite clause

A clause with a non-finite VERB; either a to-infinitive form (e.g. I want to leave soon), an -ing (present participle) form (e.g. I caught him stealing my camera), or -ed (past participle) form (e.g. We cleared up the mess left after the party).

The indirect object is the person or thing who benefits from the action or who receives something (e.g. I gave my mother [= indirect object] some flowers [= direct object]). Compare SUBJECT.

participle

The present participle is the -ing form of a verb (e.g. walking, singing, eating) used, for example, in continuous tenses. The past participle is the -ed form of a verb (e.g. walked, sang, eaten) used, for example, in perfect tenses. A participle adjective is one formed from the present or past participle of a verb (e.g. the candidates applying, a broken plate). A participle clause has a present participle or past participle verb form (e.g. Feeling unwell, he went to bed; The person appointed to the post will have a difficult job to do).

particle

An adverb or preposition that follows a verb in TWO-WORD VERBS and THREE-WORD VERBS (e.g. What time did you get in? [in = adverb]; I flicked through the magazine [through = preposition]; She looks up to her mother [up = adverb, to = preposition]).

A performative is a verb which states the action that is performed when a speaker uses the verb (e.g. I promise I'll do it tomorrow; I apologise).

phrasal verb

A verb together with a following adverb and/or a preposition that has a single meaning (e.g. set off, look up to). Compare 'I ran across Tanya at the concert' (= met unexpectedly; a phrasal verb) and 'She ran across the road' (= a PREPOSITIONAL VERB).

A group of words that consists of a PREPOSITION and its prepositional object (a noun, pronoun, noun phrase or -ing form) (e.g. behind our house, across it).

prepositional verb

A verb and a following preposition (e.g. believe in, consist of, look after). Compare PHRASAL VERB.

pronoun

A word that is used instead of a noun or noun phrase. Pronouns include personal pronouns (e.g. I, she, me), reflexive pronouns (e.g. myself, herself), possessive pronouns (e.g. my, mine, your, yours), and RELATIVE PRONOUNS (e.g. who, which).

quantifier

A word or phrase that goes before a noun or noun phrase to talk about the quantity of something (e.g. a little water, many of the women in the room).

question

A wh-question begins with a WH-WORD (e.g. Where are you going?). A yes/no question is one that can be answered with 'yes' or 'no' (e.g. Do you like coffee?). An echo question repeats part of a previous utterance and asks for a repetition of all or part of it (e.g. 'I'm moving to Alaska.' 'You're moving where?'). We can ask an indirect question by putting it into a subordinate CLAUSE beginning with a WH-WORD or with if or whether (e.g. Can you tell me where you live?).

relative clause

A kind of subordinate CLAUSE that describes a noun that comes before it in a main CLAUSE. A defining relative clause says which person or thing is being talked about (e.g. A friend who lives in London is getting married). A non-defining relative clause gives more information about the noun (e.g. My bicycle, which I've left outside your house, is over 20 years old). A nominal relative clause begins with a WH-WORD or whatever, whenever, etc. and functions as a NOUN PHRASE in a sentence (e.g. What I need now is a long, hot bath). A reduced relative clause usually begins with an -ing (present participle) or -ed (past participle) form and has a similar meaning to a relative clause (e.g. I met the people living in our old house [= ...who live in our old house], The new rules only affect people born before 1950 [= ...who were born before 1950]).

relative pronoun

A pronoun such as who, which, or that which is used at the beginning of a relative clause.

relative word

Words including RELATIVE PRONOUNS and others (e.g. whereby, why) that can begin a RELATIVE CLAUSE.

reported speech

Speech that is reported without using the exact words of the speaker. Sometimes called ‘indirect speech’.

reporting clause & reported clause

A statement that reports what people think or say is often divided into a reporting clause and a reported clause (e.g. She said [= reporting clause] that the building was unsafe [= reported clause]).

reporting verb

A verb used in a REPORTING CLAUSE that describes what people say or think (e.g. ask, claim, say).

sentence connector

A word or phrase that shows a connection between two separate sentences (e.g. My car isn’t very comfortable. However, it’s very cheap to run.; The house is large and has a beautiful garden. What’s more, it’s very close to the station.). Compare CONJUNCTION.

simple sentence

A sentence consisting of one clause.

state verb

A verb that is used to describe a state (e.g. believe, think) rather than an action. Compare DYNAMIC VERB.

subject

The person or thing that does the action of the verb (e.g. Tommy went home). Compare OBJECT.

subjunctive

The subjunctive is a set of verb forms used mainly in rather formal English to talk about possibilities rather than facts. The present subjunctive uses the base form of the verb (e.g. We suggest that she leave immediately) and the past subjunctive uses were (e.g. If I were you, I’d go home now).

transitive verb

A verb that takes an object (e.g. She was holding a bunch of flowers). Compare INTRANSITIVE VERB.

two-word verbs & three-word verbs

Verbs that are commonly used with a particular PARTICLE (adverb or preposition) are referred to here as two-word verbs (e.g. She looked after her elderly parents). Verbs that are commonly used with two particular particles (adverb + preposition) are referred to here as three-word verbs (e.g. He looked up to his older brothers). See also PREPOSITIONAL VERB and PHRASAL VERB.

verb

A finite verb has a tense (e.g. She waited; She is waiting for you). Non-finite verb forms are INFINITIVE (e.g. He came to see me) and PARTICIPLE forms (e.g. Shouting loudly, I was able to make myself heard; Built in 1980, the tower is still the tallest construction in Europe).

verb phrase

A group of words consisting of one or more verbs (e.g. gives, is giving, has been giving).

wh-words

A group of words (who, whom, whose, where, when, why, how) that are used in wh-QUESTIONS.

Appendix 2

Basic question forms

- 1 If a verb phrase includes an auxiliary verb, the auxiliary verb comes before the subject:
 - Are they leaving soon?
 - Where will you stay?
- 2 If a verb phrase includes more than one auxiliary verb, only the first comes before the subject:
 - Has she been doing her homework?
 - What should we have told Jack?
- 3 In present and past simple tenses of verbs (apart from be), we use do or did:
 - Does he enjoy school?
 - Where did you go on holiday?
- 4 If be is used in a verb phrase without another verb, the verb comes before the subject:
 - Are you happy at work?
 - Where was Jack today?
- 5 If we use what, which, who or whose as the subject, we use the same word order as in a statement with the subject before the verb phrase:
 - What made that noise?
 - Who can tell me the answer to question 5?

Appendix 3 Quoting what people think or what they have said

A You put single ('...') or double ("...") quotation marks at the beginning and end of a report of someone's exact spoken or written words. This is often referred to as direct speech:

- 'It's a pity you can't come this weekend.'
- "I'm really hungry. I fancy a cheese sandwich."

B If there is a reporting clause (e.g. she said, exclaimed Tom) after the quotation, you put a comma before the second quotation mark:

- "I think we should go to India while we have the opportunity," argued Richard.

If you are quoting a question or exclamation, you use a question mark or exclamation mark instead of a comma:

- "Can I make an appointment to see the doctor?" asked Bill.
- 'You must be mad!' yelled her brother.

If the reporting clause comes within the quotation, you put a comma before the second quotation mark of the first part of the quotation, a comma at the end of the reporting clause, and you start the second part of the quotation with a lower case (not a capital) letter:

- "It tastes horrible," said Susan, "but it's supposed to be very good for you."

If the second part of the quotation is a new sentence, you put a full stop at the end of the reporting clause, and start the second part of the quotation with a capital letter:

- "You should go home," Sandra advised. "You're looking really ill."

If the reporting clause comes before the quotation, you put a comma at the end of the reporting clause, and a full stop (or question or exclamation mark) at the end of the quotation:

- John said, "Put them all on the top shelf."

A colon is sometimes used at the end of the reporting clause instead of a comma:

- She stood up and shouted to the children: "It's time to go home!"

C When you quote what a person thinks, you can either use the conventions described in A and B, or separate the quotation from the reporting clause with a comma (or colon) and leave out quotation marks:

- "Why did she look at me like that?" wondered Mary.
- Perhaps the door is open, thought Chris.
- Suddenly she thought: Could they be trying to trick me?

The people of Sawston were evacuated yesterday as forest fires headed towards the town. Such was the heat of the oncoming inferno that trees more than 100 metres ahead began to smoulder. Only once in recent years, during 1994, has a town of this size (inversion is likely in this written context) had to be evacuated because of forest fires. A fleet of coaches and lorries arrived in the town in the early morning. Into these vehicles climbed the sick and elderly (inversion is likely in this written context), before they headed off to safety across the river. Residents with cars left by mid morning, as did all non-essential police officers.

Hardly had the evacuation been completed when the wind changed direction and it became clear that the fire would leave Sawston untouched. Soon after that complaints were heard from some residents. "At no time did the fires pose a real threat," said one local man. "I didn't want to leave my home, and nor did most of my neighbours." So upset are some elderly residents that they are threatening to complain to their MP. But Chief Fire Officer Jones replied, "Had we not taken this action, lives would have been put at risk. Only when the fires have moved well away from the town will residents be allowed to return to their homes."

The texts are stored in a database that can be searched to see how English is used. The CIC also includes the Cambridge Learner Corpus, a unique collection of over 50,000 exam papers from Cambridge ESOL. It shows real mistakes students make and highlights the parts of English which cause problems for students.
